Quiet Wedding Held at Cove

Marriage vows were exchanged by Miss Grace E. Deane, of Cove, and Gerald J. Tucker, of La Grande Saturday afternoon in a ceremony that took place at 4 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allen, uncle and aunt of the bride. The Rev. Robert Smiley, pastor of the Cove Methodist church, officiated at the service, which was witnessed by immediate relatives of the couple.

The bride, gowned in white silk, carried an arm bouquet of sweet-peas and roses.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Allen complimented the couple at dinner. Among eight guests were Mrs. Edith L. Deane, of Cove, mother of the bride, and Andrew Tucker, of Elgin, father of the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Tucker will be at home in La Grande at 2112 Third street after September 1.

The bride, who is already known to many of the young people of this city, is a graduate of Williamette university.

Mr. Tucker is a forest ranger stationed in La Grande. He came here a little more than a year ago, but has been in forestry service for about three years. He is an alumnus of the University of Idaho.

Drill Team Prepares For Convention

The drill team, in charge of Mrs. Dorothy Day, practiced industriously on work that will be presented at the state convention here in September when the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Oregon State Railroad Trainers met at Eagles' hall last evening. Little business was transacted outside of preliminary arrangements for the state meeting. Mrs. Grace Adskim, local president, expects some definite word from the grand president in regard to preparations before the next regular meeting of the auxiliary.

ginger drop cookies, milk, tea.
Dinner—Spanish steak, baked potatoes, creamed carrots, head lettuce with French dressing, Washington cream pie with sliced peaches, graham bread, milk, coffee.

The cheese sandwiches must be especially toasted in the oven. When made this way the cheese is just melted without being overcooked and tough. Overcooked cheese is difficult to digest and should never be served.

Spanish steak offers a suggestion for a company dinner when a roast is not wanted.

Spanish Steak
One sirloin steak cut 2 1/2 inches thick, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons butter, 4 large onions, 1 quart tomatoes or 6 good sized fresh ones, 3/4 cup grated cheese.

Wipe meat with a cheesecloth wrung out of cold water. Trim edges. Heat an iron frying pan and rub with a piece of suet cut from the steak. When the spider is very hot sear the meat quickly on both sides. There should not be any surplus fat in the frying pan, just enough to prevent the meat from sticking during the searing. When the steak is thoroughly seared sprinkle with salt and pepper and spread with butter. Pour about 1 cup boiling water in at one side of the pan and cook in a hot oven for 30 minutes. Cover with onions pooled and cook 45 minutes. Then add a layer of tomatoes pared and sliced and cook until tomatoes are tender. Sprinkle with grated cheese and cook until cheese is melted and slightly browned on top. Serve with a gravy made from the liquor in the pan. This will serve eight persons.

There's one thing about a stolen silver. You can't identify it by sight. But you can by sound.

White Men Cultivate Gardens in Cold North

TANANA, Alaska, July 7. (AP)—Ice and snow with dreary wastes of frozen ground through which ice-blocked streams move sluggishly—the popular conception of the arctic circle—are not always what the visitor sees in part of Alaska that maps designate as being in the frigid zone.

Bewildering as it might be to one whose knowledge of the Northland has been gotten from movies portraying fur-hooded Eskimo musketry over snow crusts when it is summer everywhere else, the visitor to the Koyukuk river region would find from May to September, prolific gardens cultivated by white men.

There—within the arctic circle—are long days of sunshine during June, July and August, including a full month ending July 7 in which the sun never sets and from the middle of May to the coming of frosts in September vegetation grows luxuriantly.

SAN DIEGO—Funeral services will be held Thursday for the Rev. Edward Osborne, former bishop and missionary in South Africa. He was 81 years old and had retired in 1919.
