PARADE WILL FEATURE DAY (Continued from Page 1) the deciding votes, cast a few minutes before the polls closed Saturday night upon all calculations. Ten candidates were named and six got well into the running, their votes being:

Ethelma Broyles 4616, Margaret Baker 1441, Melon Falconer 1137, Alta McPetridge 845, Catherine Boyd 275, and Viola Stein 206. Votes scattered among other candidates brought the total up to 4477.

Grange on the Program—Members of the Grange ask that the organization take an active part in the program, and several features are in sight. Meats consisting of wagons drawn by horses will be entered by various granges and these will be judged independently of the automobile floats. First, second and third honors will be recognized by ribbons.

Monday night the granges probably will put on a competitive horse back drill, such as was shown at the county fair last fall. This will be free.

Also there will be a race one of the days, and possibly both days, for horses owned and ridden by Grange members. This will be announced when details are arranged.

Other Features of Entertainment—The rodeo and sports program Monday and Tuesday afternoons will be up to the best standards of the county. Races will be good and enthralling numerous and there will be a lot of new talent in the list of huckling horses, which will be brought in from ranches and ranges. Some of the well known buckers of other years will be on hand also, and new riders will be invited to exhibit their skill.

Tuesday morning will see the second parade, on horseback, for cowboys, Indians, Grange members and others. The afternoon will see the second rodeo and race program and Tuesday night the celebration will close with fire works.

AIMEE RETURNS TO HER PEOPLE (Continued from Page 1.) eer, Aimee Somple McPherson, famous exponent of the four square gospel, early today was speeding westward on her journey home.

The McPherson party is due to arrive at Los Angeles sometime during the afternoon, stopping en route at Colton, 54 miles east of Los Angeles, shortly afternoon today.

B. H. Greenwood, city building inspector of Tucson, boarded the train on which Mrs. McPherson is homeward bound while it stopped at Tucson for a few minutes this morning and in the presence of Detective Chief Cline, and Deputy District Attorney Ryan, of Los Angeles, told the Los Angeles evangelist that she was the woman he had seen on the street of Tucson four weeks ago.

MEXICO AND GERMANY IN WATER PATH (Continued from Page 1.) Lowland inhabitants of the Elbe valley in Northern Prussia kept watch on the hillsides for beacon fires warning them of any breaks in the dams.

100,000 Acres Under Water. Approximately 500,000 acres of cultivated land were under water and some villages near Halle were entirely surrounded, and depended upon food dropped from airplanes for subsistence.

Extra guards at railway bridges and 6,000 extra track walkers patrolled the right-of-ways of the national railroads to prevent wrecks.

MEXICO CITY, June 26 (AP).—The number of dead in the flood at Leon, Guanajuato state, has still to be accurately determined, estimates ranging from 100 to 400.

Probably 15,000 or 20,000 are homeless and the property damage may reach 20 million pesos. All estimates are speculative until direct communication with the stricken region are restored. Correspondents who have reached the scene and are sending reports by roundabout routes have been unable to do more than guess at the number of dead concealed by the debris.

Churches, public buildings and homes which have escaped damage by the flood waters in Leon have been thrown open for the relief of the homeless, according to the reports. Long lines of flood victims are passing through improvised morgues in attempts to identify missing relatives. Hunger is beginning to show its ravages. Stores and warehouses have been thrown open to the demands of the stricken inhabitants. Every precaution is being taken to prevent the outbreak of pestilence in the flooded area.

BLACKINGTON TRIAL OPENS MONDAY MORN (Continued from Page 1) be present at the trial. Inhabitant citizens on whose complaint Blackington was arrested the Monday morning after the fire have employed John S. Hodgin to assist Carl G. Helm, district attorney, with the prosecution.

Green & Hess, who will represent the defendant, said this morning they would not be assisted by additional attorneys. Testimony of the seven witnesses called by the state at the preliminary hearing in the justice court June 5 will be augmented by statements from several other neighbors of the defendant, the district attorney indicated this morning. The defense offered no testimony at the original hearing.

Blackington is said to have maintained his easy tolerance of the affair since the moment when he first heard himself accused of firing his place to realize on the insurance. He carried coverage amounting to $4400. The other warehouse destroyed by the fire is said to have been insured for the same amount.

