YOUR INCOME TAX

Net income, upon which the income tax is assessed, is gross income less certain specified deductions for business expenses, losses, contributions, bad debts, etc. A storekeeper may deduct as a business expense amounts spent for rent of his place of business, advertising, premiums for insurance against fire or other losses, cost of water, light, and heat used in his place of business, drayage and freight bills, and the cost of maintenance and repair to delivery wagons and trucks, and a reasonable allowance for salaries.

A professional man, such as a lawyer, doctor, or dentist, may deduct the cost of supplies used in his profession, expenses paid in the bills used in making professional calls, dues to professional journals, office rent, cost of water, light and heat used in his office, and the hire of office assistants.

The farmer may deduct as necessary expenses all amounts actually expended in carrying on the business of farming, such as amounts paid in the production and harvesting of his crops, cost of seed and fertilizer used, cost of minor repairs to farm buildings, and cost of small tools used in the course of a year or two. The cost of farm machinery, equipment, and farm buildings is not deductible as an expense.

Deductions for personal or living expenses, such as repairs to the taxpayer's dwelling, cost of food, clothing, education of children, etc. are not allowed.

"Vanishing American" Now Showing At The Arcade

"The Vanishing American," Zane Grey's latest and greatest story to be screened by Paramount, overshadows any similar exposition ever written and establishes a new high mark in motion picture production. It is gigantic in spirit and presentation.

The picture, which is the feature at the Arcade theater starting today for three days, presents one of the biggest and most vital and civilization of the United States. It holds a deep element of tragedy from the Indian viewpoint, showing him dispossessed gradually of his lands and shorn of his power by the white man's progress.

To build up the tremendous theme we are carried back to prehistoric times in spectacular scenes that are absorbingly interesting, showing how the Indians overcame the cliff-dwellers, and how, in turn, the coming of the Spaniards heralded the passing of the Indian.

Two years of preparation were put into this picture by the company that has given the picture-going public such productions as "The Ten Commandments," "The Covered Wagon" and "Peter Pan."

Richard Dix, Lois Wilson, Noah Berry and Malcolm McGregor are featured in the leading roles of the production, adapted for the screen by Lucien Hubbard, George B. Seitz, who made "Wild Horse Mesa," directed. Ethel Doherty wrote the screen play.

In brief, the story is one of Dix, a Navajo Indian youth, educated among the white people, who is confronted with the barrier of race when he falls in love with a lovely white girl. Returning with a doachment of Indian soldiers from the war front of Europe, he finds his tribesmen in a rebellion that threatens to become grave—a rebellion against the oppressors to which they are subjected. How he averts disaster to his people and works out his own destiny in service to his race against the conflict of his love for the American girl is a motif of stirring nobility.

The scope of the story is tremendous, harking from the primitive days up to the present when the race, segregated to reservations, is dividing—thwarted aboriginals who cannot cope with the might of the mechanized era wrought by white civilization.

Completing the all-star lineup of supporting players are such prominent names as George Marshall, Shannon Day, Charles Crockett, Bert Woodruff, Bernard Siegel, Guy Oliver, Charles Stevens, Joe Ryan.

"Cheaper to Marry" Is Colorful Picture Of New York Life

Given a lavish setting in the whirl of modern social life, "Cheaper to Marry," Samuel Shipman's big New York stage success, was filmed by Robert Z. Leonard and the result, regarded by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer officials as one of the most dramatic pictures of the year, will be seen at the Sherry theater today and tomorrow.

Brilliant social events in the luxurious surroundings of New York hotels and clubs, intimate glimpses of an exclusive women's athletic club, and thrilling scenes in the stock exchange all go to make the film version of the play an unusual picture.

Thrilling through the picture is a powerful story of the age-old war of the sexes, which comes to a startling and realistic climax. Jim Knight, played by Lewis R. Stone, one of the finest actors of America, wages a bitter fight in conventions and losses. Matrimony, the film discloses, is the best and cheapest policy.

The cast is an exceptional one. Lucille Stone, it includes Conran Nagel, Paulette Goddard, Marguerite de la Motte, Louise Fazenda, Claude Gillingwater and Richard Wayne.

Miss Duval, former French dancer in Ziegfeld's "Follies," is seen in her first big screen role since "Monsieur Beaucaire," the Valentino film in which she characterized Madame Pompadour won wide acclaim. She is the mistress of Jim Knight, while Nagel and Miss de la Motte play opposite each other for the first time in their careers. A rich vein of comedy runs through the picture, capably handled by Miss Fazenda and Mr. Gillingwater.

Comedy showing "The Iron Nuts." Comedies showing "The Iron Nuts."

Buck Jones' New Picture Dazzles With Its Speed

A new Buck Jones is seen in "Durand of the Bad Lands," the William Fox star's latest hair-trigger offering, which opens a two-day engagement at the Star theater Friday.

Buck Jones is cast in the ideal role of Durand who, through a chain of unfortunate circumstances, has been given the name of the most brutal hand of all time. Exploits of extremely vicious nature are unjustly laid at his door, despite Durand's endeavor to clear his name.

Marion Nixon scores again by her delightful portrayal of the wife of the desert who wins Buck's heart, and his chance to show his abusers in their true light.

Maholm Waite and Fred De Silva are bad men of the most convincing sort. Waite portrays a crafty, double-crossing sheriff, while De Silva effectively registers a sinister, traitorous coward.

Lynn Reynolds, directed and adapted the story with a real understanding of western life.

Just 50 Years Ago

The first message was transmitted by telephone. This message was sent on March 10, 1876. Today there are in use in the United States more than 16,600,000 telephones with an average of about 67,700-000 calls per day. The telephone has helped in a large way to speed up the development of the universe and has brought the people of each community and of the forty-eight states of the United States into closer unity.
