One of our customers remarked yesterday as he drove into the lumber yard and parked his car along the side of a good many other cars. His remark was, "All roads lead to Pratt Lumber company." We took in better than $1100 yesterday and that means a lot of hard work. One man had his order made out to a mail order house, for seven rolls of heavy slate roofing. He free his order up and gave us the money and loaded his roofing home. Fall painting has now begun and 25 to 50 gallons a day of paint and oil is a very common occurrence. Just remember, we have all grades of paint, from the very lowest price to the very highest in quality. We have 80 doors that are due today. Some of them are glass doors and some are common, but the price is common on all of them. This is the place for 101 bargains. Claude C. Pratt Lumber Co. NEW YORK, Sept. 8. (AP)—The "seed" of William T. Tilden and Vincent Richards as the No. 1 and No. 2 American players in the draw for the national championship at Forest Hills, N. Y., next week was looked upon by tennis observers as an indication that these two will carry the United States to the United States Davis cup matches with France.

HIGH JUMPING GIRLS

REGINA, Sask.—Male high jump records seem safe from the swimming sex for some time at least. The latest new record by five feet 2 7/8 inches by Miss Ethel Cathers, school teacher. The girls must learn to lean a foot or more higher before they can do an Edgar in the air.

Billy Evans Says

THE DETROIT COURTESY—The Detroit courtiers in baseball often smooths over what otherwise might prove an unpleasant situation. List to this one. Next to striking out, a good batter, noted particularly for his singular ability, hates to pop up for an easy out.

Recently Ken Williams, who a few years ago vied with Babe Ruth for the home run championship in the American League, fouled out three times to the third baseman. The third time, he threw his bat to the St. Louis bench in disgust, while patrons of the nearby boxes, ducked under cover for fear the bat might find a resting place in one of the high-priced seats. Bill McGowan, who was umpiring the ball game, very properly suggested that Ken be a little more careful in returning his bat to the bench via the air route.

Victoria Prepares for 1927 Realty Convention

PORTLAND, Sept. 8.—Elaborate preparations are being made for the entertainment of delegates to the convention of the Pacific Northwest Real Estate Association at Victoria, B. C., next summer, according to N. G. Soule, of Ross-Soule, who returned last week from a trip through British Columbia. Victoria was selected as the convention city at the La Grande convention.

Louis Browns this year has been one of the disappointments of the American League. Picked to be a pennant-contender, the Browns have been a bad seventh all the way. Williams, after the third pop-up, was in no mood to be taken to task for his bat throwing and he told McGowan so in a very few words. He expressed the thought that the umpire seemed to be getting out of his way to seek an argument. "Nothing of the sort," replied McGowan, "I am just trying to explain to you an American League rule."
