BLESSED TO GIVE

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—One bride believes it is more blessed to give than to receive. Each of 700 hotel employees when wishing Dr. and Mrs. Daniel J. McCarthy happiness, received a ten-dollar gold piece. An inscription inscribed: "From Elizabeth White with her wedding day best wishes." Mrs. McCarthy is the daughter of one of the owners of the Marlborough Hotel.

WORMS RESTLESS

SACRAMENTO—Why do worms leave home? George H. Forbes, of San Jose, who raises angle worms for the fish and bait market writes to G. H. Hecke, director of agriculture, says that his stock of worms are restless and "escape during the night." He wants Hecke to tell him how to make worms happy.

TWO CRITICALLY HURT

SAN FRANCISCO—Major Douglas A. Francis, Palo Alto, and Mrs. Amy Pliman, were critically injured last night when the auto in which they were riding reached the Atherton crossing simultaneously with the Shore Line Limited. Both are in a Palo Alto hospital.

SHOULD BE GENEROUS

MAMARONECK, N. Y.—Nathan Straus, philanthropist, thinks that if wealthy people in good health would follow the generous example of the Rockefeller in relieving suffering, it would add much to their happiness. He quotes the proverb: "What you give in health is gold." "What you give in sickness is silver." "What you give after death is lead."

Frontier Smugglers Figured in Plot of "Border Sheriff"

The smugglers along the international border which included part of Cayuse County successfully fooled the Secret Service men as to the method in which they were bringing in their dope. But after a regular cattle man got on the job it became only a question of rounding them up.

Cullus Collins was sheriff of the county but he was also a rancher and knew the difference between "short horns" and "long horns" and further knew that there were no "long horns" on the grazing grounds of Cayuse County. Cullus Collins is the role played by Jack Hoxie in "The Border Sheriff." Universal-Blue Struck Western in which Hoxie is starring and which is showing at the Star theater today and Wednesday, Collins happens to be one of those Western sheriffs who can take care of his job in a large city as well as in his native haunts. He is in a fight that starts in a notorious Chinese restaurant in San Francisco.

Collins is called to Washington by the head of the U. S. Secret Service and ordered to round up the smugglers who are operating out of Cayuse County. The trail leads the sheriff to San Francisco and then back home. It was at home that Collins' interest was aroused in the "long horns." He investigated one of them and, well, to tell what he found would be to reveal one of the interesting bits of this very interesting picture. Suffice it to say that he uncovers a novel method of smuggling. Throughout the play runs a pretty little romance and plenty of comedy breaking in on stirring action.

Universal has grouped a splendid lot of players around Hoxie. They are Olive Hasbrouck, S. E. Jennings, Gilbert (Pee Wee) Holmes, Buck Moulton, Tom Lingham, Bert DeMure, Frank Rice, Floyd Creswell and Leonard Traylor. Herbert North directed the making of "The Border Sheriff."

"Say It Again" With Richard Dix at The Arcade

Watson—the needlet! Also, some thread. We want to sew a media on Richard Dix's mummy bosom. He deserves one because of his latest dramatic comedy, "Say It Again," which is playing today and Wednesday at the Arcade theater. It's bully!

The very idea of the story, written by Luther Reed and Ray Harris, gives one a big laugh. Our American hero, romantically looking for the nurse who took care of him at a war hospital, sets out for the Italian kingdom in which she lives.

On the way over, Chester Conklin, long lost Prince of Spexonia, bursts into his cabin. It is explained that he is a deluged-sea ship keeper, had been found by the nobility of the kingdom and asked to take his rightful place. All of which he was perfectly willing to do until he discovered the fate met by his predecessors in the "king business." They all came to a "glorious death" at the hands of revolutionists.

Dix and "Gunboat" Smith offer to help. A triumphant entrance is made into the capital city with the two Americans seated on either side of Conklin. All are dressed in the quaint costume of the country. Therefore, when the real prince, on catching sight of an anarchist, jumps out of the carriage, nothing is thought of it. And—Hitchard is greeted as hell!

Then the fun begins. Dix can't speak anything but English. He tries to protest all to no avail. This period only when he is forced to marry the princess. He doesn't object on discovering her to be his lady of love.

The real prince after a night at a king house, feels his sore to "think this young man" has been getting all the "blows" follow

"Wreckage" Presents Scenes In Ocean Storm

In showing "Wreckage," the Bon-Venturer Banner pictures which comes in the Sherry theater for a two day engagement today, the cast took chances which show for themselves on the screen. It was essential to "shoot" a Pacific storm and equally as necessary for the performers to be present and accounted for. Accordingly, Ben Verschleiser acted as "first mate" and they set out.

May Allison and Holmes Herbert, her leading man, were caught in a small boat which capsized in the huge breakers. Herbert did everything in his power to keep the star on the surface, but both of them went down again and again. A Japanese fishing boat was responsible for saving them. Miss Allison was rushed to a physician and suffered nothing worse than shock.

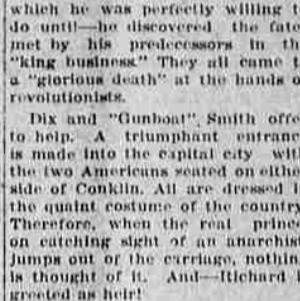

The scene of the sinking vessel is said to be one of the most picturesque ever filmed. The storm was one of the most severe of the year on the Pacific coast and shipping was tied up in harbor for several days on account of it.

In the cast with Miss Allison and Herbert were John Miljan, Rosemary Theby and James Morrison. Scott Dunlap, the director, King Grey, the cameraman and Ben Verschleiser were in the same plight, however, except for the added difficulty of their position which required them to "shoot"

PILES

HANDICAPPED FOR LIFE
 SEVERE mental and physical nervous reflex complications, company Rectal and Colon ailments, eliminate the causes and you remove these conditions. And they CAN be eliminated despite your discouragements with "quack" remedies and surgical operations. My thousands of successful cases in many years practice PROVE this. Further, I will GUARANTEE IN WRITING to cure any case of Piles or hemorrhoids if you will pay for my 100-page illustrated book, "How to Cure Piles and Hemorrhoids," by Dr. CHAS. A. DEAN, M.D., Inc. drunks agree with him, and soon word spreads around town to what has happened. A mob marches on the castle.

Seeing that there is nothing to do but stand their ground—Dix and "Gunboat" gleefully proceed to the fray after the first fight is over—Richard grabs "the gal" and hops on a boat bound for the States. She then recognizes him as her one-time patient and everyone is made happy.

Director Gregory La Cava deserves a lot of credit for his skillful handling of the scenario. It is not often that such a picture arrives in our midst. When it does—the only thing to say is—go early if you desire a seat at the Arcade, because as soon as word gets round that "Say It Again" is in town, there'll be one grand rush for the theater.

An Andy Gump comedy is also on the program.

In Germany, they have an epidemic of smallpox. An epidemic of smallpox in Germany should be popular in France.
