Sister Mary Says

(By Sister Mary)
Breakfast—Sliced bananas, cereal, thin cream, soft cooked eggs, crisp graham toast, marmalade, milk, coffee.

Lunch—Baked cauliflower, spinach, apple sauce, stewed fresh apricots, whole wheat bread, milk, tea.

Dinner—Ham and potatoes en casserole, apple sauce, peach soufflé with vanilla ice cream, graham bread, milk, coffee.

While casserole dishes seem at first thought to be a cold weather convenience, second thought proves their worth for summer. They combine two or more dishes in one, saving cooking utensils as well as serving dishes. One fire only is needed for the combination dish, reducing the heat. Add any casserole dish is ideal for a porch or garden dinner since it keeps hot a long time.

Baked cauliflower is an unusual and delicious dish.

Baked Cauliflower
One head cauliflower, 2 tablespoons butter, 1/2 teaspoon paprika, 6 small triangles of toast, 1 large green pepper.

Separate flowers of cauliflower and let stand in cold salted water for one hour. Drain and rinse in clear cold water. Cook heads up in boiling salted water until tender, but not mushy. Do not cover sauce pan while cooking. Drain if necessary. In the meantime remove seeds and white pith from pepper. Parboil for five minutes, dip in cold water and rub off thin outer covering. Cut in rings. Put cauliflower with butter through a potato ricer into a hot serving dish. Sprinkle with paprika and surround with rings of pepper and triangles of toast. Serve at once.

HEALTH

EDUCATION, THE HOPE OF CIVILIZATION

(By A. L. Hersh, M. D. Oklahoma City, Okla.)
Member Oregon Memorial Institute

Civilization of mankind has progressed in an almost exact ratio with the acquisition of scientific knowledge.

The dark Ages of the world have been the ages of superstition. Medical science has not been slower than the other sciences but it has only been within the last twenty-five years that it has really had anything concrete to offer. Along with the other sciences, medical science has had to contend with the inertia of the masses who still believe in following the paths of their ancestors.

Before scientific medicine came into existence, before the laws of cure were demonstrated, before the cause of devastating and deadly epidemics were understood, so-called schools of medicine had a reason for existing.

But beginning with vaccination for small-pox a new era dawned. Today, one after another in rapid succession, hitherto deadly, epidemic diseases are being wiped out by our knowledge of their cause. Hounding as regular medicine may have been at times, it is true that through this channel and this channel only, these discoveries have come to bless mankind.

The greatest benefit mankind is reaping today from the advances in medical knowledge lies in better health, the prolongation of life and the prevention of disease.

To get the greatest good from these advances it is fundamentally necessary that mankind acquire knowledge sufficient to understand the facts and interpret them. All real progress or reform comes through education. It must "begin at home."

The true reformer is the scientist. But what scientist knows and the people don't know avails nothing. Therefore, the scientist must be a teacher—he must give freely for the reason that mankind never pays anything to those who teach them. It pays well only those who amuse them. Indeed it crucified its greatest teacher.

When science comes into its own, that is, when it is the property of the masses, as even now it is the possession of the few, that universal heat of mankind and enemy of good government, the professional reformer, will die a natural death.

Medical science has made its greatest advance in the prevention of disease. It is just here where the Gorgias Memorial Institute fits in. Its purpose is to disseminate trustworthy knowledge among the millions—to educate them. With the voluntary co-operation of the public, it can make available the great accumulation of useful knowledge for the prevention of disease and the prolongation of life, now in the possession of the scientific profession.

GIRLS NEED NEW TRAINING

BRADFORD, (AP)—The Archbishop of York, the Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, is prepared to take up the cudgel on behalf of the modern English girl in spite of her wilfulness, waywardness and silly little ways, he told a Mothers Union meeting here.

Children of today should be prepared for freedom, he said, for girls would pass out into a condition of freedom that had never before been enjoyed in the history of womanhood.

To fit girls adequately to pass through the trail of freedom, mothers must bring discipline in the home, he declared.

"Rural" Woman's Wardrobe

DUBLIN, (AP)—Examination by the Irish Courts of claims for compensation by the irregular forerunners is affording some evidence as to the style of living even in remote districts of the well-to-do classes.

Mrs. Denise de Vere Cole was awarded 600 pounds for the destruction of her clothes during a raid on her house at Athenry. She had three dozen pairs of gloves which she bought in Paris, paid forty pounds for an evening dress, twenty-two pounds for an afternoon gown and sixteen guineas for a hat. Her shoes cost eight pounds and her night dress six guineas.

THE OPEN COURT

CORRESPONDENTS MUST SUBMIT THEIR NAMES TO THE EDITOR IF THEY DESIRE LETTERS PRINTED.

To the Editor:
From the columns of the Observer we gather that the all important question of the day is the water question in La Grande. It ought to be:

Water is the first necessity of life. Man drew his first breath as he emerged from the element and all down the ages the necessity of an ample supply of water has been the cause of more or less worry and trouble to communities and individuals.

The writer has on more than one occasion attempted to draw the attention of able minds to the solution of this water problem, but up to date notice apparently has been taken of it. All the water necessary for every requirement of man is suspended overhead in the atmosphere continually, only waiting for man to insert his tap and help himself to unlimited supplies.

Even though the water hangs in the clouds over our heads night and day, man, whether Christian or atheist, heathen or evolutionist, white or black, is daily trusting to the God of mercy to send a little rain, not too much, but just enough to fill his particular need.

And thus the great Creator of the universe is expected by the inhabitants of this planet to attend to their wants, no matter what happens to other systems that are creating other suns.

We can by using our Bibles learn that man can control the elements. Elijah did and sealed the clouds for years. He brought rain when he pleased.

The writer feels sure that if some of America's great minds can become interested in the subject the water question will soon be satisfactorily answered without drilling holes in the earth or building walls across canyons.

ENGLAND'S MOST CAPABLE

LONDON (AP)—Viscountess Rhonda, who has been elected president of the Institute of Directors, is regarded as England's most capable business woman. Tribute to her business ability was paid to her by the Hon. Sir John A. Cockburn, when in proposing her election, he spoke of Lady Rhonda as a woman who had proved herself to have one of the cleverest business heads in the country.

"Women generally," he added, "are more equable and more businesslike than men. They do not rise to such heights of disastrous imagination or sink to such depths of despair, and they are less likely to plunge."

500 VIEW VALENTINO

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (AP)—Rudolph Valentino's body today continued to be a magnet for thousands of curious and admiring persons, despite orders barring the public from undrinkers establishments where it rests.

Hundreds were driven away from the doors of the mortuary chapel on upper Broadway by a police guard 400 strong yesterday to prevent repetition of disorders by the unruly crowds that have flocked to the site.

Nearly 500 persons were admitted to see the body yesterday.

WHEN WE THINK THE OTHER FELLOW KNOWS

Some people would be far better off if they used their own judgment rather than placing so much confidence in the judgment of the other fellow. The lack of self confidence has cost many a man a considerable sum. If we were able to think as fast as the other fellow can talk, likely our judgment would save us money.
