BERLENBACH KEEPS CROWN

NEW YORK, June 11. (AP)—Paul Berlenbach, of Astoria, N. Y., pugilistic and dog fancier, remains champion of the world's light heavyweight class after registering an overwhelming point victory over the youthful Georgian Hill (Young) Strubling.

More than 50,000 persons, paying something like $200,000 were astonished at the contest they witnessed at the Yankee stadium last night. They saw the rout of a challenger who had ruled a favorite up to the very eve of the battle. Brilliant, powerful, aggressive at first, Young Strubling in the fourth felt the sting of a solid Berlenbach smash over the heart, and from that moment resorted to the only escape from punishment a beaten ring man can, of holding, pushing, pushing, his opponent.

Georgian Nearly Out.
Even then the champion broke from the clinging arms to drive heavily to body and head and several times the Georgian appeared to be near oblivion.

At times after that terrific blow in the fourth, Strubling mustered a little of his former fire and lashed back at the rugged mauler before him to score a few points. These gave him, in the opinion of critics, just three rounds of the fifteen while two were about even.

But when the final bell rang, the man from the south was a badly beaten boxer, hooded by the throng for his tactics, while from the same throats arose tremendous cheers for the champion's fiery defense of his valuable crown, which he gained a year ago in the same ring from one of the greatest defensive fighters of the time, Mike McTigue.

Berlenbach Aggressive.
Berlenbach met the hopes of his friends, who argued that a return to his old aggressive policy would carry the day. He fought in the started on their winning ways again.

At the close of their home stand against the western club, 11 straight wins had been hung up at the expense of Cleveland, Chicago and St. Louis.

PENNANT CONTENDERS
Pennant-contending clubs in the American league insist the Yanks will fade when the hot weather hits the athletes, that the veteran pitching staff will fail to go the route.

I am inclined to doubt it. If the Yanks continue to hit, the club can win with mediocre pitching, and it is certain to get a far better brand than that.

As a matter of fact, it wouldn't surprise me if the Yankee pitching improved rather than deteriorated with the arrival of warm weather.

Terrific slugging, such as the Yankees have been giving, their pitchers cannot but inspire confidence in the twirling staff.

"We will get plenty of runs for you," is the college yell of the Yanks to their pitchers. And so far they have delivered.

There is no denying that the Yanks, with Ruth going at top speed, are once more the most interesting club in the majors.

WINNING STREAKS
Even the surprising spring showing of the Yankees created no great fear in American league circles. However, it has come since the opening of the season.

In the first few weeks of play the club went out and won eight straight. Then, after being temporarily stopped by three defeats at the hands of the Athletics and one by Washington, the Yanks

BODIES OF DEER FOUND; WARDEN TO INVESTIGATE

ROSEBURG, Ore., June 11. (AP)—Bodies of between 20 and 50 deer are to be seen lying along the railroad right of way in Wolf creek canyon between Reuben and West Fork, according to reports received today from Glendale. Spray used by the railroad company in killing grass along the right of way is believed responsible. The state game warden has been notified and asked to make an investigation.

To Meet Delaney
To the champion, the victory meant another great battle this summer, with Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn. This will be staged at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, in the near future. Berlenbach and Delaney have met twice. Delaney won the first contest by a knockout before Paul gained the title but Berlenbach retained the crown in a second battle last winter.

The champion has proved that he is better the second time he meets a man, and Delaney and Strubling are examples. Strubling beat him over the six-round route.

NEW BRITISH SLOGAN

LONDON—England has a new slogan. It is "An English, up and doing," and not "An England down and out". British delegates will take it to the international advertising convention at Philadelphia this month.

MORE NUTS IN CALIFORNIA
LOS ANGELES—There are more nuts in California every year. That explains the plight of the California Walnut Growers' association, planning for the future marketing of their nuts. Last year the association sold $12,500,000 worth of walnuts.
