BRIDGE FALLS; SIX ARE DEAD

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 26. (AP)—The death toll in the collapse into Coal river of a foot bridge at Whiteville, 40 miles from here, remained at six today but officials said further search of the river bed might reveal additional victims.

An investigation ordered by Governor H. M. Gore shortly after the collapse of the bridge Saturday night indicated a turbiduck had given away before the combined weight of the more than a hundred persons packed on the bridge to witness a water carnival precipitating them into shallow waters of the river 29 feet below.

Checks and re-checks made by officials have placed the injured at more than 55, five of them in a serious condition. Reports which have fixed the dead at more than six have not been borne out by the search thus far, authorities said while admitting there was a possibility that additional bodies might be recovered.

Scenes of wild confusion followed breaking of the steel cables at one end of the bridge adding spectators into the river bed where they lay stunned a mass of tangled flesh. Rescue work, however, was quickly organized. Governor Gore himself taking charge of relief operations. Special trains, carrying doctors and nurses, were dispatched from Charleston and the more seriously injured were brought here.

LA GRANDE MEN WIN IN RAILROAD PICNIC CONTESTS

Two La Grande men won first places at the O-W. R. & N. annual picnic at Bonneville yesterday and will represent the La Grande O-W. athletic club at the system meet in Cheyenne, Wyo., September 6 and 7. Two second-prize winners of La Grande are also entitled to attend the system meet.

Sam Walker, employed with the O-W. here, took first prize in the half mile race and second in the quarter; and Forest Day won first in the mile. D. A. Graham won second in the two-mile and Austin Martin, of Imbler, but a member of the La Grande club, won second in the half-mile.

Gene Taylor, of La Grande, went to the finals in tennis and was eliminated by a Portland man. The Seattle baseball team won over the La Grande nine.

About 125 persons from La Grande—two special cars—attended the picnic. Portland sent two special trains—one of 22 cars and the other 12.

There are eight athletic clubs in the O-W. system and each will send 90 men to the system meet in September. There will be contests in golf, track, tennis, swimming, trap shooting and rifle shooting.

MA BEATEN BY MOODY IN TEXAS

(Continued from Page 1)bach's dissenting faction, for control of the party. In a statement last night, the regulars declared that county chairman favorable to them had been elected in the seventy odd counties reporting.

Congressman Wurzbach, the only republican representative from Texas, apparently has a safe lead over his opponent Fred K. Knetsch, from the fourteenth district. Col. Harvey H. Hahne, put up by the regulars headed by R. B. Creeger, national committeeman, seems destined to be the nominee for governor E. P. Scott supported by Wurzbach.

Joyce Hawley Under Observation Today

(CHICAGO, July 26. (AP)—Joyce Hawley, who came into public notice as "the bath tub girl", at Earl Carroll's party in New York, was in the psychopathic hospital today for observation, following treatment for illness from sleeping tablets she had swallowed in her room at a loop hotel.

Dr. Carl A. Meyer, staff physician, asserted after a preliminary examination of the girl's mental processes that thorough tests were advisable.

Miss Hawley, who was discharged a week ago as a cabaret entertainer in Morton grove, a suburb, said she took the tablets as a sedative Sunday after finding herself unable to sleep and feeling despondent over remarks she said had been made to her on the streets since the bath tub incident. Her father, Anthony Daugela, a butcher, expressed the opinion that "it was for advertising."

In the Syracuse Herald yesterday in the Syracuse Herald yesterday was issued at the executive offices today.

ENTERTAIN REALTORS IN WALLOWA

New directors election were as follows: Washington: E. F. Gregory, Tacoma; L. A. Dush, Yakima; Charles F. Nott, Bellingham, Oregon; E. H. Upham, Portland; W. G. Krueger, Salem; Floyd Vaughn, Baker.

A proposed amendment to increase the number of directors to one for each board was not accepted. An amendment increasing the number of vice presidents was adopted by the association.

Among resolutions passed this afternoon were: One requesting the national association to acknowledge as a constituent part of the national association the state associations.

One endorsing recommendations made in resolution IV, VI, VII and VIII designated as joint adventures, deferred payment rates, taxation of real property and uniform mortgage act.

One recommending passage of license laws in British Columbia, Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana.

One recommending to legislative bodies the passage of uniform mortgage foreclosure laws, pertaining to the redemption of such foreclosed property, and property sold for delinquent taxes and assessments.

A resolution printing of proceedings. One in favor of increased payment of dues to the national association (The northwest association is the first to take this action).

One recommending uniting efforts in connection with city planning and zoning in the northwest. One urging the legislatures of the northwestern states to take immediate steps to spread the load of taxation to the end that real estate may be relieved of a part of its unjust burden, and, as a first step in spreading the load of taxes, the legislatures of the northwestern states are urged to submit a constitutional amendment to permit of the classification of property for purposes of taxation.

One thanking the La Grande realtors and all other parties or groups or business firms that assisted in making the tenth annual convention a success.

The reports of both the attendance and credentials committee were also favorably received. Thirty-eight real estate boards from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and British Columbia were represented at the convention, a total of 247 people. One hundred and fifty-seven men registered and 90 women.

Wallowa County Treat Wallowa county citizens were hosts to the realtors and their wives yesterday at a trout breakfast at Wallowa lake served in regular western style with all the fixings. Music was furnished by the chamber of commerce quartet of La Grande, the Madrigal club of Enterprise, and the Trip-City band.

