WALLOWA WHEAT OUTLOOK BETTER

Showers and Warmer Weather Give Fall Sown Grain Good Start

WALLOWA, Oct. 7.—(Special)—Fall seed wheat sown this week under new moisture conditions is coming up in good shape, and the outlook is now considered much better for good yield, than at any time since the dry spell started. Many acres which had been sown a long time ago, but which failed to germinate, are now coming up, and the fields are a good deal better than they were a week ago. Some plowing is being done in nearly all parts of the county.

Range Feed

Ranges and other conditions have been better in the dry area east of this county than at any time this year. The rains have made the ranges look green and there is now enough feed for the stock. The ranges in some parts of the county are getting short on feed, however, and some stock producers are selling off their stock. Many ranges in other parts of the county have been dry for some time.

The supply of water is still below the average for this time of year, however, and a large amount of rain and snow will be needed before the water supply will be normal. Many of the streams are low, and the ground is very dry and in many places there is enough moisture to start plowing. Some fall sown grain is coming up.
