Murphys Entertain At Bridge Party

Nine tables of bridge were at play last evening when Dr. and Mrs. Ray Murphy entertained the club at their home on O avenue. A lovely color scheme of yellow and lavender was used to decorate the rooms, pretty bouquets of magnolias and sweetpeas being used. The same color scheme was cleverly carried out in the two-course luncheon served following the games.

Mrs. A. J. Stange received the ladies' prize among the guests and R. E. Westenhaver won the gentlemen's guest prize. The club prizes went to Mrs. Frank Halston and Dr. Lee Bouvy.

Turkish Women Told Correct Ladylike Walk

CONSTANTINOPLE, Mar. 26, (AP)—Turkish women are exhorted by the Constantinople daily, "The Republic," not to adopt amidst all their new western practices the Anglo-Saxon woman's "soldierly stride." The sheet devoted to women, a recent innovation of this newspaper, lays down the following rules as to the proper method of walking for the lady-like:

"Do not drag your feet but slide them gently along the pavement. Do not waddle from side to side or move your shoulders or swing your arms. Take short, dainty steps—a long stride is unlovely in woman—and above all, don't rush. Keep your eyes on a high point directly ahead of you and appear to see nothing."

Perfect Dress Would Be Classed Frumpish

LONDON, Mar. 26, (AP)—Women will never wear what physicians consider is a perfect dress because they would view it as ugly and "frumpish," said Sir Robert Armstrong-Jones, famous English doctor in a lecture on clothing at Grosvenor college.

NEW BOOKS ON LIBRARY SHELF

"A Guide to Good Golf" by Barnes and Vardon's "The Old of Golf" are seasonal additions to the library shelves that will be placed in circulation at 6 o'clock Saturday evening.

House Beautiful's building annual for 1925 will be quickly drawn by the prospective house builder, the librarians believe.

The homemaker busy with spring dressmaking will welcome Downs' "Elements of Costume Design." "The New Butterick Cook Book" by Rose may also serve her house-keeping needs.

For the person who does his traveling in fancy, Shackleton's "Touring Through France" promises delight. "A Tropical Tramp With the Tourists" accomplishes an easy trip through difficult territory. And when one travels in imagination, time elements offer no obstacles. Williams' "Tour to Oregon in 1841" should prove a boon to the tourist who patronizes the slogan, "See Oregon First."

Some romance, a few volumes of history and several educational texts complete the stack of new books waiting to be dipped into: "Shakespeare's Handbooks" (Ballou); "The Divine Lady" (Harrington); "On Culture and a Liberal Education" (Bennett); "Romance, the Loveliest Thing" (Black); "American Literature" (Bronson); "Religious Education Through Story Telling" (Cather); "The Secrets of the Chinaman" (Christie); "The Life of Orison Sweet Marston" (Connolly); "Flora Difficult Years" (Cuthrell); "Runaway" (Harrington); "We, the People" (Higgins); "Look of American Negro Spirituals" (Johnson); "Bill Johnson's Second Joy Book" (Johnson); "Pottery" (Noke); "A Little Book of Friendship" (Morris); "The Black Friendship" (Norris); "A Pocketful of Posies" (Parrish); "Standard Etiquette" (Parrish); "An Introduction to Earth History" (Shimer); "The Odyssey of a Nice Girl" (Suckow); "The Elder Sister" (Swinton).

Styles of 3,000 Years Ago Found in Bavaria

MUNICH, Mar. 26, (AP)—A mass of evidence testifying to the fastidiousness of Germanic tribeswomen 3,000 years ago has been unearthed in the graveyard of a village of the bronze age in southern Bavaria. The finds have enabled German scientists to assemble entire wardrobes of women. The flapper of them wore a tight-fitting crest of reindeer skin, a bright-colored kilted jacket, woolen skirt reaching to the ground and a hair net which evidently covered only the braided knot of hair at the back of the head. The crowning glory of her culture seems to have been a double-toothed, horn comb studded with copper nuggets. Large quantities of bracelets, rings, etc., were found.

KING NEPTUNE BOARDS SHIP

Editor's Note—This is another of a series of articles written by A. B. Cherry, describing his trip around the world.

(By A. B. Cherry)

Saturday, January 30, at last the fateful day arrived. We were at the equator. King Neptune and all his court emerged from the deep and took command of the ship. Swift minions of the law jailed the fool-hardy scoffers before his majesty. Their guilt being duly established punishment followed quickly and through the brine they crossed the line, to the great delight of Neptune's loyal subjects. It was an afternoon of fun and frolic and to show for it we received our certificates from the allowed to land at Java who Batavia, Java. We came to anchor early Monday morning and the health officials came aboard. After much delay the announcement was made that no one would be allowed to land at Java who had not been vaccinated in the last two years. About half of the passengers had to undergo the ordeal, we among the rest. In the afternoon the entire crew was vaccinated.

Visit Java
Java was one of the delightful stops on our voyage. We found a bright attractive city as clean as a pin and thoroughly Dutch, though in a charming tropical climate. It is a city of canals, but very up to date.

The natives, looking like little animated bronze images, seemed happy and on good terms with life. They spent many hours at the canals and in the water, washing their clothes or their person, and play

Sister Mary Says:

(By Sister Mary)
Breakfast—Grapefruit, cereal, thin cream, crisp toast, French omelet, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—New carrot puree, toasted crackers, fig custard, milk, tea.

Dinner—Roast veal, boiled macaroni, beefs in orange sauce, head lettuce with Thousand Island dressing, prune, whip, Graham bread, milk, coffee.

Macaroni which has been carefully cooked and blanched makes a delicious accompaniment for roast veal. The macaroni should be well seasoned with salt, pepper and butter just as potatoes would be. One or two tablespoonsfuls of grated cheese added during the reheating gives a certain richness to the dish. There should not be enough cheese to really taste, so the cheese must be grated to insure perfect blending.

New Carrot Purée

Two cups milk, 1/2 cup thin cream, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon onion juice, 1 cup grated raw carrot.

Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point and add cream, salt and pepper and onion juice. Bring again to the boiling point and stir through the day much as children do.

We had several excursions while in Java, one to Batuozong, the capital, about forty miles by train, where the world famous botanical gardens are located. To us this was especially interesting and we found they were up to our expectations. The scenery throughout Java is attractive beyond description, and the plantations for raising rice, tea and coffee, rubber, coconuts and other products are very interesting.

From here we sail for Singapore. Our mail seems to be following us, no word from home since December 15.

boiling point and add the grated milk. The stock makes a rather raw carrot. Cook over hot water better puree than the milk but is for ten minutes and serve. The carrot must be grated, not finely chopped.

One good turn deserves another. If veal or chicken stock is available and one bad turn usually brings on able it can be used in place of the another.
