Indoor Campmeeting Closes Long Session

Five weeks of indoor camp meetings, marked by an extraordinary number of conversions and addressed by the pastors of all evangelical churches in town, will come to a close at the Salvation Army hall tonight.

Claude A. Pratt will be the leader in what promises to be an appealing service. Mr. Pratt represents the pulpit of the Church of God. Other ministers are expected to be present to assist Envoys and Mrs. J. C. Barker, of the army. The converts will participate, some of them testifying to their new experience. And the meeting will probably take on some of the marks of an old-fashioned love feast.

Spokane Man Working For Gooding-Hoch Bill

 sions of the interstate commerce commission, and twice since 1922 have petitioned the commerce commission, for permission to force the old and burdensome discriminatory rates upon us. Their second application has been pending for over two years. The result has been the Gooding bill, which seeks to make permanent what the commerce commission ordered in 1918. If the rail carriers had accepted the decisions of the commerce commission the Gooding bill never would have been heard of.

"The contention of the railroads is 'Panama canal competition.' They say that if they are permitted to make discriminatory rates they will be able to take tonnage now moving through the Panama canal, put it in some of their empty cars and haul it at cost, without making any profit on it."

"A beautiful theory," "This is a beautiful theory, but will not work out in practice. If the rail carriers are permitted to carry out this policy the net result will be that the boat lines will cut their rates in order to hold their present business, and the rail lines will then be handling at a loss all the business they haul to the coast."

"The 'empty car' argument of the railroads cannot be substantiated. If the rail lines should be successful in taking tonnage from the boat lines, they will have to take east bound tonnage as well as westbound, and the result will be that the rail carriers will not have benefited themselves in the slightest."

"We have heard of this 'freight rate fight' for many years. The west has stood as a unit against discriminatory freight rates for years. The Gooding bill offers a permanent solution of the problem in that it will make permanent what we have enjoyed for eight years. It should have the united support of the entire interior west in order that it may be passed at this session of congress and the problem settled once and for all."

PASTOR GIVES PRESS PRAISE

 Mr. Thomas displayed a full-page advertisement that was run in both evening and morning papers at Kinman Falls when the Episcopal church building there was finished recently. The advertising costs were paid by the merchants, each of whom paid a tribute to religion on his name.

"Tell about your church events before they happen," advised the speaker. "Publish on Saturday the news of what you will do in your churches on Sunday. Don't expect to get results if you wait until Tuesday to get news into the papers."

The Rev. L. G. H. Williams, editor of the Oregon Trail Churchman, a religious publication that has a standing among the best in the country, was another speaker in the publicity conference. The Rev. F. H. Hall acted as leader. Religious education, and different means of reaching the children outside the immediate church family were discussed at the conference which followed.

The noon session combined the interests of the convocation with those of the Church Women's league. Mrs. William P. Remington, president of the league, gave the annual report. Miss Charlotte L. Brown reported for the mission classes.

Bishop Remington took the platform at the afternoon session to tell of the general convention in New Orleans last fall. Others who attended gave impressions.

"How Shall We Develop Leadership Among the Men in Our Church?" was the question before the late afternoon session. The Rev. Oliver Riley, rector of St. Peter's, was one of the speakers.

This evening the delegates will be entertained with a play under direction of Mrs. Donald Paine, at the Neighborhood clubrooms.

Reunion of Prince and Mother Is Expected

 their tuffs in their ceremonial hats, threaten to use force unless the Bavarian Diet passes a law prohibiting the "pollution of innocent Bavarian maidens by shameless and immoral foreigners" who visit the Highlands.

Bloodless and knifeless surgical operations in which tissues are cut by an electric spark are said to have been performed successfully by Prof. Albert Doderlein, of the University of Munich.

An alternating electric current of about 1,000 volts, Dr. Doderlein said, is passed to the head. Using a fine needle, which forms the negative pole of the electric circuit, he traces what in ordinary operations would be a cut through the skin. The sparks jumping from the body to the needle point, he said, sever the tissues with the precision of an extremely sharp knife and without a flow of blood. A knife is used only after an opening has been effected.

Dr. Doderlein lists among the advantages of his electric operation the virtual elimination of the dangers of infection and more skillful work, because of the absence of blood.

COL. MITCHELL TO OPEN FIRE

(By Charles Stewart)
 WASHINGTON (NEA Special)—Although Congressman Frank B. Rowland, Col. Mitchell's lawyer, issued a bitter denunciation of President Coolidge for his prompt approval of the court-martial sentence against the colonel, it ought not to be assumed that Mitchell and Reid feel under anything but obligations to the president for not keeping them waiting.

Mitchell wants to begin testifying again as soon as possible. So long as his case hung fire he couldn't do it.

Now his campaign's going to start in earnest.

The truth is, the colonel and his legal advisor would have been dreadfully disappointed if there'd been any slipup in the former's martyrdom.

This isn't to say that Mitchell's insincere, but he has a keen appreciation of the value of lots of publicity for himself. If he's to accomplish what he set out to accomplish.

He expected and wanted to be court-martialed all the time. He expected and wanted to be convicted. He wanted a severe sentence, too.

That was one part of the program that worried him a little. What he feared was that his brother officers would say, "Well, you're guilty of insubordination, but you don't amount to enough so it matters much."

That's what they'd have done if they'd used good judgment.

But the trouble is, a good many army officers take themselves very seriously. Instead of assuming a "shoo fly" attitude when Mitchell roared them, they grew exceeding sore about it and yearned to do something really savage to him.

The result was that they played right into his hand and now he's got 'em on toast, just as he hoped to do.
