

UNION DAIRY MEN ORGANIZE

The dairymen of the Union community met in the high school building at Union Monday evening to discuss cooperative marketing of cream. Representatives from some of the largest creameries were present, including H. P.

Tyler of the Blue Mountain creamery here. Mr. Goble of the Payette Cooperative Creamery company, Idaho, and representatives of the Union creamery, which plans to reopen.

A permanent dairymen's organization was formed to foster the dairy industry in that community. A board of directors, consisting of H. J. Nielsen, C. P. Ewaldson, William Woodruff, W. W. Langford and James Kofford, was elected. Officers will be selected from among those men at a later meeting.

The board of directors voted to send a committee to Payette to gather information about the Payette Cooperative Creamery company. Besides visiting the creamery at Payette, members of this committee will visit dairymen at Haines, who are sending their cream there and are members of the association owning the creamery. H. G. Avery, Union county agent, was in attendance at the meeting.

NATURAL LEADERS

LEADERS in anything do not obtain that place by accident. It is the result of sheer superiority in virility, stamina and fine quality. It is personality.

Among the coffees of the Pacific Northwest, Golden West is a leader because of these sterling qualities—it is the coffee of Personality.

Only a product possessing these characteristics could have survived the commercial obstacles and hardships since Frontier Days, the days when Golden West first made a bid for favor. It is the natural "survivor of the fittest."

The Golden West Girl is now the symbol of that leadership—her picture is seen in leading stores everywhere, your identification of—
