LONDON (AP)—British hostesses are clamoring for a name to be used in designating a new meal served at 9:30 or 10 in the evening, which has become fashionable in the larger cities.

This meal became popular with frequenters at the Riviera, where dinner is always late. Then the early opening of many London theaters makes it impossible for busy persons to have their dinner before they go to the theater. Consequently they want to eat after the performance. Those who have eaten nothing since tea time want more than the after-theater supper.

"Bunker Bean" Showing Last Time At Sherrys Tonight

Harry Leon Wilson's "Bunker Bean," pictured by Warner Bros., as "His Majesty, Bunker Bean," will begin a two day engagement on Sunday at the Sherry Theater.

Milt Moore has the hits, 1916, and Dorothy Doyce is featured with him as the flapper heroine.

Bunker Bean is a young man of shy and retiring disposition who is duped by a charlatan into believing himself the reincarnation of Napoleon and one of the Pharaohs and who becomes inspired with a supreme belief in himself.

"Bunker Bean" was first published in 1912 and took the country by storm. Today it still retains its popularity, while most other best-sellers are forgotten.

Harry Beaumont directed the production, and Julien Josephson wrote the scenario, basing it upon the Leo Wilson Dudd stage play, as well as the novel.

Critics in other cities have hailed "His Majesty, Bunker Bean" as one of the greatest comedy hits of the season.

Ralph Lewis Heads Cast in Picture At Star Theater

Clang! Clang! Clang!—and the siren shrieks its wailing call which warns all within hearing distance that the fire demon has broken loose again and is seeking to destroy all within its fiery path.

One of the most picturesque and dangerous occupations in times of peace is that of the fire-fighter and it is "One of the Bravest" of these around which the story of the latest Gotham Production is built.

Often weeks of idleness and then the sudden alarm which electrifies into instantaneous action the brave men who protect lives and property. Without hesitation they plunge fearlessly into the flaming vortex from which, often, some never return.

Such is the background of "One of the Bravest," which comes to the Star theater Tuesday and into it is compressed within an hour's entertainment, a romance of action and adventure which reaches a flaming climax that has all the thrills of a "three-alarm fire."

Ralph Lewis, the veteran character actor, heads a star cast which includes Edward Hearn, Claire Howell, Pat Somerset, Marian Mack and Sid Franklin. The cast of actors being backed up by one of the finest and most efficient metropolitan fire departments equipped with the very latest fire-fighting apparatus.

A thread of comedy, a strong theme of romance and deeds of daring are the main elements of

"Second Chance" Now Showing At Arcade

Two stirring incidents occur in "Her Second Chance," which is the attraction at the Arcade today and Tuesday. One is a horse race and the second is an indoor bathing party. Either one of them would have made the picture an outstanding attraction.

Anna Q. Nilsson plays the leading feminine role in the picture, with Huntley Gordon, playing opposite her. Charlie Murray is cast in a comedy role.

The racing scene is a depiction of the famous Kentucky derby and is done with striking realism. This reviewer learned yesterday that the favorites in the race were two of the speediest examples of horse-flesh in California.

As to the indoor bathing party, it is a treat in itself. A party of revellers are invited to a ballroom party in their beach costumes. In the midst of the dance, however, the waxed floor slides back, revealing a sparkling pool into which the grateful guests impetuously dive. All those who have ever attended an overheated ballroom affair will appreciate the suggestion.

"Her Second Chance" is an adaptation of the popular novel by Mrs. Wilson Woodrow Lambert, Ellinger directed, while June Mathis acted as editorial chief of the production.

A Buster Brown comedy is also being shown.

COLT DAMAGES AUTO

BUTTE, Mont., (AP)—A colt and an auto met in mortal combat on a country road in the Madison valley, near here, and when it was all over an apparently uninjured colt treated of leaving a badly damaged auto whose two occupants nursed serious cuts and bruises. Escaping from cowboys, the colt leaped a corral fence coming down in front of the moving machine. A second leap brought him down on top of the car, smashing the top and splintering the wind shield.

MONOPOLY TO END SEATTLE (AP)—R. S. Linper, Singapore, manager of the Firestone, Tire and Rubber company predicted that a monopoly held by Great Britain on the production of crude rubber will be broken within a year and that the prices of rubber products in this country will greatly decrease within that time.

TOKYO (AP)—Jazz and the Charleston, paid entertainers who sing and dance, are an absolute necessity, sobbed hair and other western modes have invaded Japan but the picturesque and colorful costumes have lost no position. Statistics disclose there are now approximately 75,000 geisha in the Flowery Kingdom, Tokyo heading the list of cities with 10,000. They are appearing at every dinner or tea party.

LONDON (AP)—Mayfair hostesses have formed a secret society of their own to combat the uninvited guests who frequent large parties in London.

Mrs. Stanley Baldwin and many other famous women will not permit guests to be admitted to their large affairs unless they present their invitations at the door and have sent letters of acceptance to the invitation.

Most of the uninvited guests are young well-dressed men, who make such a good appearance that professional detectives cannot spot them.

ROME (AP)—Roberta West, the novelist, has advised friends in London that she will make her permanent home in the United States, returning only for brief visits to England.
