Carl C. Gault, county agent of Dale county, and C. E. Howells, field man for the Oregon cattle and horse raisers association, were visitors at the office of H. G. Avery, local county agent, Friday. Mr. Carpenter and Mr. Howells have been holding a series of meetings in Baker county to organize orderly marketing system to market live cattle in the Portland market. The plan consists of reporting to all cattle owners the amount needed to supply the market demands each week to prevent an overflow. The two men went to Enterprise from here and met with the cattle association of Walowa county Saturday. Upon inquiry has already adopted the plan, although there is probably less cattle out for the market in this county than usual.

L. REYNOLDS FILES SUIT FOR $22,285.00

(Continued from Page One.) Five thousand and five hundred dollars addition is demanded for the destruction and impairment of his dairy business, which he avers was well worth that sum before conditions resulting from the city's neglect led him his customers. Both Mr. Reynolds and his small daughter, Dorothy, have been ravaged by typhoid fever. Children tomers, he continues, have contracted the disease in the same way; that is through germs carried out to his place by the sewage. For physicians' nurses' and hospital fees accrued during the illness of himself and his daughter, the plaintiff asks $425. And for the time lost his business during the illness he demands $200. The special damages, amounting to $2,255, with the general damages of $19,030 total $22,285. The filing of the petition follows the refusal of the city commissioners to grant a claim presented them by Reynolds for $2,255 last Wednesday night. Portland Man Anointed SALEM, Ore.—E. E. Sheeman, of Portland was appointed a member of the state board of vocational education to succeed Otto Hartwig, who has resigned. Mr. Sheeman was president for a number of years. Mr. Sheeman was appointed for a four-year term.

SISTER-IN-LAW LOSES; APPEALS (Continued from Page One.) pointment of administrators gives preference in turn to the widow or the first of them, by whom partition must be filed within 30 days; to the principal creditor, to whom 40 days is allowed for the filing of a petition; and then none within that time having petitioned for appointment, the court exercises its own initiative, appointing whomever it sees fit. The next of kind, in its accepted use, according to E. R. Kling, counsel for Mr. Bohlenkamp, refers to persons eligible to inherit a portion of the estate. Mr. Hamilton's estate having fallen to his widow at his death, and the latter having left no heirs so far discovered, the bulk of the estate may eventually go to the state of Oregon.

BIBLE WILL NEVER BE REPLACED (Continued from Page One.) what good people are like; they want it because it tells them that God is man's best friend. "Variety, we say, is the spice of life. There is plenty of variety in the bible; it is a library—come have said two libraries, a Jewish one with a Christian supplement—with 66 books in all. "The word 'bible' is interesting. It means 'the book of books.' The old testament was the bible that Jews know, and he and his followers used it. It had been compiled during the long history of the Jews, and reflects more than 16 centuries of their hopes and experiences. It is called a testament because the Israelites thought of their religion as an agreement with God, and the old testament is the story of how they succeeded or failed in keeping their covenant with him. Divine Literature "Then, too, the bible is divine literature. Its contents are as varied as our desires, tastes, whims, in our libraries at home with volumes on history, biography, religion. Fortunately, the bible is like that. It has a great variety of material: legends, laws, maxims, hymns, prayers, poems, sermons. "And yet the bible is one book. Other books have their plots, purposes and designs. The bible has a great purpose: the unfolding of a great plan. This unfolding is seen in God as a creator, and in God as a companion and friend. The climax shows in the coming of Christ. Centuries before he came, people expected him; great prophecies were written about him. Finally Jesus came, and He it is that makes the bible the greatest book in the libraries of man. He makes us feel that in it we have the great heritage. Mounting interest, demonstrated in increasing attendance, is reported by all pastors in the city. Attendance Large An unusually large attendance marked the evening service of the First Baptist church, at which the Rev. G. A. Fogard, pastor, delivered a sermon on "Paul's Idea of Success." The morning worship was featured by a solo offered by R. J. Dykhuis. Evening services at the First Presbyterian church are to be brightened musically by the singing of an adult choir, which can be heard at the church at the meeting last night. The Rev. W. C. Ross, pastor, preached both morning and evening sermons. In the afternoon the church was occupied by Christian Endeavorers of the Grande Ronde union. Four seekers after salvation made their way to the altar at the church of the Nazarenes last evening, at the close of an evangelistic sermon preached by the pastor, the Rev. L. D. Meigera. With Miss Beulah Smith and Mrs. Hilda Blockland assisting, the Rev. H. K. Wallis led his congregation in a study of the character of John the Baptist last evening at Island City. Through a newly instituted plan, the young people of the church will be joint leaders with the pastor at the evening services. The commenced study of the book, "From Over the Border," a treatise on the Mexican question at their meeting, at 7 p. m. In the morning, Mr. Wallis commenced a series of discourses

Smith Arrives in City; Will Speak Tomorrow Sylvanus Smith, who will recite some of the thrills and glory of fishing off the New England coast when he addresses the chamber of commerce at its regular forum luncheon Tuesday at the I. O. O. F. hall, arrived in La Grande last night and is the guest today of Earl C. Reynolds, secretary of the organization. Mr. Smith, whose home is at Gloucester, Mass., comes to Oregon to look after a ranch he owns near Stanfield. He has been invited to join the Wing, Fish and Pleasure club at its game feed this evening. Menu for tomorrow's luncheon meeting will be furnished by Dale Charlton and Thomas Bruce, a duo of high school boys, their accompaniment to be played by Miss Lois Nelson. Frank B. Appleby is scheduled to speak on the subject of government printing of envelopes.

SILK INDUSTRY SEEKS RECALL OF BRAZILIAN ESCONDIDO, Cal. (AP)—Twenty-four hours after a new model of silk has made its appearance in Paris, Los Angeles femininity can purchase the same design woven from a fabric grown and manufactured in California. The pattern of the Parisian cloth that Millady can obtain locally over the counter of her favorite department store will have been transmitted by cables. The multi-berry tree-to-fabric operation, of course, takes weeks; but after the raw silk has been manufactured, it is ready here to be woven into the latest Parisian design on short notice. Since 1915 when the first mulberry tree was planted in Southern California, and a silk worm placed on its branches, a total of 220,000 trees have been put out and millions of silk worms set to work building cocoons. Many discouragements attended the establishment of the industry in the United States but these were surmounted and the output has increased until this year it was $200,000 necessary to construct a new $200,000 raw silk manufacturing plant to care for the Escondido Valley's output the coming season. With a growing period for mulberry leaves two months longer here than in the Far East, a greater amount of silk per tree is gotten in China and Japan 400 and 600 yards of 30-wale filament are produced from a single cocoon, while in California from 1000 to 1500 yards are obtained.

OBITUARY WILLIAM HENRIE. William Henrie, 64, died at his home at Imbler yesterday. Funeral services are yet indefinite, pending word from relatives. The society and the police are most indignant over the affair but they assert their hostility is directed toward the ambassador and not Brazil. OREGON LINE TO QUIT. The bus line operated by the Portland Electric Power company between the hill residential district of Oregon City and the downtown business section, known as the Mount Pleasant division of the Oregon City Motor Bus company, will be discontinued early in April due to a financial loss in operation. A notice of discontinuance of the service was received here today by Mayor Anderson from the office of Franklin T. Griffith, president of the Portland Electric Power company.
