LA GRANDE MEN VISIT IN WALLOWA

The sight of the tall mountains, Mayor Fred Cole, of Enterprise, made an address of welcome. He said that he wanted to see Wallowa and Union counties grow together. The two are brother and sister, having once sprung from the same family, and the people of each county are closely related.

When the toastmaster demanded that the Union county fellows introduce themselves, Clyde Selts explained that he is a crooked contractor, Fred Kiddie a m-ro candidate, and Jay Dobbin, Wallowa county's largest sheep raiser, called himself a sheepherder. Earl Reynolds described his business as everybody's and hilarity dominated.

Farmers Still Up and Coming
 Jay Dobbin, called on to speak, said that this is a hard country to get out of once one is here. He came here for a short time only from the corn belt in Illinois, stayed four years, couldn't go back then. Ten years have passed and he is still here.

"We have had a few setbacks here this year," he said, "but we are going to have quite good crops, nevertheless. The farmer's nose has been pinched, but he still can smell." He added that Wallowa county is the finest place in the world.

A talk by Ben Weathers, postmaster, was followed by speeches by Colonel H. Eberhard, Fred E. Kiddie and A. R. Hunter. Mr. Hunter outlined the need of an Eastern Oregon normal school and told how we will have to pay the additional taxes whether the school is founded at Seaside or some other Western Oregon point, so we might as well vote for the measure this fall and try to get it located in Eastern Oregon. The site will be chosen 90 days after the election, he said. The suggestion relating to an application with the Union county representatives at Wallowa lake today at noon instead of at Joseph, Col. R. Eberhard was toastmaster.

Several visited the black marble quarry and lime deposits near Joseph and made a trip on the Red Arrow route and sides of the valley. The Joseph men ate with the Union county representatives at Wallowa lake today at noon instead of at Joseph, Col. R. Eberhard was toastmaster.

Getting Acquainted.
 Following the dinner, the trip to Wallowa lake resulted in many members of the caravan getting better acquainted with each other because they had to be paired off as bedfellows for the night, which created a joyful uproar that resounded until nearly two o'clock in the morning.

Loney's band rendered many numbers in the hotel, to the great delight of the guests at the lake. Several of the caravanners went to the Joseph dance, others sat up now bowling marks at the lake, some attended chautauqua at Enterprise and returned pleased with Lucie Dunbar, former local teacher. A large delegation from Enterprise and Joseph accompanied the bunch to the lake.

Trout Breakfast Today.
 This morning a trout breakfast was served at the Wonderland hotel, followed by solos by Mrs. A. K. Parker, of Enterprise, accompanied by Mrs. Hugh Gibson, of Joseph.

The band played at both Joseph and Enterprise various times. "If 12 men can make so much and such fine music, what must the entire 50 pieces of the

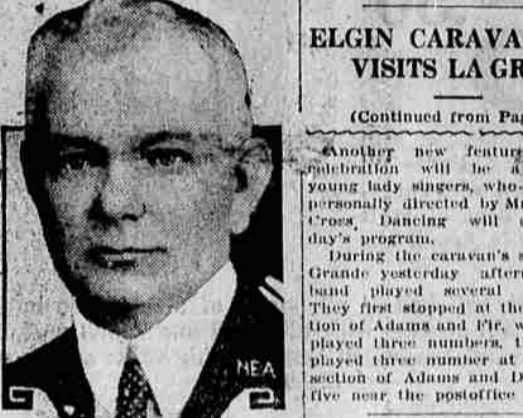

Writing Without Any Arms

Willie Dodd, 8, of Duffhan, Mo., was born without any arms. But he goes to school, plays marbles, and uses a jack knife as well as anybody. His feet are his hands. In the inset is Thelma May, whose arms were paralyzed when she was three years old but who will graduate from Jewett (Iowa) high school this month. She, too, makes her feet take the place of her hands, and gets along fine.

 Believes Him Innocent.
 "As a man and his brother, if it be in my power to prevent it, he will not be sacrificed on the altar of any man's political ambition. I believe in my heart he is innocent."
 McParlane said:
 "What a tragedy it would be to arrest an innocent man. But sometimes political ambitions and aspirations know no law. From the press I gather that Sheriff Starvich indicates that Wallace Gaines was flogged enough to kill a daughter he loved and worshipped.
