Worship Is Adapted to Vacations

Quiet Reigns Over the Churches Now, Except at Perry, Where Revival Is in Progress.

The vacation quietude that has pervaded most year-around activities in La Grande the last few days is noticeable this week also in the programs of the churches.

Attendance at indoor worship meetings is now at low-tide. In the absence of a few pastors and many parishioners, union services are the order for both morning and evening.

There is one bustling note to accentuate the general lassitude—Every community is holding a summer revival Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The N. Y. P. S. will meet at 7:15 p. m. with Mrs. Roscoe Jordan as leader.

The pastor, home from a vacation trip through Oregon, expresses his appreciation of the efforts his co-pastors made to fill the pulpit during his absence.

At morning worship, beginning at 11 o'clock, the Rev. William Crosby Ross, pastor, will bring a message to both his own congregation and that of the Baptist church, which will gather there in the absence of its pastor, the Rev. George Albert Pollard, during the month of July.

Members will meet for the 11 o'clock morning worship at the First Presbyterian church, where the pastor, Mr. Ross, will deliver the sermon.

Sunday school will be at the Baptist church at 9:45 a. m., as usual.

On vacation you get about half as much to eat and about one-fifth of the conveniences of home.

charge of a meeting at the Perry community church. The speaker's subject will be "The Coming Tribulation."

Island City Community "Christian Patrioticism" will be the Rev. Hall K. Wallis theme when he delivers a sermon to his congregation at the Island City Community church tomorrow at 11 o'clock.

Young people's meeting will be at 7 p. m. the subject to be "The Philosophy of Happiness."

The church school is now on vacation until the first Sunday in September.

Methodist Church South Special music will attend the sermons of the Rev. J. A. Hall, both morning and evening tomorrow. His topic for the 11 o'clock service will be "Christian Stewardship." Sunday there will be an 8 o'clock preaching service, the pastor speaking.

Church of the Nazarene Attendance at the Bible school sessions at 9:45 a. m. has held up well thus far.

Mr. Rogers will preach at the 11 o'clock service, and again at 3 p. m.
