Edward Horton Has Stellar Role in Big Production

Edward Horton, star of "Business of Love," principal picture release showing today only, has since the very beginning of his famous screen career, always enacted vibrant and pulsating roles.

In "Business of Love," one of the decided film hits of the year, he portrays a part, characteristically different from any he has ever interpreted.

As Edward Burgess, a young college graduate with a mind of his own, Edward Horton's policy is: "A man's first problem is to discover what work he shall do."

This edict is directly the opposite of that of his rich uncle who believes that no man is born whose work is not cut out for him.

Thus follows a story which is rich in comedy. In the way the lad outlets a scheming lawyer, and yet full of inspiring sticholitics,ness resultant in success both in business and in an intriguing love affair.

Horton is supported by an exceptionally fine cast which includes: Tom Ricketts, Zasu Pitts, Carl Stockdale, Dorothy Wood, Barbara Bedford, James Kelly, Stanley Taylor, Newton Hall, Tom Murray, Herbert Sherwood and James McIntyre.

Comedically showing "Say It With Hables."

Carey Is Picturesque Hero Of Old Frontier

Harry Carey, in the role of a U. S. Army Scout of fifty years ago, when Indians and white soldiers and soldiers were constantly clashing on the Western frontier, came to the Star theater yesterday and entertained the audience with thrilling deeds of daring and courage, the likes of which are written

Movie Sidelights

(By The Associated Press)

Famous Players-Lasky, which started a few years ago in a barn in Hollywood and expanded over several city blocks, a short time ago sold the old homestead, with resurvey a tear and has moved to a new twenty-five acre estate about three miles from the city. Its old location is being subdivided for store and apartment buildings.

Average several miles west of Hollywood has been purchased by the Fox studio. Exterior scenes for many of the recent pictures of the Fox company have been con-many times on the pages of history.

"The Frontier Trail" is the name of the opus, and the hero is Jim Cardigan, the most trusted scout of the army post.

Mabel Julienne Scott is a happy selection for the role of the heroine. She has dash and sparkle, as well as beauty and talent, and she wears the quaint clothes of 70s as if she felt comfortable in them, though it hardly seems likely that she really was. As the disreputable half-breed Frank Campana is excellent. Aggie Herring and Harvey Clark provide a little comedy relief. Ernest Hilliard is as suave as Lew Cody ever was in the days when he played polished villain roles. Other contributing splendid performances are Charles Hill Malice, Nelson McDowell and Chief Big Tree.

"The Frontier Trail" will be shown at the Star theater for the last time tonight.

Starting Thursday for two days there will be a new show at the Star, "The Escape," a Universal Blue Streak Western featuring Pete Morrison and his wonder horse "Lightning."

Long ago Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer went to Culver City, eight miles from "Columbia and Hollywood," that old time movie center. Cecil B. DeMille and his forces followed them, talking over the former Thomas H. Ince plant. Hal Roach, the comedy producer, also has his headquarters at Culver City.

United Artists is one of the few large studios still in Hollywood. Harold Lloyd also still makes his pictures there while "Poverty Row," that group of independent producers who make their dollars appear in amazing quantities of footage, holds fast.

Color-blindness would be a distinctive ail to the average cameraman, believes Ed. Du Parry, Warner Brothers cinematographer. The colors in sets and costumes, he said, then would appear to the eye in their "black and white" values instead of as colors.

"I Must Tell That To Doris"

Pr-r-r-ing!
"That you, Doris? . . . My dear, what do you think? Muriel's engaged! . . . What? Yes, to Jim. And they're going to be married quite soon—next month, even. Isn't it too thrilling! They're calling round to see me tomorrow afternoon. Will you come along? . . . Right-o! . . ."

That's how Doris was the first to hear about it—on the telephone. What a wonderful institution the telephone is! Always ringing out news. Always handy for a chat with anyone else who is on the 'phone.
