VISITORS WIN FROM LOCAL 5

Aggravators Hold Portland Quint 23 to 31—Helix Will Play Here Tuesday Night.

Five young men, disciples of the old style of basketball, playing came to La Grande Saturday night from Portland and triumphed over the Aggravators, who used the newer system that features passing and working the ball over the court until a close shot is chanced.

The City of Portland team, which plays in one of the many leagues in Oregon's metropolis, won the cause of its accurate long shots. Several were made from back of the foul line and one or two from the middle of the floor.

Another factor that contributed to the local team's defeat was the neglecting of the goal three times, leaving a Rose City lad unguarded for a close shot.

Game Colorful.

Nevertheless, the fans who crowded the high school gym saw a happy game, colorful, oftentimes spectacular, and rough but clean. There was none of the wrangling that sometimes makes a contest of this kind unappealing.

La Grande took an early lead when Black tipped the ball over the rim and Stoddard made a point after foul. With the score 3 to 0, Portland found the basket however and Pollock started a scoring drive that overcame the La Grande five's points and was never headed during the remainder of the game.

During the greater part of the game Portland stayed just six points ahead of the locals. At the end of the first quarter the score was 8 to 4 and at half time 12 to 15. When the third quarter ended the scoreboard read Portland 26, La Grande 21. During the last two minutes of play Portland increased

SUZANNE SKIPS RETURN MATCH WITH MISS WILLS

NICE, France (AP)—Helen Wills and Suzanne Lenglen will not meet again in the tennis singles on the Riviera this season. Mademoiselle Lenglen decided Sunday evening to refrain from play in singles until the St. Cloud or Wimbledon meetings.

"I consider the French open championships at Wimbledon more important that Riviera tennis. My doctor tells me if I continue to play in the Riviera tennis I will be stale by June. I am leaving for a quiet spot in the mountains Monday but will return on Saturday to play in the doubles for the Beaumont cup at Monte Carlo with Didi Vlasto, but I will not enter any tournament until the Nice meeting, and then only in the women's and mixed double."

Tex Rickard knows fighters. He is the outstanding promoter of things fists.

When Mr. Rickard speaks, he says something. Recently he named Chick Suggs as the best bantamweight in the country. To the Rickard rating he was No. 1. Since Charley Phil Rosenburg is the champion, the opinion as expressed by the well known Mr. Rickard, created quite a flurry among ring followers.

When Abe Goldstein was bantam champion he steadfastly posed up an "engagement" with Suggs. Since losing his title, Abe isn't a particular. When he asked Rickard for an engagement at the Garden in New York, Tex named Suggs, Goldstein accepted.

I saw that bout and Suggs certainly made good the idea things that Rickard had previously said about him. He gave the former champion a most artistic facing.

Suggs weighed 113 1/2 pounds for Goldstein and looked strong. It seems, however, he prefers the featherweight class as he has repeatedly challenged Kid Kaplan.

But Suggs is no super fighter, as recent events have proved. He had better stick to his class, the bantamweight.

PRaise FOR SUGGS.

Three days after polishing off Goldstein at Madison Square Garden, Suggs hooked up with Babe Herman at Boston.

If Herman he picked a tough bird, regarded by many as superior to even Champion Kaplan. In his 27-27 lead 6-23-31 with two perfect shots.

Guarding Close.

The game was featured by the close guarding of both teams and by the excellent floorwork of the Aggravators, led by Geertsen and Stoddard. Geertsen was high point man of the game with 20 points. Pollock and Ruby, Portland, led for second with eight. (1) Price Ruby (8) (2) Stoddard (6) (3) Metcalf (5) (4) Geertsen (4) (5) Pollock (4) (6) Price (3) (7) Stoddard (2) (8) Metcalf (2) (9) Geertsen (1) (10) Pollock (1)

STICK TO CLASS.

On the same program as Suggs at Madison Square Garden, was Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, who met Jack Delaney.

