BOY IS FOUND BY SEARCHERS

PORTLAND, Ore. Aug. 15. (AP) —Jackie Strong, 7-year-old lad, lost for three days and nights in the wooded fastness along the slopes of Mt. Hood, was found by three searchers from Hood River, Ore., yesterday, alive and apparently none the worse for his experience.

The lad, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Strong, of Gresham, Ore., really discovered his hunters, for perched on a rock a 1000 feet above the bed of the Muddy fork of the Sandy river, he heard the searchers fire shots and called out "Hello" to them. The men who found Jackie were L. M. Baldwin, Percy Bucklin and Jesse Puddy. When discovered Jackie was 6000 feet above sea level and told his rescuers that he was not in the least frightened or hungry and expressed disappointment that he had not been able to work his way out of the woods to civilization.

Not Hungry

"I'm sure I could have got out myself," he told his rescuers.

"I'm not hungry,' the boy continued. "I caught three fish and ate them raw and also ate huckleberries. You know my mother read me the story of 'Tarzan' and I lived like he did." The rescuers offered to carry Jackie back the two and a half miles to the Clear Fork ranger station, but he would not allow it and calmly trudged much of the distance unaided.

The recovery of the boy ended a search in which more than 200 persons engaged. Soldiers from Vancouver Barracks, members of the Mazama and Trail clubs of Portland, the Crag Rats of Hood River, mountaineers, woodsmen, forest rangers, Portland police and deputy sheriffs from Multnomah county made an organized hunt yesterday.

Signal Announces Find

The finding of the boy was announced by a prearranged signal, firing of two shots and two more shots after an interval. When the searchers heard the news the woods rang with their cheers and shouts. As quickly as possible Jackie was brought to the ranger camp where his mother awaited him. There was an affecting scene when the boy was restored to his parents.

"Jackie," cried the mother.

"Mumsie" replied the boy.

"My boy—my boy."

And little Jackie was swallowed up in the arms of his mother and father. The parents had held up bravely during the three day search for the seven year old boy. Then they broke under the strain and wept. Searchers, too, wept. Even hardened newspapermen could not keep back the tears.

Jackie Amazed

Little Jackie, still wondering what it was all about, looked on with amazement.

"Don't cry, Mumsie. I'm all right," and he was. Outside of the loss of one tooth and looking a little peaked from his strenuous efforts to find his way out, he was none the worse from wear.

When found Jackie could not understand how so many men could be in the country that he had found so hopelessly deserted in his wanderings. He cheerfully pointed out familiar scenes along the way to the ranger camps.

"It Was Cold

"There's some good huckleberries over there," he pointed out. And then again: "I slept over there in that clump of squaw grass one night. Gee, but it was cold."

When he saw Ed and Ray, his brothers, he said: "I knew you would still be hunting for me."

PRICE MOVEMENT GOING HIGHER IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Aug. 16. (AP)—The main price movement in today's stock market continued upward although an increasing tendency to take profits and put out short lines was noted. Buying orders were spread over a broad list, heavy buying of the rails which sent nearly a dozen issues in that group to new peak prices during the morning being followed by a revival of activity in the higher price industrials, with United States Steel common touching a new record height 158.

The traditional "selling on the good news" brought about an increase of eight points in Dupont on the announcement that the quarterly dividend had been increased from 2½ to 3½ per cent.

Early gains in the active issues from 1 to 5 points with the best showing made by such issues as General Asphalt common and preferred Union Bag and Paper, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Pressed Steel Car and Gotham Hosiery 8½s preferred.

The closing was strong, Tobacco and department store issues especially being favored. Loose Wiles Biscuit shares gave spectacular performance; the common soaring 12 points and the second preferred 17. Meanwhile United States Steel forged steadily into new ground well above 159. Total sales approximated 1,900,000 shares.

Estrada Huerta Aide

Enrique Estrada who gave himself only the modest title of civil engineer was known to the federal agents as General Estrada. One of the leaders of the De La Huerta revolution several years ago and at one time secretary of war in Mexico and comander of the Vera Cruz district. He carried $456 in cash on his person, and other members of his staff captured at the same time had sums that brought the total to more than $1,500.

General Estrada's chief of staff was general Aurelio Spulveda a famous officer of the Mexican army, who said he had been a resident of Los Angeles for two years. He admitted that he was a general in the Mexican army and was booked at the county jail with that title. Earl C. Parker, one of two Americans captured with the party, is president of the Parker Hardware company of this city.

Papers found on the captured Mexicans indicated that they had been employed and given instructions to gather near Dulzura last night. One man, Ospicio Sanchez, apparently a top sargeant or perhaps a minor officer, had a letter from J. T. Deguzan, Culver City contractor, identifying him and introducing him to one S. M. Wilson, of Campo.
