Billy Evans Says:

Glenn Warner, famous football coach, developed the great Jim Thorpe, likewise Ernie Nevers.

Until Warner brought Nevers of Stanford to the front, he always regarded Thorpe as the greatest football player of all time.

The fact that Nevers had an off-day when playing against Grange's team may account for the wide difference of opinion.

WILDS COMPLEX
It looks as if Helen Wills and Suzanne Lenglen might actually get together and settle their differences on the tennis court.

However, Jack Dempsey seems no nearer meeting with Harry Wills. The heavyweight champion always manages to find a way to sidetrack Wills.

Although both tennis experts on "Helen Wills" and others claim Wills is far superior to Helen Wills, the French star has shown no great desire to meet the American champion.

Apparently Suzanne Lenglen and Jack Dempsey are suffering from the same trouble, a Wills complex.

CRY FOR RESIN.

I am glad the American League club owners have placed a ban on the use of resin. I expect to have enough trouble this summer without having to carry the resin load on my back.

According to the rules formulated by the use of resin is to be up to the judgment of the umpire. Even umpires do not always agree, so there is sure to be a wide difference of opinion as to the use of resin.

For Mayor

Mrs. Bertha M. Lanties, who won national fame a year ago by firing several police chiefs while she was acting mayor of Seattle, wants to be a real mayor. She is running against Mayor Edwin J. Brown and promises to clean up the city if elected.

tion where the buses are filled and a run needed to win the ball game, the pitcher is going to make the umpire believe that he needs a dose of resin on his hands after each pitch.

There is no denying the fact that resin makes it possible for the pitcher to get more stuff on the ball. It makes for a better purchase, which means everything as far as stuff and control is concerned.

The pitcher is going to delay proceedings many times when such action isn't necessary. The cry for resin is going to cover a multitude of evils.

American league umpires in not having to fuss about the resin bag are going to have a decided advantage over their National league brethren this season.

The Back to Garb of Squaw POET DUCHESNE, Utah (AP).—A young six-foot Ute Indian, known for 38 years as the "back of a squaw" and has been entirely ignored by fellow members of his tribe—because in 1887 he was a "conscientious objector" and refused to take part in a tribal raid.

Angus now is more than 50 years old, but he will remain a "squaw" for the rest of his life.

His sentence never will be revoked and there is no chance for a pardon, claim the present tribal leaders, who succeeded old Chief Colowah, a score of years ago.

It was Colowah who pronounced sentence "back to the squaw" upon Angus who had declined to accompany Colowah on this last raid against the "palefaces" near Meach, or.
