Billy Evans Says

DIAMOND REPARTEE—What do the umpires say to the players when they chase them? Also what do the players say to the umpires to so ruffle the officials that they give them the air?

SARCASTIC COMMENT

A star infielder, trying for a double play, making the force at first himself and throwing to first for the other half of the play, failed to get the runner at second, according to the umpire.

Either as an ailment, or because he believed the umpire had erred, the player made a mad rush for the umpire and jostled him about considerably as he spoke thusly:

"I don't know how you missed the base with those 'dogs' of yours," replied the umpire, "but you did, and officially the man is safe."

"Well, you can sit down in the club house for the rest of the afternoon," replied the umpire, "you're through for the day."

"That's the way with all you umpires," said the player, "you make a mistake and cover up by putting the ball player out of the game. I might add that all this is an old one, not so good."

"Why don't you put yourself out of the game?" was the player's parting jibe.

"When you decide you are no Charlie Paddock and make those plays properly, I won't have any reason to give you the gate," was the way the umpire ended the debate.

PLAYER PASSES ON—You missed that one," remarked the catcher at third as he went to his bench after the umpire had called the batter out on strikes to end the inning with the bases filled.

"You've been missing them all afternoon," added the player as he passed on.

continued on his way to the bench. "Well, I am not going to miss you for the rest of the game. You can take your shower and good riddance," replied the umpire.

SHEMOCK HOLMES STUFF—A player on the bench is taking issue with the plate umpire on almost every pitch.

The umpire at third base, realizing the umpire calling balls and strikes isn't sure just what player is creating the confusion, decides to do a little detective work himself.

He finally discovers the player doing the kicking. At about the same time the player is aware he has been spotted.

"Well, who are you looking at?" asked the player as the third base umpire gave him a stony stare.

"Nobody but you," said the umpire, "and I am sick of it. Get out of here."

THE WRONG IDEA—A star pitcher is disagreeing with the umpire on his judgment. Opposing players are constantly asking the umpire to look at the ball, believing the uncanny breaks it is taking must be due to trickery.

The star pitcher, displeased at the umpire's judgment and peeved at being forced to throw the ball to the umpire at stated intervals, loudly yelled:

BOBBY JONES IS ELIMINATED

MUIR FIELD, Scotland, May 28. (AP)—Joe Sweetser of New York reached the final of the British amateur golf championship today by defeating W. G. Brownlow of Ireland in his semi-final match at the 21st hole.

Sweetser will play A. P. Simpson, a young Scotchman, tomorrow for the championship. Simpson won his semi-final match from Arthur Jamieson Jr., two and one.

Sweetser played superlative golf during the last half of his morning match to win two up from Scott. The American was two down at the ninth, largely due to his indifferent putting, taking the ninth when Scott missed a short putt.

The crucial point came at the seventeenth when Scott, in addressing the ball for his second shot, moved it. Penalized for this, he pulled into the rough and lost the hole, squaring the match.

On the eighteenth, both approaches were good, but Sweetser's was the better and of his morning match he was two up from Scott. The American was two down at the ninth, largely due to his indifferent putting, taking the ninth when Scott missed a short putt.

(AP)—Joe Sweetser, of New York, former amateur champion, is the sole American to reach the semifinals of the British amateur golf championship.

Bobby Jones, his magic expander, against Robert Harris in their contest yesterday, fell before Arthur Jamieson Jr., a bruiser Scotch leader, four and three this morning.

Sweetser came through against Robert Scott Jr. by the margin of two holes.

Sweetser, in this afternoon's final, meets Hon. G. B. Rowntree who defeated W. A. Murray five and four, while Jamieson, Jones' conqueror plays S. P. Simpson.

THE ARMY MUST WASH SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—The laundry at the Presidio here will come to function on July 1. The little matter of clean shirts, collars and uniforms is to be left to the men themselves. Regulations prescribed that the men must be clean-shaven, and freshly clothed and bestowed, but fail to make any suggestions as to how they are going to accomplish this miracle without a laundry. A suggestion that Chinese laundry men be recruited has met with a deep official silence. It is more likely that the army will adopt the navy's "washday" system.
