TO DEFEND HIS CROWN

ROCKY KANSAS

Rocky Kansas, lightweight champion, will defend his title against that promising and popular Windy City batter, Sammy Mandell, in the near future. In Mandell, Kansas will encounter a foe worthy of his best efforts; in fact, many pugilistic experts believe there'll be a new titleholder following the clash. Kansas, it will be recalled, came into the honor last December when he whipped Jimmy Goodrich, the defender, on points in 15 rounds.

the ring, and left for his dressing room. Billy Wilburn knocked out Neal Long in the final round of a four-round event.

Suspend Oiling Work From July 2 to July 6

Oiling operations on the Old Oregon Trail highway will be suspended between the dates of July 2 and July 6 so that the roads will be in good condition for the Fourth of July traffic. It is announced today by the local offices of the state highway commission. Oiling operations are now underway between Telocast and Haines and between Baker and Pleasant Valley.

Polo Tournament Opens At Vancouver Barracks

VANCOUVER, Wash., June 26. (AP)—The Pacific northwest polo tournament opens here today with a game between the Portland Hunt club and the 75th Field Artillery team of Monterey, Cal. Ten games are to be played at the Vancouver Barracks field. One of the contenders this year is the Finley all-stars, headed by Captain Glenn S. Finley, former captain and coach of the Portland Hunt club team.

Bell and O'Brien Go To Ten-Round Draw

EUGENE, Ore., June 26. (AP)—Ansel Bell, who claims New York as his home, and Tommy O'Brien, of Portland, battled to a ten-round draw in the main event of a special boxing card for the Elks here last evening. O'Brien weighed in at 124 and Bell at 129.

The two went at it from the start and the bout was popular with the fans. Tommy Howe, of Portland, tossed his own towel into the ring after mixing it for a while with Harold Howe, of Eugene, and Dave was given the bout on a technical knockout. Howe went to his corner when the gong sounded, picked up a towel, hurried it into per game in 1904 when he set his record mark. Grove, as a minor leaguer, averaged from 8.11 per game to 10.88.

His best season in the minors was in 1923 when he struck out 330 batters, an average of almost 11 per game. Grove is the pitching sensation of the year. His chance to break Waddell's record merely adds to the interest that is being taken in his work.

SCRIBES GIVE TAYLOR FIGHT

PORTLAND, Ore., June 26 (AP)—Chuck Hellman, clever Portland bantamweight, battled Bud Taylor, Terre Haute, Ind., contender for the world title, to a ten-round draw here last night.

The decision was unpopular with the newspaper men and ringsters who gave Taylor five rounds. Hellman one and called the other four even. Hellman's best round was the second when he kept Taylor away and bombarded him with a barrage of lefts and rights. Taylor came back in the next four frames and left the game Hellman gasping from the effects of his murderous right.

Ray Burger, Globe City heavyweight, knocked out Young Jack Dempsey, Tacoma, in the second round of the scheduled six-round semi-windup, and Benny Wolf, Los Angeles welterweight, took a four round decision over Al Gracie, Spokane.

LONDON—Another blow to the British sporting world. As a ten-gallon variety. Joining in British praise of Bobby's modesty is H. Y. Harrow, of the Metropolitan Golf association, who says the champion can wear the headgear he took across the pond.

Yale Captures Varsity Race From Harvard

NEW LONDON, June 26. (AP)—The mighty power of Yale's varsity crew met Harvard's gallant challenge Friday evening and repulsed the Crimson's greatest hope for rowing glory in four years. Taking the lead soon after start and setting the pace in then on to the finish, the brilliant Eli eight crossed the finish of the four-mile pull fully lengths in front. There was scarcely any doubt of the outcome at any stage of the race in spite of Harvard's courageous efforts throughout the length of the picturesque Thames river course.

Yale's triumph in the struggle that brought the fifty-ninth regatta to a close came after Harvard had broken the grip of the Bulldog supremacy by winning the two preliminary races in the morning for the first time since 1922.

Billy Evans Says:

TRIO OF EXPERTS
"Lefty" Grove has succeeded Walter Johnson as the strikeout king of the American league. Walter Johnson, after years of campaigning in the junior circuit no longer gives a thought to striking out a batter, except in the all-important pinch.

Johnson, who once was figured as having pitched an ordinary game when he failed to whiff six or more of the opposition, is content to coast along.

Walter is now pitching with his head far more than his arm. He admits he didn't go to the gray matter stuff seriously until his arm began to fail him. Says he is sorry he didn't take up the so-called smart stuff sooner.

In the National league, Dazzy Vance still holds away, despite the fact that a crop of bolts and a sore arm handicapped his work during the early stages of the race.

MAY BEAT RECORD
A fan writes me asking what chance either Grove or Vance has of breaking the strikeout record of the major leagues?

I might say that both have a chance, but it is rather remote. Grove, I believe, has greater possibilities than Vance, since he has youth, enabling him to work much oftener than the Brooklyn star.

The strikeout record of the majors is held by the late Rube Waddell, who in 1904 whiffed 343 batters. Waddell was a left-hander.

The nearest approach to this record in the majors was made by Walter Johnson in 1910, when he sent 312 of the opposition back to the bench on strikes.

JOHNSON IN 1910.
I am positive that if Walter Johnson had been a record-seeker, he could have broken Waddell's mark that season. Johnson only worked when pressed. If his team gave him a three or four-run lead he was willing to take things easy. I imputed a number of ball games for Johnson that season in which he would cut down on his speed the moment his teammates gave him a safe working margin. Johnson won 25 games in 1910, so it is easy to figure there were a number of spots where Walter was not forced to put forth his best efforts.

I believe it is conceivable that he could have added from 30 to 50 more strikeouts that season had he purposely sought the record.

FANNED 303 MEN
Again in 1912 Johnson struck out 293 men. He won the remarkable number of 32 ball games that year with a club that was far from great.

That season marked Johnson's last threat at the Waddell record. During the next four years he got 296 or more batters on strikes. Since 1914 he hasn't broken into the 200 class.

Vance's best effort came in 1923 when he fanned 262 men in 305 innings. This year in the first 41 innings pitched he struck out 41. Vance's arm is no longer able to work overtime and for that reason his chances of breaking Waddell's mark of 343 strikeouts is just a mere possibility.

HAS BEST CHANCE
Without a doubt "Lefty" Grove is the only pitcher in the majors with a chance to dethrone the great Rube Waddell.

This season in the first 163 innings he pitched Grove fanned 83 men. While great pitching, it is below the average that would have to be maintained to smash the Waddell mark.

Grove, as a member of the Baltimore club, bettered Waddell's average for five successive years. Waddell averaged 7.79 strikeouts

Claim Odd Distinction

Samuel Bohne, left, and Andrew Cohen are the only representatives of the Jewish race in the National League. Oddly enough, both are infielders. Bohne being a shortstop for Cincinnati and Cohen a shortstop and second baseman with the Giants. In the American League, Buddy Meyer is the lone Jewish boy. He, too, is an infielder, playing third and short for Washington.
