LARGE CROWD TO SEE FIGHT

One of the biggest crowds of the boxing season will be at Rex hall tonight to see the return go between Rocco Stramaglia, Portland, and Buster Adams, La Grande. Reports of ticket sales are accurate.

King-side seats are in demand and the promoting club, the La Grande A. C., expects a flood of general seat demands tonight before the 5:15 o'clock deadline.

The bills declare that Rocco Stramaglia and Buster Adams "boxed a draw in La Grande recently and are itching to settle supremacy conclusively."

The 26-round program follows: 7th-round main event, Stramaglia and Adams.

Six-round semi-final: Earl Stolz, 142, Bend vs. Delmer Allen, 142, La Grande.

Six-round special: Carl Becker, La Grande, vs. Italph Wright, Baker.

Four-round preliminary: Wallace Allen vs. Mickey Thomas, both of La Grande.

Oregon Hopes Strike Bottom in Track Meet

EUGENE, Ore., May 6. (AP)—Oregon prospects for the dual meet with the University of Washington track team here Saturday hit bottom today when it became known that Tom Holder, two miler and Victor Wetzel, weightman, would be unable to participate because of injuries.

Wetzel is the only weightman on the squad capable of doing anything, while Holder was conceded a good chance in his event.

A bride's beauty is greatly enhanced by choosing ugly bridesmaids.

These are the days every question mark in a boy's lesson looks more like a fish hook to him.

Both those birds were mighty tough for me to make base hits on, so I figure them worth a chance as regulars.

Both pitchers have already justified Hornsby's confidence. In the first 10 days of play, Keen had won his first two starts, as many victories as he hung up all last season.

STRANGE BUT TRUE

Would you be surprised at the statement that more base hits are made on bad balls, strikes that are just over or balls that just miss the plate, than on strikes that cut the heart?

While I have noted that fact during my many years of umpiring, it was forcibly brought to my attention recently by the conversation of two mighty good batters.

Catcher Hargraves of the St. Louis club had just popped up to the infield on a perfect strike, right over the plate, waist high. Just such a ball you would expect to hit out of the lot.

As Hargraves resumed his place back of the bat at the close of the inning, he remarked to This Speaker, the first man up for Cleveland: "How do you pop 'em up that way when they are right over?"

"That's always the way with those perfect strikes," replied Speaker. "I get more hits on bad balls than good ones and hit 'em harder."

UNION PERSONALS

UNION (Special).—Among those who went to La Grande Tuesday to see "The Gordilla" were Alma Brock, Mrs. Mary Brock, Gracia Haggerty, Sidney Dobbie, Mr. and Mrs. Newell Martens, Steve Hutchinson, Dora Hutchinson, Edith Pity, Claude Cadwell, Margaret Pity, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Miller and daughter, Bethene.

Billy Evans Says:

"The Babe looks good at the bat even when he strikes out." That remark is often made as Ruth, after taking three healthy swings in vain, retires to the bench for the customary drink.

There is something inspiring in the cut Ruth takes at a ball whether he hits a home run or misses it a mile.

Ernie Nevers, famous Stanford athlete, made his major league debut in a recent game against Cleveland. Southpaw Joe Shantz struck him out, yet Nevers impressed you with his batting power despite his failure to hit safely.

He didn't give the umpire a chance to call any. The first swing resulted in a long foul to left. On his next effort he sent a long fly to right that just failed to drop into the stands but it was also foul.

The third pitch was a fast ball, high and inside. He took a terrific wallop but missed and was out. He reminded you of the Babe, except that he bats right-handed.

SUBWAY DELIVERY

At college, Nevers was Stanford's star pitcher as well as a ballplayer. He also was as proficient a batsman as pitcher. He won many of his important games through his hitting as much as his pitching.

Nevers is the ideal athlete, as far as physique is concerned, to be a successful pitcher. A six-footer, the possessor of a powerful pair of shoulders, he gets plenty on the ball.

In college, and at present, Nevers is an underhand pitcher. His style is somewhat similar to that of Carl Mays, except that he doesn't get as low with his arm and body before delivering the ball.

During spring training the St. Louis club had him experiment with a sidarm delivery, believing that he might prove more effective, due largely to the thought that he would develop better control.

Nevers still sticks to the underhand style and is a good pitcher, his greatest fault, of course, being lack of experience.

HORNBY'S LOGIC

Manager Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals is generally considered baseball's greatest batter at the present time. A pitcher who can trouble Hornsby certainly must have something on the ball.

Recently while discussing the pennant chances of his club with me, he dwelled on the fact that he expected Vic Keen and Walter Huntzinger to win for him.

Last season Huntzinger was used almost exclusively as relief pitcher by the New York Giants, while the best Keen could do with the Chicago Cubs was to win two games while suffering six defeats. He worked in parts of 30 games.

While Hornsby is mighty modest about his hitting ability, I appreciated the logic of his remarks when he explained to me why he made the deals for Keen and Huntzinger.

"Both those birds were mighty tough for me to make base hits on, so I figure them worth a chance as regulars.

Both pitchers have already justified Hornsby's confidence. In the first 10 days of play, Keen had won his first two starts, as many victories as he hung up all last season.

Sitting pretty and no mistake!

LIKE the chap in the song, I'm sitting on top of the world. And it's not a bad world when you look at it from all sides. I've hit some rough spots, but managed to keep my seat. I want to let it be known that the road has been a heap smoother since I discovered Prince Albert. Here is tobacco!

Prince Albert is friendly in spirit and friendly in fact. It never bites my tongue or parches my throat. They tell me the Prince Albert process fixed that for me and millions like me. I only know that P. A. is cool and satisfying as spring-water on a hot afternoon and that it suits me to a T.

My old jimmy-pipe and Prince Albert and I go along just singin' a song from morning to midnight. Whenever I get to feeling low, I take out my pipe, tamp a load of good old P. A. into the muzzle and light up. Old Man Trouble takes French leave the minute that wonderful smoke starts up the stem.

You're welcome to this leaf out of my book. If you're not smoking P. A., you're not getting full enjoyment out of your pipe. Just get yourself a tidy red tin of Prince Albert. Load up your old jimmy-pipe and light up. Nothing complicated about that, is there? Well, that's my formula. It always works for me.

PRINCE ALBERT

—no other tobacco is like it!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin tins, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Aggies and University Ball Teams to Clash

EUGENE, Ore., May 6. (AP)—Four inches of mud has kept the University of Oregon varsity baseball team from much needed practice this week, the diamond being a sea of ooze from the recent rains. With better weather today, however, it is expected that the field will be in condition for the clash with the Oregon Agricultural college team tomorrow afternoon.

From all reports the Aggies will bring a team of swainsmiths to Eugene.

Bill Ashby, Oregon mound ace, will be thrown in against the Aggie batters tomorrow with Bill Baker slated to hurt in Saturday's contest.

COMMUNIST SENTENCED

LONDON, May 6. (AP)—Shapurji Saklatvala, the lone communist member of parliament, was sentenced to two months imprisonment today for making a seditious speech. He was given the alternative of proving his innocence to keep the peace, but chose the prison sentence.
