"A Good Place To Trade"

Billy Evans Says:

ROOKIE INFELD

Many of the experts are inclined to the belief that the inexperience of the Detroit infield will prove a serious handicap to the Tigers' chances.

When the season opened the veterans Lu Blue and Frank O'Rourke were at first and second. Playing short was the brilliant Jackie Tavener with a year's experience, while at third was Warner, who made an auspicious debut last fall.

Inside of two weeks illness and injuries had changed entirely the personnel of the Tigers' inner defense.

Instead of an infield balanced with a couple of old hands, it was a combination made up of young players, none with more than a year's big league experience.

New at first, Gehring at second, Tavener at short and Warner at third was the lineup of the Detroit infield.

NECESSARY ASSET

It has long been an accepted baseball truth that a pennant contender must have a well-rounded, experienced infield.

When sudden shifts caused a decided change in the makeup of the Tigers, some of the experts, who had predicted big things for Detroit, began to hedge.

Just what to do with the ball in a crisis was always a stumbling point for the young infielder. It has been a handicap which the Tigers have labored under and naturally it has cost a number of games.

While Manager Cobb no doubt realizes it will cost him many a ball game, still it is the only way to develop players and the Tigers have reached the stage where such action is necessary.

GREAT PROMISE

Of the youthful infield that has been doing its stuff for Detroit, Gehring and Warner are really the only recruits. Johnny Neun and Tavener have already established themselves as big leaguers.

I regard both Gehring and Warner as mighty fine prospects. Naturally they have their faults, like all newcomers, but the ability to deliver appears to be there.

Gehring reminds me of Hans Wagner in the field. Built along the lines of Wagner, he has the same loose, galloping style that made Honus one of the greatest stars of the game.

A left-handed hitter, Gehring takes a healthy cut at the ball and has a free swing that should get results once he learns his pitches. While the play of Warner at third has been erratic at times, he seems to have style and class that will eventually reward the Detroit club if it goes along with him.

CASE OF PECK

Every recruit must go through a certain period of his career in which lack of experience will prove a serious handicap.

"Take the case of 'Buddy' Myer, rookie shortstop of the Washington club. He is a classy looking recruit, certain to make good, but like all others he must pass through the baptism of fire before labeled a regular.

In the early games this spring he replaced the veteran Peckinpaugh at short and did a mighty good job of it. Yet it was apparent to me that the famous Washington infield lacked some of the smoothness that featured its play with Peck at short.

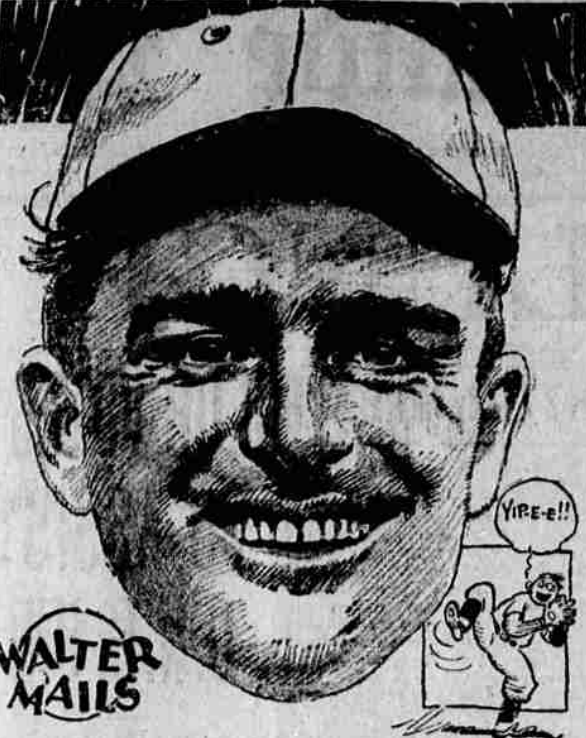

When Peck returned to the game the perfect cohesion returned. Not that Peck is so much better than Myer but simply because he knows how to play the rival batters and his teammates have a confidence in him that can be traced back to the experience of his play.

Missing

Walter S. Ward, of the millionaire baking family, whose mysterious disappearance at Trenton, N. J., has caused a wide search, Ward was acquitted a few years ago of the murder of Clarence Peters.

WALTER MAILS PASSES

"Duster" Mails, southpaw and comedian, has slipped back again. As you know, Manager Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals, shunted the eccentric finger to Syracuse the other day. There he's likely to stay for some time.

Mails—"The Great Mails?" as the entire Pacific Coast league knew him—stepped into fame back in 1922 when he won seven straight games for Cleveland after joining that club late in the season. His sensational work had much to do with bringing the Forest City its first and only pennant. In the world series that fall Mails played an important part, too, holding the heavy-hitting Brooklyn team to few hits and less runs.

Shortly after, Mails drifted back to the coast where he likewise proved a winner. The Cards got the easy-going hurrier last season and he did fairly well, though handicapped by injuries.

Mails has always preferred to play on the coast. This spring Hornsby told Mails if he didn't deliver he'd be shipped to Syracuse, not to the Pacific slope. Hornsby figured it might cause Mails to take the big tent seriously. It didn't however, so Hornsby made good his threat.

In reporting the capture of German troops by the Americans during the Revolutionary war, the London Morning Post said that the prisoners were employed in the cabbage fields making "sour grout."

The question now on the floor is: Which has caused the most profanity—Fords or radios?

Aggies and Oregon to Meet on Track Saturday

EUGENE, Ore., May 25. (AP)—The University of Oregon and the Oregon Agricultural college track teams will meet in Corvallis Saturday with nothing at stake but the championship of Oregon, but with the old rivalry of the two institutions flaring anew.

The Aggies will enter the meet a slight favorite. Against Washington, the Aggies made a better showing than did the Oregon squad. In the last conference meet the Aggies scored higher than did the Oregon men. O. A. C. also scored more points against Multnomah Athletic club of Portland than did Oregon.

Even with that record in view, the odds are slight as far as O. A. C. backers are concerned here and the prediction goes forth that it will be a close meet.

You can't tell. The number of his spare tires doesn't indicate how much he owes the filling station.

Union Anglers Plan Trip to Big Minam

UNION, May 25. (Special)—Charles Hiatt and Earl Bush were planning yesterday afternoon to pack back to the headwaters of the Big Minam river, east of here, to angle for rainbow trout which they say have grown to 30 inches long in that stream, due to the inaccessibility of the section they plan to visit. They were going up Catherine creek as far as Big Meadows, then across the mountains. The boys hope to return in time for the stock show.