Several of the realtors stayed at Wallowa lake, the rest returning here last night and leaving for their homes. Mr. and Mrs. Culver were unable to make the trip because she was ill. They left for Portland where he will be guest at a meeting of realtors Tuesday.

Wallowa Lake Pratsel All realtors who made the trip were agreeably impressed with the scenic wonders of the lake resort.

The secretary, T. W. Zimmerman, or "Zim," as he is affectionately called by the realtors, remained in La Grande and is here today attending to final matters connected with the convention.

ORDERS INVESTIGATION TORONTO, July 26. (AP)—The Ontario attorney general's department, in collaboration with the provincial police, today ordered an investigation into the circumstances surrounding the deaths of 13 persons in the last three days and the serious illness of several others from what is believed to be alcoholic poisoning.

The object is to ascertain the source of the liquor which caused such havoc both in Ontario and in near by points across the border where it is dead.

PIERCE IN ATTENDANCE

Governor Walter M. Pierce, accompanied by his daughters Loraine and Edith, left La Grande Saturday night for Cheyenne to attend the meeting of governors, Wednesday he will speak on "Western Reaction to Federal Legislation."

The governor was here for the tenth annual convention of the Pacific Northwest Real Estate association.

PROMINENT CLUBWOMAN IS SUICIDE

Just last week she received her appointment to the state chairmanship of the fine arts department, Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs. Although she was already burdened beyond her strength with personal and public responsibilities, she received the new office with delight, declaring that she had never felt more compelled in her life.

Pleased at Honor. "To think I came here a stranger two years ago, and the women of Oregon have enough confidence in me to make me the head of one of their most important activities," she exclaimed to friends.

Never satisfied with even her most prized productions, Mrs. Hendrickson maintained a schedule of from six to eight hours study and writing each day. Eventually, following a serious illness of her mother, she herself suffered in health. But despite the pleadings of her family, she continued to devote herself strenuously to her work. She was even yesterday planning to take some special courses at the university for the rest of the summer.

Gives Under Strain. The tax her relatives and friends believe, was more than her strength could continue to bear.

Lucille Carter was born 28 years ago in Winchester, Tenn., the daughter of an old and venerated family of the south. After her marriage to Mr. Hendrickson, they moved to California, but returned within a year to make their home in Louisiana. She taught English and history in the high school at Freeport for a number of years. About two years ago they came to La Grande. She immediately became an active member of the Presbyterian church and Neighborhood club, and was one of the founders of the local chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution, formed a few months ago.

Funeral Tomorrow. Funeral services will be held at the Spodgrass & Zimmerman chapel at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The Rev. William Cronby, pastor of the local Presbyterian church, will officiate in the Masonic cemetery.

Surviving, besides the husband and children, who are nearly prostrated by the tragedy, are Mrs. Hendrickson's mother, who left just a week ago to accompany her sister, Mrs. J. C. Hale, back to their old home in Tennessee; a sister, Mrs. Allen, of Freeport, and a brother, Robert J. Carter, of Pocatello, Ida.

MAKING PLANS FOR ANNUAL COUNTY FAIR (Continued from Page 1) care of. Among them is the arrangement of additional quarters for the stock exhibits, as exhibits already promised will make a total number considerably above any previous year. The association is also endeavoring to secure some of the attractions from the Pendleton

Round-Up, some of which are shown each year at the Wallowa county fair.

More Interest Seen. Additional interest in the fair this year is shown by various contributions, such as $50 in cash by an Elgin merchant, to be used as a special premium money, and a registered shorthand letter to be donated by one of the breeders in the county as a prize for some competitor in the beef department. La Grande business men have also made donations as high as $25 in cash to be placed on special exhibits.

SMALL CROWD SEES PAGEANT

(Continued from Page 1) county, which they loved so well, to the Indian Reservation. Mr. Hamner displayed much ability as an actor in this episode, but before this scene he sang "War Bonnet," by James W. Evans, writer, director and producer of the pageant, which was given under the auspices of the La Grande post of the American Legion.

Other soloists were: Mrs. Ray Fuller, who sang "The Old Frontier," Elwood Williams, who sang "The Pioneer," and James W. Evans, who sang a comedy number, while several participants danced an old-time dance. All of these songs were written by Mr. Evans.

Praises Pageant. "The pageant from the standpoint of a spectator, beautiful play and the cooperation of those who took part, was all that could possibly be expected, but was a failure financially," Harley H. Richardson, commander of the legion post said this morning. "The legion is very grateful to those who took part."

J. A. Hall, pastor. Mr. Hall is deferring his vacation until assembly and conference of his denomination at Corvallis. The first session will commence Aug. 19, conference opening six days later.

Church Vacation Starts. Services at St. Peter's Episcopal church yesterday were the last until September, when the fall church program will be resumed.

The Rev. and Mrs. Oliver Riley left Sunday afternoon for vacation in Denver. En route home, the rector will respond to an invitation to address a congregation at the Episcopal cathedral in Boise.

Both services addressed by the Rev. C. V. Dunn, pastor, at the Central Church of Christ, were well attended yesterday. In the morning he began a series of discourses on the theme, "The Price of Religious Liberty." The installation of officers for the ensuing year inspired a special program at the evening meeting of the Salvation Army Sunday.
