Titanic Power Is Depicted in "The Storm Breaker"

If you like the sea with its cruelty and beauty, if you wish to get away from the ordinary play of society life and the hustle of cities, if you appreciate great acting and wonderful photography, then, by all means, see "The Storm Breaker" Universal-Jewel production starring House Peters which will be shown at the Star theatre starting Friday. You will not regret going, for you will see one of the most forceful and thrilling picture play of the year.

House Peters has scored many triumphs during his stage and screen career, but it is safe to say that this splendid actor has never equalled what he has done with the character of John Strong. Dominant and domineering, supplementing his great strength with an equally strong courage, denying the power of God and man, Strong, in the acting of Peters makes you want to crush John Strong, he makes you laugh with him and toward the end he makes you sympathize with him. Only a great actor can do all this, and such is House Peters.

Peters has been provided with a splendid supporting company of players. Ruth Clifford comes to us again in one of the two leading femine roles. She had a difficult part but handles it with ease and understanding. Nina Romano signalizes her return to pictures by showing that she has lost nothing by her year or more of rest. She is cast in the other leading femine character and plays the robust fishing girl with dignity and simplicity. She also proves that fine clothes are not necessary to make a great actress. Ray Hallor is convincing and understandable in a role that could easily be over-drawn. Others in the large cast whose work in deserving of mention are Jere Austin, Gertrude Claire, Lionel Belmore, Emmett King, William J. Colvin, Ed. Roberts, Lon Poff and Mark Fenton.

"The Storm Breaker" is rich in effective sea composition and the atmosphere of the fishing villages. Edward Sloman, who directed this great picture, has caught the spirit of the story and given us a wonderfully thrilling and realistic picture. "The Storm Breaker" is from Charles Guernon's famous story of the same name.

"Where Was I" At Arcade Is Film Full of Costly Fun

There is a world of great humor in "Where Was I?" the Universal-Jewel starring Reginald Denny, which is coming to the Arcade theatre Friday and Saturday.

There is also an unusual story with wonderful opportunities for the manufacturing of laughs. William Seiter, director, has turned out a finished product, according to those who have seen this riotous Denny-drama.

Chester Conklin, Lee Morgan, Otis Harlan, Pauline Garon, Marian Nixon, Arthur Lake and James Corrigan all contribute to the general comedy of the piece.

No expense in elaborate sets was spared in the filming of this picture. An entire interior of a mansion was built, a subway was constructed and a whole wing of an office building was put up. Six automobiles were completely wrecked and a taxicab was incapacitated for all future use.

The story concerns the troubles of a young man trying to find out where he was on a certain date. Lee Morgan and Chester Conklin, two of the screen's funniest comedians are the ones who help him on the search.

Miss Garon plays the part of the lady plotter and Miss Nixon has the role of Denny's sweetheart.

Rin-Tin-Tin's Nine Puppies with Him In Film at Sherrys

Interesting use of actual coincidence is apparent in connection with the production of the new Warner Bros. photoplay, "Tracked in the Snow Country," of which Rin-Tin-Tin, the Wonder Dog, is the star.

While the picture was being made in the Wagner studios at Hollywood a litter of puppies, of which Rin-Tin-Tin was the father, were born.

In "Tracked in the Snow Country" there is, of course, the inevitable "happy ending" about which many captious critics carp but which the public absolutely demands. The leading characters, played by June Marlowe and David Butler, are married—and their complete happiness is expressed with a short sequence which shows that their first offspring are a pair of twins. Rin-Tin-Tin, whose heroic acts have made their marriage possible, is, of course, a member of the happy family—and to show that the faithful dog is equally happy there are in the picture some exceptionally interesting pictures which show him as the father—not of a mere two babies, but of nine.

The theatre-going public has shown tremendous interest in previous pictures made by Warners in which Rin-Tin-Tin appeared alone, probably for the reason that most people are fond of dogs that are smart and good to look at. It is a fair presumption that "Tracked in the Snow Country," with Rin-Tin-Tin and nine cunning little members of his family, will excite tremendously more interest. Comedy showing "Be Careful."

Resort Town in California Closes Jail—No Business

LAKE ARROWHEAD, Cal., (AP)—Chief of Police Tom E. Johnson has placed a padlock on the door of this mountain resort's one-cell jail. With it went this sign: "Business indefinitely suspended."

The official said the jail was not a paying proposition, since no arrests had been made in the last year and the villagers were running into debt keeping the institution.

The chief added that if any offenders were apprehended, they would be placed in the blacksmith shop for safe keeping.
