GAME HARD FOUGHT
 The first game was one of the closest ever fought by girls' teams in Eastern Oregon, according to the witnesses. Consistent playing of the centers, Stange and Camp, held it credited with a large share in the blue and white victory. The score stood at 17 to 10—Miss Johnson's crew leading—at the end of the first half, but the teams entered the third quarter tied at the 20-mark. Wallowa soon made a pair of points and La Grande's prospects looked a little gloomy until the last few minutes, when the score straggled to 27, with no further gains on Wallowa's side.

Many a faint heart gets stronger in the faint fire light.

SOCIAL NEWS FROM IMBLER

IMBLER, Ore. (Special)—One of the merriest parties was given Tuesday evening as a surprise to Miss Velma Conklin on her twentieth birthday. Fifteen of her former schoolmates spent the evening in dancing and games, and a dainty lunch was served during the evening.

An enjoyable party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Martin, Saturday evening. About fifty guests, including the older and younger set, were present. Games were played and the approved Henry Ford dancing indulged in. Assisting Mrs. Martin during the evening were Mrs. Parilla Keefer and Mrs. Ethel Masters.

Mrs. William Wiggins entertained Wednesday evening at "500." Four tables were in play, the high honors going to Mrs. Homer Green and the consolation to Herbert Bruoy. At the close of the game, refreshments were served.

The young folks of Pumpkin Ridge met at the Pumpkin Ridge Country club Saturday evening. Games were played after which all joined in the dancing, with Oac-Man's orchestra furnishing the music.

The Parent-Teacher association of the Imbler high school held its regular meeting Thursday evening at 5 o'clock. The program was in charge of the men of the association and the lunch prepared and served by them also. It is not well to do too much bragging but the entertainment and the feed could never be surpassed by the ladies.

Durr Slack was taken to the Grande Ronde hospital the first of the week suffering with pneumonia.

The regular services of the Imbler church will be held Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Hamilton, the district superintendent, will give the sermon and a large attendance is desired.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Riggs and Margaret, of La Grande spent Sunday at the Sion home of Pumpkin Ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. At Hug entertained the thirteen members of the Elite club, who recently presented the play "Miss Molly," at their home at Pumpkin Ridge. The color scheme was pink, the tables being decorated with a centerpiece of pink carnations and pink candies. The punchards were cartoons of those taking part in the play and afforded much amusement in the placing of the guests. Following the dinner, games were played and the guests treated to an old-fashioned taffy pull.

 There are other prominent characters—the pretty daughter, in the person of Miss Myrtle Black; her city admirer, played by R. S. Williams; Pretty Sion, the rural flapper, a part interpreted with a nice abandon by Mrs. Rose Curry; Hay Hazard, as whom Tom Bruce guarantees a whole evening full of howls and chuckles; Mandy Sparks, played by Miss Frieda Klopfenstein, and Tamarack, by Lead Russell, who approach professionals in their rube love-scenes. Dr. R. J. Murphy, as the roppish nobleman; Miss Lucille Black, as the actress; Henry Meloncon, as the dark politician, and Archie Clark, as the senator's private "secretary," keep the comedy wheeling every minute they are on the stage.

Waffles Is Latest American Dish to Invade Chinatown
 SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Waffles, or in Chinese "Low Leang," has invaded Chinatown. Introduced by an American born Chinese, the trade has grown rapidly as though the one restaurant where "Low Leang" is sold caters largely to the younger element.

The proprietor, emulating the American restaurateur, cooks the "Low Leang" in the window. On the sidewalk usually are seen open-mouthed Chinese observing the operation.

Legion Post Pick Golf Links for War Memorial

EVERETT, Wash. (AP)—A public golf links is the World War memorial chosen by Earl Faulkner Post of the American Legion. This method of honor grew out of the efforts of a citizens' committee to obtain a course for Everett, a manufacturing city of 25,000 people.

A $30,000 corporation will operate the links at a fee of 25 cents for share-holders and post-members and 50 cents for others. A site of 100 acres is being acquired by the Legion organization. This ground passes by lease to the control of the corporation but title stays with the Legion to assure it against loss should the enterprise fail. The veterans subscribe for $10,000 of the stock.
