RUMOR OF BASE MOTIVES DENIED

"There might be a base motive, I almost blurt to mention it in the jury room, but some might think of it—that I might have been in trouble of some sort and had to go away and come back—I would like to say although I apologize for having to mention such a thing that I had a thorough examination upon coming home, although that was not necessary as the history of my game for 12 years back shows that such a thing would be absolutely out of the question."

Mrs. McPherson said she realized that her story sounded "absurd" and that some times she felt as if she could pinch herself and realize it was all a dream.

STOCK JUDGERS RETURN TO CITY

County Agent Reports Many La Grande People Attending Salem Fair

Members of the Union county stock judging team, Clifford Conrad and Buford Smith, of Imbler, and Lyle Ledbetter, of Albee, and H. G. Avery, county agriculturist, returned to La Grande last night after attending the state fair at Salem. The three boys placed tenth out of 21 at the fair, which was a good score considering the work was new to two of the boys, it is said.

A number of Union county people are in attendance at the fair Mr. Avery reports. Joe Woods, of La Grande, is driving his old stage, which traveled over the Old Oregon Trail in the early days, at the evening horse show. Mr. Oakes is driving the Moss, Ledbetter, Hudson team. A mare and colt, belonging to Willis Moss, of La Grande, placed first against a long string of Percherons at the fair Tuesday.

Bucky Harris Picks Yankees as Winner

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29. (AP)—Stanley Harris, who won a world series championship with his Washington American league team in his first year as manager, doesn't think Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals, can duplicate his feat.

"The Yanks for mine," he said today in discussing the approaching series. "I look for them to be superior to the Cardinals in hitting strength and also believe they will show Walter Hoyt the best pitcher of the championship series."

"Furthermore, I believe their familiarity with both playing fields will give the Yankees a considerable advantage. A club unused to the field in Yankee Stadium can find a pack of trouble there."

visitation to Union county people and especially to those living in La Grande, to attend the fair one day this week. He promises that the trip will be well worth while and a real eye-opener as far as indicating Wallowa's agricultural conditions of today.

A rodeo and racing program opened yesterday afternoon and will be staged each day. As in the exhibit barns, more reapers, more bucking horses and more cowboys are participating.

Union Farmers Win.

In this day and age everyone with a car has it inspected frequently by a competent mechanic, in order that it will not go to pieces long before its time. But with our own bodies we are neglectful. We forget that when they are wrecked there are no spare parts.

Medical scientists have been recording their experiences with sick people for such a long time that the profession knows how to control epidemics. It knows the protective results of vaccination and the administration of antitoxins; the result of antiseptic and aseptic treatment of wounds. It realizes the benefits of improved sanitation and improved living conditions.

permission to stage boxing and wrestling matches during the coming year without paying the usual license fee. The proceeds of these matches are to go toward the American Legion convention fund and the city commission viewed such a waiver of fees as constituting an indirect donation on its part toward the fund.

Lighting Contract Considered.
The matter of awarding the contract for installation of the ornamental street lighting project was taken up and discussed at length after the NePage McKenny company's refusal to accept the contract was read and acted upon. The H. & S. Electric company withdrew its bid and the Hartenbower bid is next lowest, although it is nearly $5,000 higher than the NePage McKenny bid. A suggestion that the work be done on force account by the city was also considered. A meeting of the commissioners will be held Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at which time final disposition is scheduled to be made.

"Our democratic friends," Chairman Butler remarked, "are always scoring victories in July, August, and September, and then promptly losing in November, and in the present case they are playing absolutely true to form."
