These were the only persons who witnessed the tragedy from the front of the car. They were passengers in the stage, and when the bus stopped to change tires, they ran down to the stream to take some pictures. Hearing Zweifel's horn and thinking it was the bus driver warning them that he was about to leave, they dashed up the bank and reached the bridge just in time to see the child killed.

"She folded back over the bumper as soon as she was struck, carried about two-car lengths, and then dropped to the bridge, where both left wheels passed the length of her body," Mr. Funk said this morning.

"Another youngster had started to follow her, but was caught back by some one standing near the three parked cars. Mr. Zweifel wasn't driving more than 20 miles an hour. He stopped his car as soon as he could, but the child was probably dead before he had time to put on his brakes."

Funeral Tomorrow
 The funeral service will be Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when burial will take place. The hour and place had not been determined at noon today.

Both parents are nearly prostrated by the tragedy, neighbors said today. They are known to be acquaintances of the Mr. and Mrs. Zweifel both of whom were in the car at the time of the accident and feel sad occasion deeply.

Surviving besides the parents are two brothers, Harold, 21, and

NIMRODS MAKE PERFECT SCORE

Wing, Fin and Fleetfoot nimrods read a perfect score to the Oregonian at the close of yesterday's telegraphic shoot before the largest crowd of the season at the Lone Tree field. Five other clubs of the state turned in topnotch tallies, but none of La Grande's competitors were among them. Silverton, with whom the local marksmen tied last week, went down with 71 points against La Grande's 75; Corvallis' score was 72, and Bend's, 69. Roseburg, Washington County, Portland, Coquille and Wallawa were contemporaries of La Grande in the perfect scoring yesterday.

J. D. Smith, Claude Mackey and Leslie Kinzel each shattered a bird with every shot yesterday, giving their club the maximum record for the day. Their nearest competitors were W. H. Bohlenkamp Sr., C. I. Kingsley, Chase Bohlenkamp and A. J. Stange, each of which brought down 23 pigeons.

The day was ideal for trap shooting—bright and crisp, without a stir of wind to overcome. Fifty members of the club got into the sport. The audience was the largest of the season, the officers report.

Marion, 11, and a month-old sister, Constance, all three of whom were present, and a sister, Maxine, who is student at the University of Oregon, were in the line.

The Pierce family had been on a Sunday outing in the Minam canyon, and were about to leave for home when the little girl was killed. Mr. Pierce is a farmer.

A coroner's inquest was held over the body at Wallawa today. Both Mr. and Mrs. Zweifel were present. It is generally expected the jury will return a verdict of unavoidable accident.

Estes, of Joseph, is a hard man to guard, and is proficient in every phase of the game. He is a brilliant player, a great floor man, and difficult to check in his advances.

"In Payne and Estes, the team has an ideal combination at forwards—both speedy, shifty and angry."

Lyman Gets Call
 "Choosing a center was quite a problem. Duff, of Baker; Lyman of La Grande; Craven of Joseph, and Crawford of Wallawa, all came in for consideration. Duff, being Lyman largely because he has the call over the others in scoring ability, ending the tournament second high point man—only one point behind the leader, Payne. He is a big fellow; has plenty of speed, plays the floor well, and is a brilliant shot.

Seeking Fair Test.
 Enforcement of the law so far, he said, has not been a fair test of the working of prohibition and a fair test cannot be made until a Judiciary and a police force sufficient to carry out the law is available.

Complaining against the continuous agitation against the law, the assistant secretary said this was responsible for the social trend of drinking. He said he hoped for the time when hostesses would apologize for serving liquor rather than for not serving it, which latter condition, he said, now exists to a more or less degree.

He said that if improvement of enforcement continues on its present basis time soon would come when the hostess would apologize for the quality of the liquor at least.

The house alcoholic liquor traffic committee, which plans an inquiry of its own into conditions under prohibition decided today to call Mr. Andrews as its first witness. Chairman Hudson said the assistant secretary would be asked to appear at his earliest convenience.

Mr. Hudson was unable to forecast the nature and scope of his committee's survey. He said it might be decided after a preliminary inquiry, simply to endorse

RUSSIA IN RACE.
 Lieutenant Wade believes that Soviet Russia is planning a secret fleet to the unexplored in hope of claiming any land that may be found.

Lieutenant Wade hopes to establish the shortest London to Tokyo route. It was thus that Hendrick Hudson sought the "shortest route" to Cathay, Hind and Nippon.

The Byrd expedition, backed in part by John D. Rockefeller Jr., and Ebbel Ford, also seeks this unknown land.

tion that they could not aid in their rescue. They were brought to a hospital here.

The Redders started from Led Bluff, approximately 50 miles west of the point from which they were found, for a brief trip to the Fort-Lee river meadow country. When they reached the ranger station they found that the snow had blocked all roads and trails under drifts five feet high. Their food supply was soon exhausted and Redder ventured forth and caught two sparrows which they cooked and ate.

As succeeding days wore on with no hope of rescue and no abatement in the snowstorm, the couple lost hope and noted their sufferings in their diary. On Saturday last a maintenance man of the state highway commission, measuring snow in the region came upon them. He informed E. P. Gardner, manager of the cruising department of the lumber company who rescued the couple.

 chis, or by persons who live in the neighborhood.

There were at the time several cars, headed toward Wallawa, parked on the right hands side of the road, across from the fountain. The Joseph stage, returning to La Grande, had stopped on the opposite side to change a punctured tire. A clearing wide enough for passing cars lay between the niches. Mr. Zweifel approached the spot rather cautiously, sounding his horn several times. Just as he drove into the clearing, the little Pierce girl ran from between the cars parked on the right hand side, and was struck by his bumper, before he could bring his car to a stop.
