"Tramp, Tramp, Tramp" Shows Comedian In Walking Joust

Harry Landgon, First National comedy king, engages in a transcontinental walking race in "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," his initial feature-length comedy for First National release. Harry Edwards directed. The picture opens a three day engagement at the Arcade theatre today.

The story of "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," is an original one with Harry and one which he has had in mind for many years. The theme permits of innumerable comedy episodes.

According to the story, Harry enters a walking race sponsored by a prominent shoe manufacturer in order to lift the mortgage from the house. The real reason, however, is to win the hand of the daughter of the manufacturer. He has fallen in love with her picture on the billboards that adorn all the highways.

After a series of harrowing experiences in which he encounters almost all the misfortunes that can possibly fall to the lot of a cross-country walker he crosses the line a winner. Harry promptly lifts the mortgage and marries the beautiful girl.

One of the most exciting and diverting episodes in "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp" is a cyclone scene. An entire township is blown off the map by this cyclone. Camera-men taking the scene had to be lashed to trees and posts in order to prevent being blown away.

A staff of ace gag-men aided Director Edwards. The cast comprises John Hayward, Tom Murray, Edwards Davis, Brooks Benedict and Alec Francis.

Ambitious

the West," opening at the Star theater for an engagement of three days, starting today.

Holt has played many vivid human western roles for the screen but all admirers agree that, as "Colorado" Budd, he gives his finest characterization to the screen.

The picture is a visualization of Zane Grey's story and deals with an enmity between two men, starting from a fight in their school days and carried on in later years when their paths once more cross.

Thrills abound. There are some refreshing comedy moments, furnished by two real farceurs, Raymond Hatton and Tom Kennedy, remembered for their comedy work in "Behind the Front," Arlette Marchal, Paramount's beautiful French player, and Margaret Morris, last seen in "Womanhandled" with Richard Dix, supply the feminine beauty and romance.

Daring escapes, terrifying hold-ups and a runaway stage coach furnish the pulse-quickening moments.

The supporting cast includes such brilliant players as George Siegman, Edith York, Bruce Gordon, Richard Neill and a trio of clever children.

John Waters directed. The adaptation is by Lucien Hubbard. The production was made under the personal supervision of Hector Turnbull, Associate Producer for Paramount.

Miss Dorothy E. Pilley of London well known English mountain climber, has arrived in Glacier National Park to try her skill on the Rockies. She hopes to beat Norman Clyde's record of climbing a mountain a day for 30 consecutive days.

MEEKER TO VISIT EUGENE

EUGENE, Ore., June 24. (AP)—Eera Meeker, noted trail blazer of the west, will be grand marshal of the pioneer parade at the "Trail to Rail" celebration here in August according to word received by Cal M. Young, chairman of the parade committee.

Four Railroad Men Hurt Near Oak Ridge

EUGENE, Ore., June 24. (AP)—Four railroad laborers were seriously injured last night when a speeder on which a section crew of 20 men was riding, was struck by a Southern Pacific work train on a curve in the track 30 miles above Oak Ridge. The four men were brought to a local hospital last night.

Two of the men suffered fractured skulls, hospital authorities said. All sustained broken bones.

None of the men can speak English, and but three names could be learned. They are Julio Arazo, Jose Flores and Ramon Espanosa.

If we ever get shipwrecked alone on a desert island we'll take advantage of the opportunity to learn to sing.

Rex Beach's "Auction Block" At Sherrys

With "The Auction Block," the attraction at the Sherry theater, Hobart Henley returns to the small town which made him famous. It was "The Flirt" and "The Turmoil," both Booth Tarkington stories, that brought this director's talent to the public's attention.

Most of the story of "The Auction Block" takes place in the small town of Palmdale, South Carolina. It contains all the petty jealousies, the undercurrents of ill-feeling, as well as good-naturedness and generosity of a small town, and as Henley demonstrated with "The Flirt," he is particularly capable of transferring this atmosphere to pictures.

Charles Hay plays the part of the city man, instead of the country hood for a change, and Eleanor Boardman is featured with him as "Lorelei Knight" in this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture. Sally O'Neil, Ernest Gillen, Charles Clary, David Torrence, James Corrigan, Forrest Seabury and Ned Sparks complete the cast. Freddie and Benny Hatton adapted the Rex Beach novel to the screen for production by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Thrills and Spills Galore in Latest Zane Grey Film

"Colorado" Budd, a cowpuncher who had lived the rough life of saddle and gun, whose horse's hoof-marks had covered all the trails of the West, from the heat of the Panhandle to the snows of Montana, is the colorful role which Jack Holt, popular Paramount player, enacts in "Born to
