After the ceremony the four returned to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William DeShaw, where a wedding dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock. The dinner table was prettily decorated with many bouquets of the season's flowers, candles in harmonizing colors added to its attractiveness. Flowers were also artistically arranged about the other rooms of the home.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. DeShaw and son Clayton, and daughter Irene, and the bride and groom the guests were Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Mead, Miss Gladys Waldorf and Glenn Patton.

Sunday night the happy couple went to their apartment which was furnished and ready for them in the new Sam Harris building on Fir street. In November they expect to visit for two weeks with Mr. Blair's father in Idaho.

UNION THRESHING HALTED BY RAIN

Threshermen in this section of the valley were to have begun threshing wheat again this week, provided no rain fell. Today's and last night's heavy showers will, however, prevent the work from being started for several days. Very little work in the harvest fields was done around here last week.

OFFICE CAT By Junius

If we could remember our own faults we probably could forget those of others.

All that business needs now is more confidence and fewer confidence men.

Don't do nothing too much.

Pretty soon some of the alleged reformers will have us believing that Declaration of Independence was a mistake.

To My Absent Stenographer With how sad steps, O Mayme, I climb the stair, And view my office, now lone by scene!

Oppressed? I sit medown at thy machine. To do my correspond—Neece, one they care, I miss thoo! Not alone THAT thoo! was PAIR

But that thou didst achieve with joyous mein The letters that will driven Mad!

Even thus two days, And Two dates more, I told And could not answer, howe'er I tried!

These devilish boys have all my $6-forts fold. While power of expelling a tone denied!

Ahh, don't wait till my paper's spoiled! Come back, COME BACK again, to bliss and gladde!

In Furniture There Is No Substitute for Quality

THE average woman isn't able to furnish her home more than twice during her life as a housewife. Whether the investment is a few hundred dollars or a few thousand, the furnishing of a home is properly looked upon as a lasting thing—an expenditure that should mean a lifetime of comfort and convenience and charm.

That's why it is so very important that you pay attention to quality when buying furniture. It is not something that is bought every day and it must wear and retain its good qualities accordingly. Even though you may be able to refurnish your home fifteen, twenty or twenty-five years from now, you have a right to expect that the furniture you replace have a resale value and a remaining usefulness for those who come into possession of it.

Our policy of Superior Furniture—maintained over a long period of years—is based on the knowledge that there is no substitute for quality. You naturally want something more than surface beauty and outward appearance for the money you spend—and our reputation and guarantee of quality is your protection on the inner construction, the materials, and the workmanship that you cannot see.

This is the logical time for you to plan home furnishing and changing for the coming winter months. New things are here for you to see—and an easy purchase plan to suit your own needs is always available. We are always glad to show you through this stock, one of the largest in Eastern Oregon.
