THE OLD IRON FIST AGAIN

cal, convincing and to the point, not so common a merit among senators, who incline to wander verbally all over the lot.

If Robert M. La Follette, the present, stays in the senate until he's 100, he undoubtedly will still be known as "young Bob." That name may appear to be fastened on him for keeps.

There isn't, however, a senator member of Congress. He takes his responsibilities very, very seriously. He doesn't stagger under them, however. He's not in the least puffed up, but he clearly has confidence in himself.

Main Highway Planned

HOOD RIVER, Ore.—At a special meeting yesterday the city council advanced plans for joining with Hood River county and providing a new main thoroughfare from the city to the West Side orchard sections. It is proposed to extend May and Sherman streets and thus eliminate the heavy grade that orchardists must now use in bringing their fruit to downtown warehouses.

The council is ready to purchase rights of way at the west edge of town. At a recent meeting the county tentatively agreed to grading and maintaining streets that will be needed in making the new city entry road.

Octogenarian Cotton Men Form Own Health Club

LONDON, (AP)—Manchester octogenarian cotton men have established a club where they are doing their daily "jerks" and keeping themselves fit to the despair of subordinates who hope to slip into their shoes.

Lord Inchape, at 73, is still the head of a great shipping organization and far more frisky than many of his younger associates.

Lord Halfour, at 77 still plays tennis and never showed a framer grip on world affairs. Thomas Hardy, at 85, is still going strong as a poet. Lord Oxford shows no signs of age and carries his 70 years with a vim that is discouraging to men who thought he was finished when he surrendered the premiership.

Natives of Tahiti Carry Advertisements to a New Healer

he left a prediction who would be his superior. Now the native populace is flocking to Tural's successor.

Tales of the "Miracle Man's" marvellous cures are in circulation and although the natives of Tahiti are civilized and ordinarily highly sophisticated, they are abandoning European physicians and transferring their faith to the new healer.

Hundreds are taking their ailments to him daily.

No claimant of curative powers had the reputation or commanded the faith of the natives in a manner equalling Tural. But his prophecy of a successor is now adding the man enjoying popular acclaim.

Every-day Magic

Chairs that flop into beds . . . bags that suck up dirt . . . tiny ticking things that count all day long for you. Daylight any night just by pushing a button. A stream that never stops till you turn off a faucet. Any voice you want, talking to you from a cage on your desk or wall. Actions of yesterday, of people miles away, going on a curtain before you. Stilled throats singing to you from discs; distant throats singing to you from nothing!

Uncanny, daily magic—this, due to national advertising. Advertisements have given you flashlights, telephones, typewriters, automobiles, cold creams, motion pictures. They have given you new eyes, new ears, new hands, new feet, new faces, new emotions. They have urged such wide use, so lowered prices, that almost wishes are autos, almost beggars can ride. Through advertisements you've laid down the shovel and the hoe. You can buy a whole harvest ready-to-eat in cans. You've hung up the fiddle and the bow, for a radio. There's little old-time work left in this age of amazing short-cuts.

READ THE ADVERTISEMENTS. THEY KEEP YOU TO THE FORE OF MODERN LIFE.
