Indian Thrill Film Now Showing At The Star

Real Indians are difficult subjects for motion picture direction, according to Frank J. Carroll, who used 2,000 Navajos and Utes in the production of "The Scarlet West," an epic of frontier days, which First National will present at the Star theatre for a three day run starting today.

"They are very superstitious and suspicious of everything and seem to have an idea that everyone is trying to take advantage of them, and, no doubt, to post-exploiters with white men," he said. "Also, they are proud, and get them to play 'dead.' They fought and rode like the wind but for 'dead redskins' we had to substitute white men disguised as Indians.

"The Scarlet West" is revived in this elaborate production, and other thrilling episodes in the conflicts of American troops and frontiersmen with the Sioux, are brought to the screen.

In this romance of an isolated army post, in which the educated son of an Indian chief, who holds the rank of captain, and a young lieutenant are rivals for the affections of the commanding general's daughter, the principal roles are played by Robert Frazier, Clara Law, Robert Edeson, Johnny Walker, Walter McGrath and Gaston Glass.

"The Scarlet West," in which 4,000 people appear, was many months in the making, in the picturesque southwestern section of Colorado and is said to represent one of the finest screen achievements of the frontier of the states and territories.

Bacterial gummosis of cherry in western Oregon is capable of wrecking a fine healthy young cherry orchard in the first few years of its life. Orchardists who use muzzard cherry seedling trunk and frame work for all varieties of sweet cherries find that the bodies of such trees nearly always escape this destructive disease, says H. B. Bares, plant pathologist of the experiment station.

French pear and California black walnut roots are resistant to the mushroom root fungus in Oregon while Japanese sand pear and English walnut roots are highly susceptible, reports the experiment station.

In combating the fire blights of orchards and bodies has proven to be the most satisfactory and is recommended by the experiment station Bulletin 214 will be sent on request and contains detailed information regarding this disease.

Grain is often sown in Oregon during favorable weather through the entire winter, says the expert on soil station. There is less chance of loss with wheat that has been treated with copper carbonate than with the old treatments but there is always the chance that the grain will start and be caught before well established when there is a period of surface freeze and thaw. Unless there is too much land to handle in the spring it is probably best to wait till spring opens up and sow the standard spring varieties.

CITY TO EXTEND MAINS - BURNE, Ore. - Plans for extending the city water mains to the new Southern Pacific terminals and to other parts of the city now without service are being made for 1926, according to W. A. McLaughlin, superintendent of the city's public utilities.

This work will be started early in the year, said the superintendent, and owing to the extensive growth of the city recently it is expected that crews of men will be kept busy almost all of the year at such work.

News has been received by friends of Laurel Mims, a man that he went boating without knowing how to handle a loaded gun.

DANCER, 70, WINS PRIZE. Medford Sun Prints Last Edition

BEND, Ore.—Although 70 years of age, M. F. Hawthorn, resident of Bend, won first honor as the best dancer of old-time waltzes in a contest conducted in Bend Saturday night. Hawthorn's partner in the prize waltz was his daughter, Mrs. Oscar Rand.

The contest was open to persons living in any part of central Oregon.

Well, sir, there was a well-dressed man from Cove came to the new lumber yard today to buy a supply of paint and oil. Says he: "Clad, how in the world can you sell paint and oil so reasonable?" Says I: "We have been very fortunate in buying out three large bankrupt and job lot stocks. Besides we handle many hundreds of gallons of standard material that we sell out on the low margin plan." Just keep in mind that we have ordered many tons of Old Dutch Process white lead, and Sherwin Williams are back of this lead and they will give an ounce of gold to each ounce of adulteration you find in it.

We are still the largest rubber in the country unless someone else weighs about 100 pounds.

Happy New Year and Yellow pine wood.

SINKING FERRY CLAMORS. HARRISBURG, Ore.—The old ferryboat here still clamors for public attention despite its relocation to the scrap pile December 19, when the new bridge was thrown open across the Willamette. During a recent rise to the river the ferryboat was hauled closer to shore, and when the lever became lower, the cable caused one side to sink beneath the surface, but will prevent the boat from going entirely under.

J.C. Penney Co. A NATION-WIDE INSTITUTION - DEPARTMENT STORES 108 Depot St., La Grande, Ore.

Welcome 1926! Adieu 1925!

With the festivities of a joyous Christmas season ended, we join you in looking forward to a new year—a year which we trust will be filled with an abundance of good health, happiness and prosperity for all.

In extending our hearty New Year greeting, we are mindful of your liberality to us during the past 12 months. We indeed would be ungrateful were we not to appreciate it.

We part with the old year feeling that we did our best to deserve the support of our friends and patrons, and we have been suitably rewarded.

During the coming year we pledge our utmost to perform justly and with equality to all, our responsible position of distributors to the public.

"The Golden Princess" Now Playing At The Arcade

If you like a fore-tell melodramatic story, rich in action, drama and love appeal, with a strong subcurrent of refreshing humor, staged against colorful background, "The Golden Princess," now playing at the Arcade theatre.

For this Paramount production directed by Clarence Badger from Frances Arago's scenario of a Brit Harle story, is compounded of those elements just mentioned. Furthermore, it has the added advantage of the irresistible presence of Betty Bronson, supported by a distinguished cast, including Rockcliffe Fellowes, Phyllis Haver and Joseph Dowling.

As "The Golden Princess," Betty brings to the screen a character so quaintly beautiful that words alone cannot describe her. This is her first starring role and she makes the most of it. The plot deals with her adventures in

From the time of his birth in a tiny village in Germany, three years after the war, Peter was marked for destruction. His mother was an aristocrat, and his father was at one time a prison member of the Imperial kennels. His family tree is more than twenty generations high.

The puppy's training began almost as soon as he had accustom himself to the strange world, was made comparatively easy because of his lineage. He obeyed himself readily to the obedience which every police dog learns, and before he was a year old he could understand instruction and his eagerness to obey was beginning to be manifested.

When less than two years, Peter "The Great" was brought to America when his masters, Edward and Ardis Faust, decided to become citizens of the United States. His training was continued, even on alibiard, and at the end of the long travel found himself installed as unquestioned ruler of the police dog kennels which Faust brothers founded in California.

Almost immediately he came to the notice of motion picture producers, and for weeks was watched and studied by these astute financiers. Satisfied that he was without peer, they signed him for a number of pictures, which were successful from the first.

Now, at the age of four, Peter "The Great" has become the starring actor of John W. Considine, Jr., whose initial production, "Wild Justice," now at Sherrys presents the eminent animal in his most thrilling role.

In "Wild Justice" he is supported
