Miss Hanks Weds Mr. Heughan

A pretty home wedding took place Saturday evening at 8:15 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Hanks when their eldest daughter, Miss La Rue Hanks, was united in marriage to William M. Heughan, son of Mrs. H. G. Dow. The father of the bride performed the ceremony. Only members of the two families were present.

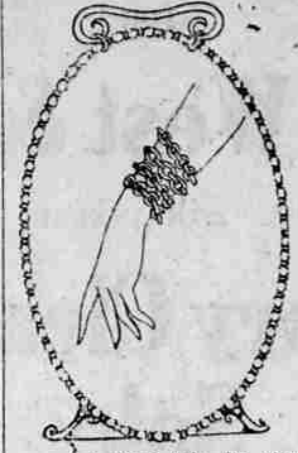

The bridal party stood before an altar of white carnations and narcissi. The bride was beautiful in a gown of beaded georgette in apple green. She carried a bouquet of rosebuds. Her bridesmaid, Miss Melba Hanks, wore apricot georgette.

University Dance Enjoyable Affair

One of the most enjoyable college dances ever given in La Grande took place Saturday night in the Elks ball room when the University of Oregon students gave their annual Christmas dance. The hall was prettily decorated in a green and yellow color scheme. At one end of the hall was a large full moon. Approximately 90 couples were present. The Sunset orchestra played.

During the evening Miss Jane Stange gave a feature dance, accompanied by Miss Lois Nelson, at the piano. All U. of O. students joined in an Oregon song, which was well received by those present. Punch was served by Miss Virginia Wamick, Miss Gilda Ashby, Miss Margaret Funk and Miss Barbara Hatt. Miss Funk and Miss Hatt also assisted in regulating the spot lights for a number of

Woman Judge Urges More Parental Time To Child

NEW YORK. (AP)—American fathers are giving too much time to business and not enough to their children, in the opinion of Judge Jean F. Norris, who has presided in New York courts six years.

What is true of the fathers also is true of the mothers, except business is not taking most of the women's time, she said, adding that this situation is largely responsible for the increase in crime.

As magistrate of the first district criminal court, the jurist is a striking example of the progress made of woman suffrage and of modern day life. But she still is old-fashioned enough to contend that respect for law and order begins in the home.

Housing conditions, under which there is little privacy, lack of religious training and ignorance of self-control are some of the other stepping stones to crime mentioned by her.

"Our mothers and fathers should stress respect of parental authority," she asserts. "If children are not taught to obey their parents, certainly it is not surprising for them to refuse to obey the law."

Miss Norris was appointed magistrate three years ago. Mercy plays an important part in most of her decisions, for in all except trivial cases she takes twenty-four hours for personal investigations through probation officers to learn pertinent circumstances relating to the defendants.

"I do not want to impose jail sentences on women and children unless I am fully satisfied it is the best course," she said. "Often there are other means of meeting the situation."

She knows how to inflict punishment without hesitation, however, as three men who recently appeared before her in traffic court will testify. They were charged with speeding, and as a result had their licenses revoked permanently and received straight jail sentences of five days each.

In 1919, when Miss Norris was appointed judge in the woman's day court and also the family court where social cases mostly are heard, she had been a practicing attorney ten years.

As assistant counsel to the state comptroller, she organized the delinquent tax bureau. She formed the trust corporation to handle the $1,000,000 left by Mrs. Frank M. Leslie to Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt for the furtherance of woman suffrage. She has served as president of the New York State Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs and the National Association of Women's Lawyers.

The assessed valuation for Linn county in 1925 was $30,862,542 and next year it will be 29,646,625. Albany's assessed valuation increased $119,973 as did Brownsville's but the other municipalities decreased.

RECEPTION IS COLORFUL ONE

(By Charles P. Stewart)

WASHINGTON. (NEA Special)—President Coolidge doesn't like coming down stairs to the strains of "Hail to the Chief," blared out by the Marine Band.

It's been the custom at past White House receptions. The present president doesn't believe it's the right idea for a host to appear among his guests with a brass band tooting his own horn.

So at the diplomatic reception which opened the White House "season" of 1925-26 a few evenings ago the Marine Band cut out "Hail to the Chief." It played, but it played nothing calculated to be interpreted as advertising for "the big chief," with the president in that role.

The guests at the diplomatic reception weren't so modest. They had no bands, but the clothes those diplomats wore! Who says women are more stuck or themselves than men? Blazing with many colors, heavy with gold braid and lace, plastered with medals, jangling with swords, the men at that reception—most of them—outshone the women far and away.

Mrs. Coolidge wore a train. Not many other women did. Short evening dresses were the rule—short at the bottom and short at the top. Princess Antoine Bibesco, the Rumanian minister's wife, was especially the latter. It was a wonder how she kept it on.

The presidential handshake is warm, moist, very limp. Mrs. Coolidge's is a genuine handshake. The presidential smile is just a "trace," as the weather bureau folk say. Mrs. Coolidge's is the real thing.
