Billy Evans Says:

EVIL OR GOOD
 The evil or the good that the golf swing has on the batter power of a big league ball player will always be a subject for discussion pro and con.

The veteran "Kid" Gleason, who has starred in every diamond role, player, coach and manager, is stonky against golf during the playing season and only lukewarm for it in the idle months.

"The stiff left arm, so necessary to good golf, is all wrong in baseball," says Gleason. "It is bound to change the style of the batter and make a tendency to make pop-up hits."

BIG OPPORTUNITY
 Opportunity is half the battle in sport, particularly if the athlete has the ability to deliver.

In the sensational showing made by the New York American, the play of Gardner Collins has figured prominently.

Yet, when Collins was brought back from the minors, it was strictly as an understudy to Benny Bengough, who had performed so well for the Yanks' last season.

A sore arm so handicapped Bengough this spring that the catching burden was put right up to Collins and he more than made good. He grasped opportunity by the right hand and held on.

YANKEE PITCHING
 In the several long winning streaks staged by the Yankees this year, the power of the club's attack has been given most of the credit for its success.

In the orgy of base hits that the Yanks have sprinkled over the American league diamonds, the pitching has apparently been overlooked.

Here is what no less an authority than Ty Cobb, who should be able to judge good pitching, says: "True, the Yanks have been getting their pitchers plenty of runs, but a lot of them were needed. The new pitching we have seen this year was placed on exhibition by the New York and Philadelphia twirlers.

"Don't overlook the Yankee staff in giving proper credit to the club's great showing."

SHORTSTOP'S SCARCE
 Stars at particular positions in major league baseball seem to run in cycles.

Usually a number of stars at a particular position make their debut at the same year only to have a dearth of material for several years among the recruits for the same position.

This season the American league appears to have uncovered a lot of promising second sackers among the recruits of 1926.

For several years there has been a limited amount of shortstop material, so that several clubs are now in need of reserve strength at that position.

MEUSEL'S VALUE
 The other day Bob Meusel segged from second base on a sacrifice fly.

That in itself is no mean feat but more important it is proof that the brilliant Bob Meusel is showing the one thing he has always lacked, initiative.

That alone has kept him from being regarded one of the greatest outfielders that ever camped under a fly ball. He deserves such a rating.

Meusel has every physical asset as well as a keen mind, but Bob seemed to lack the competitive spirit that tends to bring out a man's talents all the more.

This year he is showing the proper initiative and aggressiveness that recently caused Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees to remark:

"There is no more valuable player in the American league than Bob Meusel."

KOREANS HONOR LAST EMPEROR, LATE PRINCE YI

SEOUL, Korea, June 9. (AP)—Under the auspices of the imperial government of Japan, the funeral of Prince Yi, the last of the emperors of Korea, now a Japanese possession, will be held tomorrow on a scale which is expected to surpass that of any similar occasion in recent oriental history. Final preparations for the last solemn rites were pronounced complete today.

Prince Yi, a ruler without a realm since Korea was annexed in 1910, died April 25.

Thousands of visitors, including visitors from Japan as well as his former subjects have gathered in Seoul to pay last honors to the one-time emperor. More than 20,000 persons are expected to march in a great funeral procession which will start at 4:30 a. m. from the palace and then move to a pavil-on the parade grounds about a mile away about 8:30 a. m. The ceremonies at the parade grounds will be concluded at 11 a. m. The actual burial will be Friday at the mausoleum seven miles southwest of Seoul.

The funeral is believed will be on a scale surpassing even that of the Emperor Meiji, last of the Japanese mikados to die, who was buried in 1912 at Momoyama, near Kyoto. The respect paid to Prince Yi's memory is part of Japan's policy aimed at conciliation of her Korean subjects.

Farm Pointers

Hoekweat is among the late crops for Oregon that can still be planted by farmers desiring a late summer grain crop. Good stands have been obtained by the experiment station when the hoekweat was sowed at 35 to 45 pounds an acre even through the month of June.

The field for kale is heavily manured, as kale is a very gross feeder and requires a large amount of plant food, according to the Oregon experiment station. Previous to plowing, which is at a depth of about eight inches, the manure is put on as early as possible in the spring. The soil is then worked in low and kept harrowed to conserve moisture and kill weeds until time to put out the kale. The field is usually marked off in rows from 2 to 3 1/2 feet apart. After a satisfactory rain sometime in late May, June, or early July, the kale plants are transplanted about 2 to 3 feet apart in the row.

The best method of breaking up broody hens is to confine them in a rabbed coop with a slatted bottom. Another method is to confine them in a small pen with a few rabbits or other small harmless animals. The movement of these animals is making the hens forget their broodiness.

Setting hens are fed as soon as the eggs are hatched, since the feeding tends to keep the quiet, otherwise she may leave the nest. The hens are allowed to remain on the nest and brood the chicks for at least 24 hours after hatching is over. Keeping the nest slightly dark at hatching time often tends to keep the hens quiet. New chicks are not allowed to have any of the feed given to the hens.

MISS BROWNE TO MEET SUZANNE IN PARIS TOMORROW

PARIS, June 9. (AP)—Miss Mary K. Browne, three-time national champion of the United States will face the great Suzanne Lenglen in the final of the international hard court tennis championship. Miss Browne defeated Mlle. Bouman, of Holland, in today's semi-finals, 6-0, 6-2, while Mlle. Lenglen disposed of Joan Fry, English girl, at 6-2, 6-1.

Hawaii's Marbles Champion.

Francis Kau, 14, is the marbles champion of Hawaii and is traveling alone all the way to Atlantic City to take part in the national tournament conducted by the Scripps-Howard newspapers. It isn't so bad, though, he carries an open letter from the Honolulu Rotary club, and when he stops at any town all he has to do is present it to the local Rotary club and he gets looked after.

Standard Oil Employees Buy Stock Certificates

Stock certificates of the Standard Oil company of California have been dispatched to 12,000 employees who, through the operation of the company's stock investment and savings plan, have acquired 481,976 shares of company stock with a present market value of about $25,000,000.

The plan, which was initiated by the company five years ago for the purpose of assisting employees to become stockholders and to encourage thrift, was first in La Grande when it became known that $30,000 had been turned over by the force in La Grande, purchased since the plan was launched. Fourteen employees have bought from $500 to $6,000 worth of certificates.

A world flight was planned by a Belgian as early as 1894. The project included the construction of a huge aerostat, but it was turned down by scientific societies of Europe.

What's back of this shift in cigarette popularity?

Is it only a desire for change?

Is it a matter of price?

Or is it all a question of taste?

No—mere desire for change will not explain why so many thousands of smokers all over the country are changing from other cigarettes to Chesterfield.

It's something more fundamental.

No—price does not account for this sweeping turn-about in cigarette popularity, for Chesterfield is sold at the popular price—it costs the same as any of the other largest selling brands.

Yes—that's the answer. It is taste and taste alone that explains Chesterfield's sweeping gains. And taste is a matter of tobacco quality.

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price.
