Sister Mary Says:

(By Sister Mary) Breakfast — Stewed dried apricots cereal, thin cream, breakfast spinach and bacon, eye muffins milk, coffee.

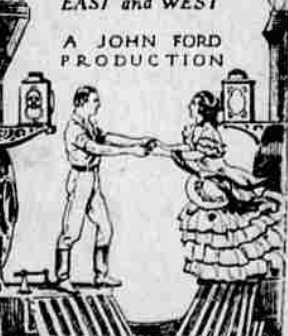

Luncheon — Casserole of meat and macaroni, stewed tomatoes, bean bread, drop cookies, milk, tea.

Dinner — Creole bouillabaisse, head lettuce with French dressing, pineapple sherbet, sponge cake, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

A "bouillabaisse" is a delicious fish dish that is neither a soup nor a ragout but which combines the excellent qualities of both. It makes a delightful main course for a hot weather dinner or a substantial luncheon dish any time of the year.

The casserole of meat and macaroni suggested in the luncheon menu uses up any chicken which may have been "left-over" from the preceding dinner.

Dazzling Beauty

A skin of satin creaminess that you, too, may have.

THE VERY FOUNDATION of dazzling beauty is a smooth skin, unmarred by tan, rough red spots, muddiness or other blemishes and imperfections. Powder, you know, wears off, and underneath your make-up, you should, and can have, a clear fresh skin, unstained by time and weather. The secret of being the joyous possessor of such a skin lies in the regular use of El Estado Lemon Cleansing Creme. This creme was created especially for the fastidious woman who demands purity and safety in all her toilet preparations. It's a famous old Spanish formula. Pure Lemon Oil is the absolutely safe, mild bleaching ingredient, releasing and soothing that nothing but the greatest benefit can result from its constant use. Further, it contains NO noxious fats to clog pores or promote hair growth, NO acids of any sort whatever to peel and blotch the delicate texture of the skin. Massaged gently into the skin, with careful upward strokes, it will remove those lines of fatigue and worry, revitalize the tired tissues, eradicate muddiness, tan, redness and other unsightly blemishes and imperfections—gradually and surely restore that satin creaminess which every woman should, and can, possess for herself. Nearly all toilet counters feature El Estado Lemon Cleansing Creme, in dollar jars, but should you wish to try it before you buy it, send us your name and address for free sample. * * * El Estado Products Co., Seattle, Washington.

Lola Wilson has gone in strong for gold and rhinestones in one of her evening gowns. It is of gold basket-weave cloth, very short and straight. Attached to each hip with flat rhinestone buckles and falling below the gown's hem are cascades of cream willow ostrich. Buckles of rhinestones glitter on each shoulder and a band of rhinestones outlines the hem. Slippers are of blond satin and gold leather with rhinestone buckles.

Almost anything may happen in a movie studio. Carol Dempster was shedding tears in a dramatic scene before one of Griffith's cameras out on Long Island. Before she finished, the script clerk had joined the crying and even the camera men and lighting experts exhibited long faces.

Two minutes later Miss Dempster was over on Bebe Daniels' set. She had picked up a discarded "property paste ornament and was presenting it—in words which sounded like a burlesque after-dinner speech and amidst laughter all around—to the comedienne who hadn't been any too happy in a sea-sick scene.
