Sister Mary Says:

(By Sister Mary)

Breakfast—Stewed prunes, cereal, thin cream, crisp rye toast, peanut butter, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Baked lima beans, brown bread, cottage cheese and carrot salad, oatmeal drop cookies, milk, tea.

Dinner—Smothered veal steak, baked potatoes, jellied asparagus salad, whole wheat bread, rhubarb meringue pudding, milk, coffee.

In some homes veal is seldom served on the theory that it's an indigestible food. Now an authority on foods and their digestibility tells us that veal "is no more indigestible than fish or chicken or beef. In fact, in France it is a delicacy given to invalids as we give chicken in this country." So when veal is in market and cheaper than chicken we may serve it without misgivings.

Jellied Asparagus Salad
Two bunches asparagus, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatin, 1/2 cup cold water, 2 cups veal or chicken broth, 1 tablespoon minced carrot, 1 tablespoon minced celery, 1 slice onion, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Wash and scrape asparagus and cook until tender. Cool. Add carrot, celery, onion, salt, sugar and parsley to meat broth and simmer fifteen minutes. Strain through cheese cloth, reheat, and add gelatin softened in cold water and lemon juice. Let stand until cold and pour into a shallow pan or mold. When beginning to set add asparagus in neat rows arranged in such a way that the vegetable will not be broken in serving. When chilled and firm cut in squares and serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

If any water is left when cooking asparagus it should be added to the broth and the amount of broth decreased in proportion.

DEER CHARGE AUTO
HIBBING, Minn.—When three deer found their way blocked on a road near here by a small touring car, they charged the machine, knocked it off the highway and so badly damaged it that it had to be abandoned. One deer was seriously injured. The others fled.
