WALLOWA PERSONALS

WALLOWA, Ore. (Special).—Many from this end of the valley spent a few days of the past week at Enterprise, attending the county fair. The fair, according to those who have attended, was a big success. The livestock entries have far exceeded those of the past several years. The displays of farm products from all parts of the county were also very good, filling nearly all available space in the large exhibit hall. George Casada was busy the last of the week filling his silos. Ed Bell finished seedling fall wheat at the C. A. Hunter hill ranch the past week.

Charles Klinghammer and wife, of Leap, were visitors here recently.

Many persons over the country have been suffering from a sore of cold during the past two weeks, some being sick several days.

Ed Bell and wife were Sunday visitors at Mrs. J. B. Castine. Eugene Gastin returned home the latter part of the week from Powwatha ridge, where he has been gathering cattle for stockmen.

George Anderson and wife and Mr. Anderson's mother, from Assin. Wash., were in this section of the country the past week visiting friends.

C. F. and Ana Harmon and families, of Leap, attended the fair at Enterprise the last of the week.

John Jacobs, who has been working for Ed Glenn, left the last of the week for the upper part of the valley where he expects to work.

Many of the teachers from Enterprise for the institute the first of the week.

The new two-room school building in Lower Valley has been completed recently, and school is starting there Oct. 6, with J. H. Leonard as teacher in the upper grades, and Miss Lillian Duse teaching the primary grades. The new building is one of the best equipped rural school buildings in the state, according to those who have looked over the finished work.

Star Witness

Miss Peggy Cavanaugh, 23, is being held incommunicado under $10,000 bail at Canton, Ohio as star government witness in the murder of Don R. Mellett, murdered publisher. Authorities say she rode with Patrick McDermott fugitive who is under indictment for the crime a few nights before the murder, and will testify at the trial of Don Hunter and Louis Mazer, his alleged accomplices.

A Home Where People Like to Come!

You know homes like that—where you enjoy going and where the friendly hours are spent pleasantly and comfortably. Those are the homes that are enviable—homes that make life most interesting—homes that are a source of pride to the owners.

Half of the charm of these better homes is in the people who have made them—and half is in the thought and good taste they have used in making a comfortable, attractive interior where they and their friends may feel at ease.

Such homes as these are not necessarily furnished in an expensive way—the desired effect may have been secured with only a very small furniture investment. But good taste, careful selection, and superior quality is evidence in every chair or table, every lamp, every rug and picture.

In your refurnishing for the winter months you'll probably find just the exact pieces needed in the newest additions to our very large stock of superior furniture. They have been selected—both suites and occasional pieces—with a view to the final charm and comfort in your home. Excellent quality is always assured at Bohnenkamp's—and your own convenient purchase terms permit delivery whenever you wish.
