Intoxication Test Will Be Developed Shortly

PARIS (By Associated Press).—The unusually severe weather in Paris this winter, with heavy snowfalls has caused an innovation in women's styles. The once common hat called "hugoboss" has been made their first appearance in the Bois de Boulogne when it lay buried under three inches of snow.

Those seen thus far are made of rabbit, squirrel and skunk skins, are worn with heavy low shoes and reach just above the knee. The fact that shoes have to be worn a size larger than is usually necessary and the high cost of the material has thus far prevented the new stocking from becoming common, and this silk stockings are still in the overwhelming majority.

PROSPECTS IN OREGON ARE BRIGHT

Conditions in other western states follow.

Washington.

From every source the industrial outlook for 1926 is regarded with much optimism, with the opinion that activities will continue to increase. This means steady employment for skilled labor, and full seasonal employment for unskilled workers. There will be a general increase in private building, municipal and county work, including bridges and docks. The volume of state highway construction will equal that of 1925, as well as work on new hydroelectric projects. Logging operations are expected to increase to normal. Match and woodworking plants anticipate no particular change from their present stable schedule. Food products, including milling and canning, depend somewhat on crop conditions and fish runs. Favorable indications are already apparent in these lines. The paper industry expects to run full capacity the entire year, employing approximately the same number as in 1925 except that one additional plant will be operating. Agricultural prospects for 1926 are viewed with considerable optimism. While the acreage cultivated will not materially increase over that of 1925, there will be no curtailment.

Idaho.

General industrial employment prospects for 1926 indicate a prosperous year. Industry and building have been somewhat curtailed in the past four years and expansion among these lines during 1925 is expected. Logging and lumbering operations are expected to increase as railroad construction, at a cost of about $7,000,000 in the large white pine district, continues. The highway construction program will probably be larger than that of 1925. Activities in the lumbering-mining industry in this state are increasing rapidly. Skilled and unskilled labor will be in greater demand in 1926 than during 1925. In the logging industry this applies particularly to engine men, donkey operators, truck drivers, canthook men, and railroad mechanics. The general outlook of the farmer is considerably brighter than for some years past. Undoubtedly there will be an increased acreage of crops, and much optimism prevails among the agriculturists of the state.

Montana.

The state highway commission contemplates the building of 193 miles of new roads throughout the state, the largest project being 33 miles in Glacier county. The work will start about April 1, 1926, at an approximate cost of $1,000,000. Considerable public work is planned by the state, including the installation of a heating plant at the state industrial school, Miles City, at a cost of $43,000. In addition to this, work is progressing on the women's building at Bozeman at a cost of $140,000, this work not to be completed until the latter part of 1926. From present indications the planting acreage of 1925 will be maintained in 1926, with a slight increase likely, but this is not definite. Work was started on October 10, 1925, on $1,000,000 irrigation project. Considerable work is planned, and the major industries in Montana anticipate satisfactory operating schedules, with full forces employed throughout 1926.

California.

From all indications, the industrial, agricultural, and employment prospects for 1926 are very favorable. Fruit and agricultural crops will exceed those of 1925, both in production and acreage, and will afford employment to an increased volume of unskilled labor, of which there is now a surplus. Public construction work by the state, counties and various cities will equal, if not exceed, that of the past year and promises full employment for resident mechanics and other skilled labor when work is started.

BRIDGE ON BAY OPPOSED.

MARSHFIELD, Ore.—Major Magnus, manager of the Port of Coos Bay, yesterday read into the hearing supervised by Major Coe a lengthy article prepared for the attention of the government, bearing, Major Magnus said, that the proposed bridge between Marshfield and East Side would interfere with harbor development and navigation south of the bridge, where practically all steamers, which call here would discharge. The advocates presented their testimony, and afterwards the objectors, which includes all mill, log and stevedore interests.

Major Coe said that a decision by the government would be made probably within two months or perhaps less time. It is still believed here that outside railroad interests have a line on the proceedings.

Captured Stills Viewed as Models; Taken From Exhibit

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Because they were too useful as models, trophies seized by prohibition enforcement officers have been relegated from the exhibition rooms of the Oklahoma Historical society here to the storeroom.

Until recently an extensive collection of stills, apparatus and ingenious devices for hiding liquor was on exhibition.

"Many people came here for no other purpose than to look at the stills and ask questions about them," said J. B. Thoburn, secretary of the society. "Several even wanted to make drawings of them."

"We decided we did not want this class of people to visit us, so we moved the stills out."

This Will Drive New Dirigible

This propeller is 17½ feet long and weighs only 140 pounds. It was made by the U. S. air service at McCook Field, Dayton, O., for the new army dirigible RS-1, under construction at Scott Field, Ill., and weighs less than half as much as it would weigh if made of the wood usually used. It is of balsa wood, the lightest and strongest wood known.

SISTER SEEKS APPOINTMENT

carried this to the Grande Ronde hospital, where Mr. Hamilton died before morning.

No Will Left.

On his death, there being no children, the property of which he died possessed immediately fell to the estate of Mrs. Hamilton. She died two days later, leaving no will and no relatives that the original administrator, A. V. Andrews, who has since resigned—was able to locate.

Comes now Mrs. Hammond, a sister-in-law of Mrs. Hamilton, claiming rights as next of kin.

Mrs. Hammond, it was brought out in this morning's testimony, attended the funeral of the two decedents in Missouri, where the bodies were sent by Hal Bohmke, kinsman. She then disposed of her household possessions, consisting chiefly of bedding and groceries, and accompanied by her young grandson, Le Roy Donaldson, and her sister, Mrs. Oscar Patterson, came to La Grande and took up her residence in the Hamilton house, at 1907 Third street.

Must Prove Residency.

Mrs. Emma Fowler, who was Mrs. Hamilton's closest friend in La Grande, testified on the witness stand today that the deceased had requested her to write to Mrs. Hammond, asking her to come to La Grande.

In order to be appointed administrator, Mrs. Hammond must prove that she is a relative near of kin, and a resident of La Grande.
