NORTHWEST SEARCHING FOR KILLER

 Sylvia Howard Gaines.

SEATTLE, June 18. (AP)—Armed with what was pronounced a perfect description and fingerprints of a man who attacked and brutally slayed Miss Sylvia H. Gaines, 22, whose body was found in a patch of trees here yesterday, police of Northwest Washington today combined in a search. The girl was a niece of William A. Gaines, chief of the board of King county commissioners.

Seattle detectives declared the murderer left his fingerprints on a rock with which he hit Miss Gaines on the head and her throat as he choked her into unconsciousness.

Murderer Believed Seen—Chief of Detectives Tennant said that a man answering a description of the slayer visited a fruit stand on the highway north of Seattle yesterday and asked for food. Before he could be served a customer arrived and mentioned the murder of the girl. Witnesses said the man's face turned white and he left in the direction of Everett.

A roughly dressed man was later seen to pass further up the road toward Everett, and his likeness to descriptions of the murderer was pronounced striking.

Miss Gaines, a graduate of Smith college, Northampton, Mass., left her mother in Lynnfield, Mass., a month ago to visit her father, Robert Gaines in Seattle, and her step-mother, who was visiting in California and who today was hurrying here.

Went For a Walk—The girl left her father's home about 8 o'clock Wednesday evening to walk. Only two persons have reported seeing her from that time until she was found dead yesterday.

F. S. Stokes and his wife Wednesday evening were passing a bunch of shrubbery near Green lake, on whose edge the body was found and observed a rough looking man standing several feet from the path on which they were walking. When they had gone several feet they met a girl answering the description of Miss Gaines. Several minutes later Mrs. Stokes heard a woman's scream, but her husband suggested it was from children playing and let the matter pass. Their description of the man is detailed.

Reconstruct Crime—According to a reconstruction of the crime by detectives the man seized Miss Gaines without warning. She screamed. He choked her and then dragged her. Her slippers and hat fell off. She broke away and waded through the shallow edge of the lake for yards while her attacker pursued. As they engaged, from the water, he again strangled the girl and killed her by five blows on the head with a stone.

800 PERSONS ARE PRESENT AT CONCERT

 have clamped on dance-playing bands. But the onestop, "Who," from "Sonny," plucked unresisting feet all over the grandstand. The concert climaxed acceptably in the "Light Cavalry" overture by Von Suppe.

Temperature Agreeable At Camp Jackson, Ore.
 TEMPERATURE—Lashed by the reports of their city's temperamental temperature that the Oregon national guardsmen spread over the state after a sojourn at summer camp last year, Medford is more than exerting itself to overcome an unfortunate impression, according to news that has leaked back through letters from La Grande guardsmen.

Weather reports for Jackson county Monday, June 14, showed a maximum of 78 and a minimum of 45. Tuesday, the mercury rose no higher than 76, and dropped at night to 42.

Along with the acceptable weather arrangements, the boys are being treated to receptions, dances, smokers, feeds and a professional pageant, they report.

MOVES PLANE FROM FIELD

With the assistance of an airplane mechanic, who arrived by automobile with repairs from headquarters this morning, Pilot Tait was today able to move his null plane from the plowed field at the east edge of town, where he snapped a propeller blade in making a forced landing Thursday morning.

The propeller was mended, and the plane hauled by team to the highway, from where it was taken by truck to a field on the hill near the cemetery.

Tait hoped to leave La Grande before evening.

He was compelled to light here yesterday by motor trouble that commenced shortly after he left Pendleton. He could see that the field had been plowed, but preferred to chance landing rather than attempt to coast on to a more favorable spot.

EBERHARD AUTO STOLEN FROM IN FRONT OF HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Colon R. Eberhard's car was stolen from in front of their residence, 1401 N. avenue, here sometime after 11 o'clock last night. No trace of the car had been found at about 1 o'clock today, although officers were notified as soon as the car was missed this morning.

The Eberhards drove the car to the band concert and around town for some time, arriving home at about 11 o'clock. Mr. Eberhard thought he had locked the car and went in the house thinking it safe. When he and his son got up early this morning to drive it to the filling station for gasoline and oil preparatory to a trip to Pendleton it was gone.

It had undoubtedly been pushed for several feet from the house, or they would have heard the engine start, Mr. Eberhard said this morning.

The license number on the car was 115-599.

Sleeper's Death Toll Established at Six

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP).—SIX persons are known to have been burned to death when fire destroyed a tourist sleeper of the Union Pacific railway which burned at Crystal Sliding, Nevada, on the morning of June 19.

This fact was definitely established by two physicians after a thorough examination of fragments of the charred bodies taken from the wreckage.

Mr. King, who was injured in the fire, was reported to be improving at the Holy Cross hospital, and according to attendants, ready for the first time his bride is dead.
