La Grande Theatres

Comedy Offerings Feature Vaudeville Coming to Arcade

Dispensers of jollity, music and vocal selections and novel ideas will be seen at the Arcade theater on Sunday.

Heading the list with the well-known comedy producers, Grace Hale and Co., is "Hitchhike," a comedy playlet. Oliver and Hyman present "Tuneful Tomfoolery," a nonsensical odyssey of mirth and melody. Carr and Morin appear in "Hits from Musical Hits," comedy songs, stories and dancing. Turno and Jaxon will do a novelty dancing number called "A Little Surprise." Dell Day in "Demonstrations of Diversity" gives character impressions of well-known artists.

Alma Rubens Sets New Style for Head Dress in Picture

Alma Rubens sets a new style for evening head-dresses in the Fox Films production, "The Gilded Butterfly," which will be shown at the Star theater Sunday and Monday in which she is co-featured with Bert Lottell. Instead of wearing the fragile looking wreath of shining rhinestone leaves across her forehead, she uses them to join the graceful wisp of dark hair at the nape of her shapely neck.

The effect is both original and becoming, giving the lovely waves of her hair the chance to fall softly across her forehead—keeping at the same time the dignity of a formal head-dress.

Miss Rubens makes a very real person of Linda Haverhill, the poor little rich girl in the picture. Linda is a character whom one both pities and blames. You'll pity her because of the way she has been raised and you'll blame her for her lack of grit and backbone.

Linda has been brought up in luxury by an indulgent and adoring father, ignorant of the fact that their apparent wealth is sham. At his death she discovers how they have lived; the man to whom she is about to announce her engagement breaks with her when he finds she is not wealthy; her aunt turns her out of her house to make her own way.

All of this turns the girl from a sweet and lovable person into a cynical woman determined to keep up the show in some way or another. In this mood she accepts a loan from her father's friend John Converse, giving some worthless stock as security.

She goes abroad and tries to make her fortune at Monte Carlo. She is on her way to Lucerne to sign Converse, who has finally called her bluff, when she meets Bert Lottell. It is a case of love at first sight for both and from then on Linda tries to live within her means—as far as she knows how.

The climax of the story comes swiftly and unexpectedly. Not until the end is it certain just how the picture will finish. Miss Rubens is supported by an all-star cast. Bert Lottell is co-featured with her. Other in the cast include Frank Keenan, Vera Lewis, Herbert Rawlinson, Arthur Hoyt, Huntly Gordon and Carolynne Snowden.

New Action Picture Showing At Sherrys

"The Fatal Mistake," at Sherrys is a newspaper story in which a young sub reporter makes a terrible mistake and loses his job. In his efforts to show that the man who fired him was wrong he gets on the trail of a pair of crooks and gets a story, the crooks and a girl

"Bunker Bean" Said to Be Great Comedy

It is a very excellent picture and should provide a very pleasant evening's entertainment. With the two lead players are Wilfred Lucas, Bruce Gordon, Dot Farley, Frank Clark, Harry McCoy and Paul Welzel. The direction is under the eye of Scott Dunlap.

Comedy showing "Nobody's Business."

Harry Beaumont, who directed "Heau Brummel," "The Lover of Camille," "Habbit" and other screen hits, has won new distinction with his production of "His Majesty, Bunker Bean," the Warner Bros. Classic of the screen which opens tomorrow at the Sherry theater with Matt Moore and Dorothy Devore in the leading roles.

Here is a comedy as deft and sparkling as Lubitsch's "Kiss Me Again." Only in this case the story comes out of American life and hits closer to home with its underlying current of honest pathos. At the same time this picture of Harry Leon Wilson's novel and the play by Leo Wilson Dodd is so generously seasoned with hilarious situations that it will remain in mind always as a laugh riot.

As in "The Narrow Street" and "How Baxter Ruined In," Matt Moore is seen as a timid, glib youth. This time he is a clerk who is told by two fake aristocrats of Napoleon. Convinced that he is a ruler of men, he wins the love of his employer's daughter and falls heir to a fortune. But his conceit and overbearing manner do not win him the friendship of his sweetheart's people, and he turns again to the charities for advice. They tell him that he is really the reincarnation of an Egyptian king and this leads to a series of riotous incidents.

Dorothy Devore plays the adoring little flapper who proposes to Bunker Bean and fires him with ambition and courage.

Comedy showing "Account of Monte Cristo."
