50 HOUSES ERECTED IN PAST YEAR
 ago. Since that time the situation has given way to a new order, featuring ownership of homes by former renters.

"The fact that the majority of the homes have been built by local citizens for their own use or by a contractor with the agreement of sale secured before construction, indicates the general prosperity of the community as nothing else does. Incidentally, a large portion of the new homes are of the most modern types and built more with the idea of permanency and comfort regardless of cost.

"And the end is not yet in sight. Although the situation is fairly well taken care of, it is almost a surety that from one to two score more homes will be built this year. Some business construction is also being considered and it is a safe prediction to say that building in 1926 will equal that of 1925."

FRED CURREY GIVES VIEWS
 He praised the beauties of the valley in which La Grande is situated, declared the climate here is the best in the world and pointed out the large outlying trade territory. La Grande merchants sell more high-priced goods than any other town in Oregon, he said, because citizens of this city want the best.

He declared that the first step is to make La Grande an organized, loyal community and then it will be in a position to welcome the outsider. "Nurses and protect the industries we have" and learn of the city's real assets and then each citizen will be in a position to attract new blood and capital here.

A. W. Perley Speaks.
 Following Mr. Curry's address, A. W. Perley, fuel supervisor of the O. W. spoke briefly, agreeing with Mr. Curry's remarks in general but taking issue with his utterances regarding high prices. He declared that if the merchants would cater more to the railroad men and other laboring classes, there would be less buying in Pendleton and other nearby communities by La Grander.

ADVANCE MADE BY PROHIBITION

WASHINGTON (AP)—A statement following the "1925 progress in prohibition activities" was issued Sunday night by Wayne H. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league.

"Prohibition," he said "made advances in legislation, judicial conditions, administrative efficiency and as a hygienic and economic force in 1925."

"The 63rd congress rejected all wet legislation, voted $11,000,000 for enforcement, including $1,200,000 for narcotic enforcement, $50,000 for posters appealing for law observance, $120,000 for special counsel for the department of justice for prohibition prosecution and provided for storage of all liquor in government warehouses where such available. The coast guard was given surplus naval vessels an appropriation of $14,500,000 for rehabilitation and $9,000,000 for maintenance. This use of the fortified automobiles and other vehicles by the coast guard and prohibition unit was authorized."

Word of Congress.
 "The 69th congress in its first session in December, defeated the wet attempt to cripple enforcement by limiting the purchase of evidence of illicit states. Only 17 wet votes were cast to 129 dry votes although over 175 dry members were absent."

"Anti-smuggling treaties with eleven nations have been drafted and nine are now in effect. The senate approved three of these treaties last year with Canada, Panama and The Netherlands. These with Mexico and France have not been completed."

"The reorganization of the prohibition enforcement activities, under an assistant secretary of the treasury, supervising 8000 customs officers and 8000 coast guard officers besides the prohibition agents, will simplify administrative problems. More effective control of liquor and industrial alcohol is provided by 10 new regulations just issued for which the anti-saloon league has contended for more than two years."

"The United States supreme court during the year upheld the right of officers to search an automobile without a search warrant when they had reasonable cause to believe liquor was being illegally transported; upheld the Georgia prohibition statute which makes it unlawful to possess liquor acquired before the law became effective, and established the power of congress to regulate manufacture and distribution of non-beverage alcohol."

ACCEPTS POSTOFFICE BID.
 PASCO, Wash.—Word was received by Postmaster W. H. Cox that the government had accepted the bid made by the Maonic temple for the postoffice for 19 years. The present lease for the room in the Bank of Pasco building expires February 12 and the new rooms probably will be ready by that time. The postoffice will be moved, but one block.

A contract has just been let by John Rycek for rebuilding the building at Third and Clay's streets, which was burned 10 years ago. The building was of concrete and the walls are standing and will be utilized in the new building. The building will be 30 by 140 feet and one story. It will be occupied by a garage when completed, it is reported.

FEASIBILITY OF PROJECT IS DEBATED

MCCAMANT FIGHT BREAKS WASHINGTON (By the Associated Press)—The long-threatened fight over the nomination of Wallace McCamant, of Oregon, to be circuit judge in the ninth judicial district, broke late today in the senate. Senator Johnson, Republican, of California, led the fight demanding that the nomination be considered in an open session instead of behind closed doors. A favorable report on the appointment has already been made by the judiciary committee.

Famphlet copies of the physician's talk are being prepared to refer the child immediately to the family physician.

"Some of the cases have been so mild that the patients have not realized that they carried the disease, but it is well to realize that a person with a mild form can distribute the disease in a malignant form as easily as the other way round."

Close Watch Urged.
 "Now the wise thing to do is for all parents to keep watch over their children during the next 14 days—the period of incubation—and in case sore throat, which is one of the earliest symptoms of scarlet fever, should develop, to refer the child immediately to the family physician."