TO BURY BOY HERE SUNDAY

Funeral services for Wilmer Edgar Taylor 13, who was drowned in the Grande Ronde river late Thursday will be held tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock at the Snodgrass-Zimmerman chapel. Claude C. 1927 will preach the funeral service. Interment will be made in the L. O. O. F. cemetery.

The father of the boy, Charles Taylor, has not yet been reached and should word be received from him before that time the funeral may be postponed, but this is not likely. The father is in Montana and is probably working in the country, many miles from town, making it difficult to reach him. The little boy's mother and four brothers, three older and one younger, came to La Grande from there last November, and have since made their home here.

Wilmer, with several other little boys, was swimming near the old dam just above the Oro Dell bridge, when he slipped on a rock and went into water beyond his depth. The other boys, who were all smaller, were unable to save him and ran down the river to a hobo camp for help. The men brought the boy from the water and called a doctor, but the body had been in the water too long to bring to life. A slight bruise on his forehead indicates that he may have hit his head on a rock as he fell.

Ornamental Street Lighting Work Moves (Continued from Page 1.) ber of systems and past types that might be acceptable for use here. He voluntarily undertook the drawing of a complete set of plans calling for the various types to which the choice has narrowed.

Plain posts with single lights of the style recently adopted for Washington, D. C., at the recommendation of a group of eminent artists have been agreed upon. It is likely that lights of 600 candle power will be installed on Adams avenue, and 400 candle power lights used on the other improved streets, Dixon said.

Opposite Plan Favored—The opposite arrangement has been decided upon as preferable to the stagger or alternating plan considered earlier. The stagger plan, the engineer told the commissioners, calls for a larger number of lights where the streets are as wide as those in La Grande.

Lights will be operated on a two-cable circuit so that half of them may be extinguished if desired. It has been found possible to cut down the price of the posts by the elimination of transformers, the light and power company having agreed to furnish current on a direct charge instead of on the usual wattage basis. Potheads in the base of the poles will take care of disconnecting the current in case of emergencies.

Of the three kinds of posts available, concrete, cast iron and union metal, the first was dismissed as unsuitable except for boulevard and park use. No decision has been reached between the other two forms.

The light and power company has declared itself prepared to move the old poles off the streets as soon as the new system is ready for installing. Waterproof cables of steel will carry the current under the streets.

$3 a Running Foot. General indications are that the tentative price of $3 a foot of running foot, Dixon observed. The cost will be borne by the benefited property owners, the majority of whom have petitioned for the improvement.

Present at the meeting at the city hall Thursday evening were: A. T. Hill, president, Charles Playle and Dr. H. P. Landis, of the city commission; W. C. Crews, city manager; George T. Cochran, city attorney; Dr. A. L. Richardson, member of the city planning commission; Charles B. Miller, of the chamber of commerce, and Dixon, who is chairman of both the last named groups.

Those who heard this testimony recalled that when the body was found the morning of the 17th, a house key lay in the palm of one of Miss Gaines' hands and inside her glove.

Describe Gift's Clothing. Mrs. Stokes described minutely the clothing of the girl she and her husband saw and recognized the same clothes in the morgue. The witness admitted that she and her husband had disagreed as to whether the man wore a sweater or a coat.

"He had shaggy eyebrows," testified Mrs. Stokes.

"I could see them against the sunset and he had a bump on his nose—it might have been broken. His face was hard—tough and hard as nails. He was of wiry build—with broad, powerful shoulders."

Memmer related that in the evening of the 18th just after Sylvia left the Gaines house for a walk, he and Wallace, known as Bob, had, in the Gaines basement a "little sample" of rhubarb cordial.

Said It Was Beer. "He had a small bottle of beer, too. He said it was beer. I tasted it and it was pretty poor beer," Memmer stated.

"Mr. Memmer," inquired Prosecutor Colvin, "you've known Mr. Gaines about four years. Was there anything unusual in the fact that he was drinking?"

"There was not—he drank all the time except in camp."

Wallace Gaines is a disabled veteran of the world war.
