Tower of Lies

At Sherrys, Wins Unstinted Praise

"The Tower of Lies," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, directed by Victor Sjöström, will doubtless be ranked as one of the outstanding six productions of the year.

This picture opened Sunday at Sherrys and received the acclaim that audiences all over the country have been giving it.

Without doubt the popularity of Norma Shearer and Lon Chaney, co-stars, add to the attraction of the production but Sjöström's directional genius has given the picture a touch of appeal that cannot be overlooked. We had thought that Sjöström had reached the pinnacle in "He Who Gets Slapped" in which Miss Shearer and Chaney also appeared but that picture could never attain the heights reached by "The Tower of Lies."

The picture is a screen adaptation of Selma Lagerlöf's popular novel, "The Emperor of Portugal." The continuity was prepared by Agnes Christine Johnston, who has many successful scenarios to her credit and who must have gotten everything out of the original story for her screen version.

At no time in the careers of Lon Chaney or Norma Shearer has either of these two stars been given such a wonderful screen vehicle. Miss Shearer has far outdone any of her former successes, and Chaney has made a very radical departure from his usual characterizations with highly gratifying results.

The two are supported by a remarkable cast which includes: Ian Keith, Claire Melowell, William Haines, Edward Connelly, David Torrence, Anna Schaffer, Leo White and Eddie Roser.

"The Tower of Lies" must be commended for the heights and depths reached, and for a picture which has been translated to the screen. There have been few pictures which grip at the heart-strings and bring smiles of joy at unexpected moments as does this one.

La Grande Theatres

Surprises, Laughs Promised in "Bringing Up Father"

Nacities, screams, surprises, in "Bringing Up Father" seldom found in one offering are promised in the next attraction at the Arcade theater, Thursday night, February 11, when the latest "Bringing Up Father" comedy holds forth for a limited engagement.

The title of the new conception of mirth, melody and display of feminine pulchritude is "Bringing Up Father in New York" and, of course, is based on the popular and evergreen George McManus cartoons of the same caption. The entertainment is in the hands of a cast that had a wide and wide-prime run at the Lyric theater, New York. Broadway's famous temple of amusement and at the Olympia theater, Chicago. It is the work of Nat LeRoy and Seymour Krim, a pair of clever writers and composers.

Reserved seats are now selling at the Gates Drug store.

"King of Main Street" Now Showing at The Arcade

"The King of Main Street," Monta Bell's first production for Paramount, which is being shown today and Wednesday at the Arcade theater, tells of the heart of a town in a wordy, philandering manner, played to perfection by Adolphe Menjou, whose career is deflected from its easy and carefree course by an encounter with a wholesome American girl, an interlude that has a profound influence on the faded king.

Menjou, starred in the picture, is supported by Greta Nissen and

Bessie Love, both featured in this screen version of Leo Dittichstein's successful stage play, "The King."

As Serge IV of the little Kingdom of Molvania, Menjou is advised by his ministers that a loan is necessary to save the country. Making his choice between marriage and a trip to America, the king arrives in New York all set to break a few more hearts. A group of financiers are awaiting him to discuss a proposed oil lease. Bored by it all, the king ships out and boards a bus marked "Ole Island." He turns out to be a typical American youngster who introduces him to everything on the island.

Drums and fiddles pile up in the situations that now develop. With howling and noise of romantic comedy over dominant. Eventually the king saves the girl's reputation and unites her with her young fiance at the cost of signing away his own happiness in the oil treaty.

In an unusual climax, Menjou turns from it all and goes back to his "kingdom."

The opening and final scenes of "The King of Main Street," showing a gorgeous dress review of the Molvanian troops, are done in natural colors.

A Hal Roach comedy is also on the bill.

In Tampa, Fla., a gas explosion rocked the jail, where the occupants were already thinking of moving.

"The Ship of Souls" Now Showing at The Star

"The Ship of Souls," last opus from the pen of Emerson Hough, and a widely circulated novel, has been made into a powerful drama for the screen by Associated Exhibitors, and is showing today and Wednesday at the Star theater.

The story is a tale of a man who, after a long and arduous journey, finds himself in a strange land. He is surrounded by a people who are different from anything he has ever seen. He is forced to fight for his life, and in the process, he discovers the truth about himself and the world around him.

Leona Stater, official prima donna, who manipulates most of the dream changes for the China doll and, for good measure turns out to be her white mother in the final scene.

"My China Doll" boasts an augmented orchestra with special effects necessary for the bizarre score. The engagement closes tonight. Spokane theaters have sold $100 for the big New York extra engagement. Let your own eyes be the judges.

"My China Doll" Coming to Arcade

What the Spokaneman-Review, under date Jan. 7, with some of the typical musical extravaganza "My China Doll" which comes to the Arcade theater Tuesday night, February 10.

Barbara Branch, Spokane dancer, came home last night at the head of her own show—the zenith of any girl's ambition—and scored a personal triumph at the Mountain temple auditorium in "My China Doll." It was the grand reunion of the "I-Knew-I-Was-When" club and they gave their dainty, exquisite little favorite a tumultuous reception.

"My China Doll" was written for Miss Bronell by Charles George librettist and lyrics writer, and it fits her like the proverbial paper on the wall. It is a wonderful starring vehicle for it suits her out as a Chinese maid in China-town and then kindly permits her to dream wonderful dreams of story books, music, flowers and wading bowls with a world of opportunity to strut every form of the stuff her repertoire contains and that is extensive and comprehensive.

MOM'M POP

BUT MR. BARTON, I CANNOT ALLOW UNCLE HENRY TO BE PROSECUTED.

VERY WELL, IF YOU REFUSE TO PUSH THE CHARGE I MAY AS WELL WITHDRAW FROM THE CASE.

BEFORE YOU GO MR. BARTON, I'D LIKE TO KNOW HOW YOU FIGURE THAT THOSE WERE MY FOOTPRINTS UNDER THE WINDOW WHERE THE RING WAS STOLEN.

THERE IS NO MISTAKE ABOUT IT, MR. TYTE. YOUR SHOES FITTED THE FOOTPRINTS EXACTLY.

OH UNCLE HENRY, NOW I REMEMBER WE MISSED A PAIR OF YOUR OLD SHOES FROM THE BACK PORCH THE SAME DAY THE RING WAS STOLEN.

AND I BOUGHT THE PAWN TICKET FOR LORETTA'S RING FROM AN OLD TRAMP.

THEN HE WORE MR. TYTE'S SHOES AT THE TIME OF THE ROBBERY.

WELL THE MYSTERY SEEMS TO BE ALL CLEARED UP.

ALL CLEARED UP, SAH! HOW ABOUT MY SHOES?
