School of Music Violin Students Play in Recital

The library auditorium was fairly well filled with interested parents and friends last evening when several violin students of Leo Callen Bryant were presented in recital by the Eastern Oregon school of music. It was the first appearance in public for several of the young musicians and although they were a little nervous at the beginning of their selections the entire program was well rendered.

Margaret Milne opened the program with "Love in Idleness" by Max Reth, after which Clon Caldwell played "Scotch Airs" by Harvey. Ruth Stewart played the valse "Merry Widow" by Lehman. Seville Pratt played a waltz from Faust by Gounod, Eggle Blanchard played "Mazurka in G" by Mytuski; Jennie Nielson, "The Swan" by Saint Saens and Bertha Bantz, "La Poeme" by Dreda. These girls are all advanced violin students and their part on the program last night was very well given.

As a closing number Miss Pratt, Miss Bantz, Miss Blanchard, Miss Nielson and Miss Milne played an ensemble number, which was perhaps the most interesting part of the program. Their harmony was excellent and their time good. The number played was Valse Op. 188 by Dancla.

probably will be consumed by the Reynolds case, C. H. Finn's three suits and the case of Bowman-Hicks' Lumber company against Finn having been continued until the February term.

No trials are set for next week.

Five Cases Set

Beginning Monday, Oct. 18, five cases have been scheduled for trial before Judge J. W. Knowles.

A re-trial of the case of the United States National bank against E. E. Miller, on which the decision rendered under Judge McCulloch last spring was reversed by the supreme court, is set for Oct. 18. The original verdict, favoring the plaintiff, ordered Miller to pay the bank $12,241.44, with $250 attorney's fees and $38.50 costs. John S. Hodgins represents Miller; Cochran & Eberhard, the plaintiff.

Demanding $612 and interest from April 24, 1925, for her services as cook on a farm, Sadie Breher is plaintiff in a suit against Henry T. Hill. Trial will be Oct. 20.

Frank C. Mulloch, of Baker, is her attorney. Ringo & Wright will appear for Hill.

C. E. Happersett's suit against the Motor Transit company for damages to a car wrecked when one of the stage company's drivers is alleged to have crashed into it while the plaintiff's daughter, Mrs. Raymond O. Williams, was driving, is to be tried Thursday, Oct. 21.

Cochran & Eberhard will be Happersett's attorneys. Haley, Raley and Steiner, of Pendleton, will represent the stage company.

Floyd McKennon's suit against E. Zandell, on which a jury disagreed last term, will be re-tried Oct. 22. McKennon's counsel will be Cochran & Eberhard, Zandell's Ringo & Wright.

One Criminal Case

One criminal case, the state prosecuting a charge of embezzlement against M. C. Martin, contractor on Walter Tolman's house, is set for Oct. 23. Green & Hess will defend Martin. Carl G. Helm, district attorney, will represent the state.

Why the Yaquis Are Fighting

This ancient church and reclining plaster saint are the indirect causes of the rebellion of Mexico's Yaqui Indian tribes. Every fall the Yaquis make a pilgrimage to Magdalena, in Sonora, to the statue of San Francisco, shown above. This year the government refused to let them. So they're on the war path.

convention as one of Oregon's delegates, Miss Susanna Deal, of La Grande, primary teacher, spoke on "Primary Education in the East" at the second session of the primary department.

Francis Sucks Charles E. Fransee, an advanced critic teacher at Monmouth, was the speaker for the intermediate and advanced grade session.

"The Problems of Discipline" were discussed by Harold S. Tuttle, of the University of Oregon, before the high school instructors. Mr. Tuttle holds the only chair of methods and moral training in the state. He was called to the Oregon university from the Pacific university this fall because of his success with that course.

In an address on "Fads: Causes and Cures" this afternoon, Mr. Tuttle declared that educational fads are simply a symptom of the need for a change, and should be headed off by anticipation of the needed reforms.

After an invocation by the Rev. William Crosby Ross, Presbyterian pastor, the high school boys' glee club furnished songs. W. W. Nussbaum led community singing. The importance of an "exact intellectual knowledge" was emphasized by Superintendent Turner this morning, as he pointed out the dangers from too many special weeks and observances; too much attention to "teaching" to think without providing the pupil with tools for thinking.

The new education policy manifests itself in three phases, Mr. Turner explained.

"First the almost overpowering discovery of schools by society. We would not have the school divorced from society—go back to the status of academic isolation of 50 years ago—but we must guard lest the schools become a battleground for social reformers of today instead of the training school for social prophets of tomorrow.

The New Curriculum "The new curriculum is the second and great phase of the change. The true end of the teacher should be to stress a well-balanced course through all that is offered, remembering that he is training not a mind, a body, nor a soul, but a man.

"The third phase is the new profession of education, that has arisen in the last few years of greater technique. Formerly, people used to drift into education instead of choosing and preparing to make it a life work.

"You as teachers can do nothing more potent toward bringing about a better condition for educational than to cultivate and maintain a real professional pride.

Superintendent J. T. Longfellow, of La Grande schools, talked to the high school section this afternoon, the other two speakers being Miss Deal, for the primary, and Mrs. Carter, of Monmouth, for the intermediate and advanced.

Eberhard to Speak "The Eastern Oregon Normal School" will be presented in an address by Colon H. Eberhard at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon. The day's program will be concluded with a talk on "Healthy Education" by Mrs. Marie Connolly Harrington, director of health education in Portland. Mrs. Harrington, when she addressed the joint Union and Wallowa county institute here last year, was Miss Connolly, of Portland.

Dr. Carl G. Doney, president of Willamette university, at Salem, will be the principal speaker Friday morning. His address is scheduled for 9:15 o'clock.

E. E. Shelton, secretary-treasurer, of the Oregon State Teachers' association, will speak at 11:15 a. m., on "New Program of the Association."

Tomorrow afternoon's program will open with an address entitled "Background," by M. Edward Smith, of O. A. C., and after the departmental meetings, will close with an address by W. A. Delap, private secretary to Governor Walter M. Pierce.

Miss Mabel Dohy will bring a message from the state library at the closing session.
