the equivalent of a year of religious education in Sunday school. They spent in supervised play and expert-instructed craftwork many hours that they might otherwise have passed in the streets. To top it all off, they gave a big picnic, a parade and a demonstration program that made lasting impressions upon the young lives.

Calling For Teachers
 Meantime, the committee broadcasts a call for volunteer teachers. Names should be submitted to Mr.

But for one reason or another—illness, vacation out-of-town, or plans for summer school—the teachers the committee had hoped to enlist were unable to help this year. Only 25 of the needed 75 have been assured.
Mass Meet Called
 A willing to relinquish the plan if there is still a chance to see it successfully through, the committee has decided to lay the situation before the public in hope that some solution may be offered. To this end, a mass meeting has been called for 8 p. m. Sunday at the First Methodist church. Congregations of the following churches are invited for the occasion: First Presbyterian, First Baptist, Central Church of Christ, St. Peter's Episcopal, Methodist church south, and First Methodist.
 The Rev. George Albert Pollard, pastor of the Baptist church, who has been appointed superintendent, will speak. The Rev. W. C. Ross, Presbyterian, who is committee chairman, is to preside.
 Tuesday noon, at the chamber of commerce luncheon at the Foley hotel, W. J. Sly, head of the religious education department of Linnfield college, at McMinnville, will present the facts of the situation. He is to conduct the institute of methods for prospective teachers Monday and Tuesday of next week.
 Prospective teachers and all others interested are invited.
 Names should be submitted to Mr.

the decedent was a member of the Baptist church and of the Rebekah lodge.

This year it was planned to expand and improve the school, correcting last year's mistakes incurred. A beginners department was to be added to take care of the under-school age folks whose parents have asked that the opportu-

Ross or Mr. Pollard, accompanied by a statement of qualifications to teach in any of the following departments: Bible, missions, character building, handicraft, music, pageantry and supervised play. Accompanists also are needed. The disc. Search of a garage maintained from a half hour to three hours a day, and from a week to the full four weeks of the term—should be specified.
