Refused Liquor at Ninety, She Now Imbibes for Spite

COPENHAGEN, (AP)— Madame Caroline Bjoernson, the "grand old woman of Norway," who has just celebrated her ninetieth birthday, a tectotaler for many years, has announced that she is going to have a drink of strong liquor now and then, "just to show her disapproval of prohibition."

"I hate interference and prohibition of any kind, and though I have never touched spirits I have made up my mind to have my schnapps from time to time, since it has been prohibited in Norway," she wrote to her son, Bjorn Bjoerson, actor-manager of the Norwegian National Theatre.

Madame Bjoernson is the widow of Norway's greatest national poet, Bjoernsterne Bjoernson. She is hale and hearty, and for years has taken an active interest in public affairs.

Wives Who Refuse to Take Hubby's Name Cause Grief

LONDON, (AP)—Modern wives who refuse to take their husbands' names have set social secretaries by the ears. Engravers have profited, however, and passport bureaus are large winners.

It is not safe now to send an invitation to Mr. and Mrs. James Battle Royal without looking into the social register. Mrs. James Battle Royal may not be Mrs. James Battle Royal at all. She may be Miss G. Alone. And that is a tragedy where engraved invitations have been carefully counted on the old-fashioned theory that married couples are really married in good old Victorian style.

Wives who are willing to travel on a family passport issued in the name of the head of the family are rapidly going out of fashion. Even if they do wear their husband's names they want a separate passport, and that means extra fees for visas.

CULVER CITY, (AP)—Two tons of imitation pearls were used here to fashion costumes for girls appearing before the moving picture camera in a huge "pearl ballet" dance.

La Grande Theatres

Strong Cast Plays In "Don Q" Coming to Arcade

Douglas Fairbanks has surrounded himself with a special cast for his next picture, "Don Q, Son of Zorro," coming to the Arcade theatre Monday as the next attraction, under a United Artists Corporation release.

Mary Astor, a brilliant young leading lady, plays opposite Doug, and two other important feminine roles are filled by Lottie Pickford Forrest and Stella de Lanti.

Donald Crisp, who directed the film, also appears in the picture, assuming one of the chief character parts. Jean Hersholt, one of the best known actors on the screen, has one of the most interesting characterizations in the play. Among others prominent in the cast are Warner Oland, as Archduke, Paul of Austria; Jack McDonald as the heroine's father; and Charles Stevens as Don Q, Son of Zorro's servant.

"Speed Mad" Showing at Sherrys Today Only

Edith Roberts, one of the prettiest young women in Hollywood, has the feminine lead in the next Perfection release, "Speed Mad," being distributed by Columbia Pictures, and having its first local showing at the Sherry theatre.

William Fairbanks heads the cast and Miss Roberts is the charming heroine of the story who causes him to realize that there are attractive things in life besides burning up the roads with his high-powered racer.

The story was written by Dorothy Howell and directed by Jay Marchant. Such well known character actors as Johnny Fox, Jr., Lloyd Whitlock, Charles French, Bob Kortman, Florence Lee and "Buddy," the clever dog, have the most important of the featured roles.

A number of daring automobile racers worked in this production, and a series of thrilling racing episodes were "shot" on one of the fastest tracks in the country. There are other interesting sequences according to pre-view announcements, and this picture promises to be one of the best Perfection Productions of the 1925-26 season.

"Beautiful City" Now Showing At The Arcade

Richard Barthelmess, probably the most popular of all male screen stars, scores another big success in his latest production, "The Beautiful City," a First National picture which opens today at the Arcade theatre for a two day engagement.

But it has become a habit with this star to score big successes. All of his productions remain in the memory, chiefly because of his acting, but also because of their general excellence otherwise.

In "The Beautiful City" Barthelmess gives another of his sterling performances—this time as a young Italian youth in the ghetto district of New York, a difficult role for any actor. Tony, the young flower vendor, whose place of business" is a pushcart along the curb, tries to make an honest living, despite the evil associates of his brother with whom he comes into contact, and who try to inveigle him into their illegal schemes.

But Tony, in love with a Irish maiden living in the same tenement, had his mind on a flower shop of his own some day—and marriage with Mollie. But against his will he is drawn into the vortex of intrigue. Then comes black despair. The "beautiful city" which he loved with all his heart had been the means of embittering his life. By strength of his own assistance, he manages to "come out on top."

It is thrilling drama, alive with attention of the spectator in a vice-like grip throughout.

Dorothy Gish, that vivacious and talented actress, is cast in the role of Mollie and her performance is worthy of a whole column of praise. Other capable players in this production are William Powell, Florence Auer and Frank Puglia.

"The Beautiful City" was written especially for the star by Edmund Goulding and was directed for Inspiration Pictures by Kenneth Webb.

If you appreciate flawless acting, exciting action and tender romance you cannot afford to miss "The Beautiful City."

Bert Lytell at Star in "Sporting Life"

The contender for the championship of England is drugged on the eve of the battle!

The favorite in the annual Derby at Espon Downs is waylaid on the way to the race!

The hero is kidnapped to prevent him from entering his horse!

The beautiful dancer is murdered mysteriously in her apartment!

Those are some of the things that make you sit up in your chair and gasp for breath during the two hours that it takes to unreel "Sporting Life," the Universal-Jewel Maurice Tourneur production now showing at the Star theatre for three days.

"Sporting Life" is unadulterated melodrama, brought from the famous play down to the present generation, dressed up on lavish sets and elaborate scenes, and possessing a "wallop" with every turn of the camera.

It presents, in pleasantly large doses, the greatest thing possible in pictures—action, and lots of it. Maurice Tourneur, setting out deliberately to make a public-pleasing film, incorporated every kind of a spectacular and thrilling occurrence, and his results should prove to be one of the most popular and successful pictures of the year.

Marian Nixon, one on the younger generation of actresses, proves the confidence placed in her by Universal in trusting her with the leading feminine role, and lends her exquisite beauty to the part.

Bert Lytell becomes a romantic, reckless spendthrift who follows the ponies, replaces his fighting protege and licks the champion himself, and does all manner of heroic deeds which should endear him to the hearts of his army of admirers.

Cyril Chadwick, Paulette Duval, Charles Delaney, George Seigmann, Ena Gregory, Ted "Kid" Lewis and others play important roles. The story was adapted by Curtis Benton from the popular play.

"The Loser Wins" a short western picture and Arthur Lake in "The Understudy" are also being shown with the feature picture.

"JOKE TOWN" GROWING

KLAMATH FALLS, Or.—Keno, long the butt of the inevitable vaudeville joke in this community, wants to become a full-fledged incorporated town. Its petition asking for incorporation was filed with the county court.

Keno is one of the oldest settlements of the county and is situated on the Ashland-Klamath highway, 12 miles from here. It has enjoyed a building boom in the last year, along with many other Klamath communities.
