TRAILS COST $27,204

ALBANY, Ore.—Federal money to the sum of $27,204.62 was spent in the Southern national forest reserve last summer in building, reconstructing and maintaining 481 miles of trail. There were 88.6 miles of new trail built; 19.8 miles of old trail reconstructed to a new maximum grade of 15 per cent and 466 miles, some not built by the forestry service, maintained. The cost of maintaining 20.4 miles of road was $226,482. One and one-tenth miles of new road were built and 8.4 miles reconstructed on the Southern highway and above Seven Mile hill at a cost of $6285. Twenty-two miles of telephone line were built at a cost of $725. This brings the total mileage of telephone lines in the forest to 214. One new glass-ribbed, standard lookout station was built.

Dr. I. N. Woodie Ill.

ALBANY, Ore.—Once a wealthy man, prominent throughout the state as a veterinarian of no mean ability, and a property holder, but now a county charge, health broken and wealth gone, Dr. I. N. Woodie, 79, for long a resident of this county, has taken to his sick bed at Gladstone by friends. A brother is said to live at Parkview.

Dr. Woodie Once Owned Considerable Property in Albany.

He operated a heavy stable and was an authority on the treatment of horse and cattle ailments. Among his holdings were many residence lots, business property and a saw-mill.

Some women started getting trousers a man has to go around to a pool room to wash.

"Blackie's" Boy

When Richard Ford Jr., was 3 years old, his father was sent to prison for the Wheatland, Calif., riot murders. Now, 12 years later, the lad (above) sits with his father in Marysville, where "Blackie" paroled is being tried a second time. If Ford is freed the two plan to start life anew, the father as farmer and Richard Jr., as law student.

ment, will be insisted by others of the teaching staff, and the final decision will proceed from the combined opinions of the faculty. Uniformly good grades, permission from home and a willingness to abide by rules similar to those for athletic training are among the requirements for participation. "The play, like many another, is inspired by a case of mistaken identity, but its individuality with a clever twist at the outcome, as well as by the witty speeches that are unusually well distributed among the characters.

Because of the term-end influx of about 70 new students, and the absence of the basketball squads, who are on their annual tour in Washington county, Miss Maryjorie Warnick and her staff has postponed until Tuesday the Mimic assembly that was to have been held Friday.

Disaster Follows Kindness

MARSHFIELD, Ore.—An electric light bulb carelessly placed in a woodshed at Bendon to warm a sick dog belonging to J. Tucker set the wrappings on fire, which burned the wrappings, dog and shed and then spread to the family home and consumed it, while the family made an eleventh-hour escape when awakened by a neighbor. The residence was valued at $2500.

Eugene Youth Faces Charge

EUGENE, Ore.—Alfred Hill, 18, of this city is in the county jail here charged with forgery. He was arrested at Marshfield. The complaint states that he forged the name of his father's partner, L. L. Ogden, in the garage business here, to several checks.

Why Golfers Lost So Many Balls

Los Angeles golfers, after trying out society girls as caddies, declare 'boys are best. The girls forget to watch the balls and spend too much time powdering their noses, the players say. Above are shown Misses Alyce Mills and Margaret Morris, acting as caddies.

Sargent's Bulk and Inertia Hard to Beat

(By Charles P. Stewart) WASHINGTON (NEA Special).—Attorney General John G. Sargent is vast of bulk and level (full) of inertia—"that quality of matter by which it tends, when at rest, to remain at rest, and when in motion, to continue in motion."

It is hard to handle anyway. Given plenty of inertia to go with it, and you've got a combination it's hard to beat.

If Attorney General Sargent once walked headway it's a safe bet he'd be about as easy to stop as a runaway freight carload of pig iron on a steep down grade. But at rest, believe me, he's an awful job to start up.

For instance, suppose you want to find out from him something he's prone to keep to himself. There's where his inertia comes in, working both ways at once. He'll turn all right. You can't stop him. But it's non-essential stuff—fish stories, jokes, miscellaneous bits of all sorts. When you undertake, however, to get him to discuss the subject you're interested in, it just can't be done. He won't start.

Sargent's an amiable giant. I suppose he likes to come out flat-footed, when he's asked a question and refuse to answer. So he puts on a vacant expression and says that's something an assistant is attending to, and he knows nothing about it. Probably this was true some of the time, in the early days of his administration, when he was new on the job, but it can't be now, or else he really is dumb.

These Vermonters are difficult folk to fathom and maybe the latter guess is correct, but my own impression is that the attorney general knows a heap more than he lets on.

At any rate, the senate committee on the so-called antitrust "trust" got a taste of the attorney general's inertia.

What that committee didn't find out from John G. Sargent con-

Yesterday In Washington

The tax bill was reported to the senate. The house debated the naval appropriation bill and prohibition. President Coolidge issued a call for a street and highway safety conference. The Elliott $165,000,000 public building bill was reported to the house.

Negotiations for a voting date on the world court issues were begun in the senate. Vice-president Dawes' radio speech on senate tactics stirred up a rumpus in the senate. Prefabricating by retail soft coal dealers was charged by Senator Reed of Pennsylvania.

Secretary Davis reiterated the war department's aviation views before a house committee. Hearings on charges against Federal Judge Harry B. Anderson of western Tennessee were begun. Secretary Kellogg declared Mexico's new land law contained restrictive and confiscatory provisions.

French Ambassador Derouge told President Coolidge France proposed to pay its debt as promptly as possible.