It was the Gotham debut of Risko. Undoubtedly, he was a trifle nervous, working for the first time before a packed house of 20,000 critical New Yorkers.

Risko isn't one of those fighters who makes a good first impression. You must see him a number of times before you really appreciate his fighting ability.

There is nothing flashy about him and he lacks poise but he can fight, as Gene Tunney and Jack Delaney are now aware. Incidentally, Risko, even in good shape, is the type of athlete who looks 10 to 15 pounds overweight.

"Where did you get the butcher boy, Tex?" yelled the fans as Risko in the first round floundered about the ring after the elusive Delaney. "Tock him to sleep, Jack and let us go home."

Before the fifth round, the crowd that had been ridiculing Risko, was cheering him. At the finish he was frosher than Delaney, after having been the aggressor in every round.

Risko knows nothing about the Charleston and no one will ever marvel at his ring footwork but the young man can fight and has the courage to do it.

TABLOID CODE IS PROPOSED

CHICAGO (AP)—Codification of the rules of golf has been discussed for years, but thus far no one has been able to convince the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews that the law of the game might be modernized.

A tabloid code that would be possible if the same rules were made effective for both match and medal competition has been suggested as a compromise of what could be done to simplify the rules.

Golf has grown over a long period of years and rules to meet contingencies added from time to time. The tenets were formulated almost entirely in Scotland, and some of them are thought to be obsolete even there. The main features of the suggested basic law, as tabulated by penitents, could be printed on the back of an ordinary score card. It follows:

- One Stroke Penalty For:
1. Moving ball anywhere while in play, accidentally or otherwise.
 2. Hitting competitor's ball with own on green.
 3. Lifting ball from water hazard or casual water in other hazard.
 4. Disturbing grass, brush, etc., unnecessarily in search for ball.
 5. Hitting self with own ball.
 6. Stopping own ball with person, caddy or club.

 8. Lifting ball for identification except in presence of competitor.
 9. Lifting ball on green while competitor's ball in motion.
- One Stroke and Distance For:
1. Lost ball, except in water hazard.
 2. Out of bounds.

1. Playing ball from elsewhere than where it lies.
 2. Pushing, scraping or spooning ball.
 3. Marking line of play.
 4. For removing irregularities of surface through green.
 5. For removing loose impediments more than club length from ball through green.
 6. Taking practice stroke within club length of ball, except on tee.
 7. Walking away from ball in play after ball has been addressed.
 8. Moving, bending, breaking anything fixed or growing, except in swing.
 9. Grounding club heavily, or drawing across line of play.

"Me And The Boy Friend"

You know them, bless their hearts. A pair of youngsters, really, in spite of their self-reliant air and their fast-vanishing teens. The girl—slim, clear-eyed, merry; the boy—flippant, a bit arrogant, full of secret, earnest plans for success.

They like each other. They go to the movies together, dance, quarrel a bit. They don't believe in early marriages. But her eyes shine when she speaks of him. "Me and the boy friend."

One of these days, suddenly, they'll be grown up. Man and wife, those fearless youngsters. A home to plan, life to face. A budget, a savings account, economies.

They'll make mistakes, but they'll learn quickly. She'll begin to be canny in the spending of money—to question prices and values. She'll begin to read about the things she plans to buy, to find out all she can about them. She'll become a regular reader of advertisements.

They'll help her to become the capable, wise housewife she wants so much to be. They'll tell her what clothes are best and what prices to pay for them. They'll tell her about the foods to buy, the electric appliances, the linoleums and draperies. They'll help her, as the advertisements in this newspaper can help you.

And she'll meet her responsibilities and fulfill her duties easily and well. She won't become a tired, flustered, inefficient drudge. Because her home will be modern, attractive, well-run, she'll keep young—through the speedy years she'll retain much of that shining-eyed, merry freshness. She and the "boy friend."
