

Giant Dirigible Arrives Safely At Ford Airport

DETROIT, Oct. 15 (AP)—The navy's great airship, the Los Angeles, arrived at the Ford airport at Dearborn, near here, at 2:28 a. m. today and was anchored safely to the mooring tower two and a half hours later.

The big zeppelin completed the voyage from the airport at Lakehurst, N. J. to Dearborn, the object of the ill-fated Shenandoah, in slightly more than 16 hours. Weather conditions encountered good and the ship functioned well, according to members of the crew. Thousands of persons waited all night for the arrival of the ship at the airport and cheered as the big gray hulk hove into sight.

Lieutenant Z. W. Hicks, of the Lakehurst airport, was in charge of the landing crew detailed to receive the Los Angeles. The ship hovered above the mooring mast more than two hours. Finally lines were caught and the great dirigible drawn gently down by means of a traveling mooring groove. The landing tower is the newest of its kind, the invention of Herbert Thaden, of Detroit, and the Los Angeles was the first large ship attached to it.

Land Rush Film Reveals Life in The 'Seventies

A Review

The female sex has long held a reputation for being able to tame the wildest of wild men, although there are exceptions to the rule.

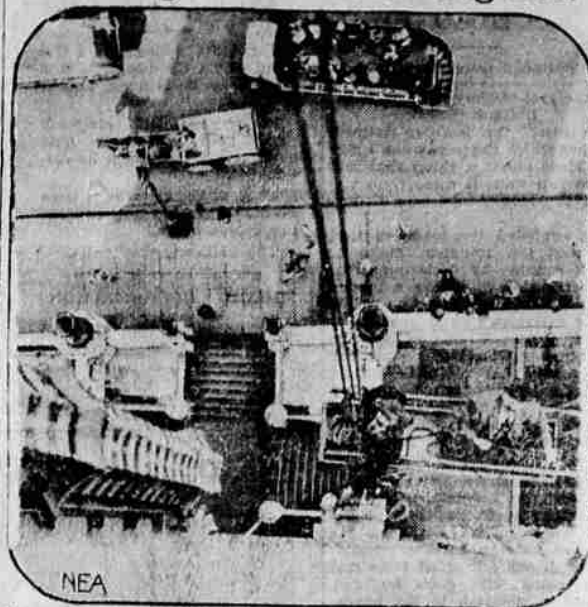

It is especially interesting to watch the change that takes part in the makeup of the three bad men in the picture now showing at the Arcade. When the hard shooting trio take an orphaned young woman under their wings, the results are astonishing.

But the stand of the three against an outlaw band in the latter part of the picture, in order to enable the girl and her sweetheart to reach a gold area ahead of the other land rushers, is something that stands apart. A tear or two may flicker in the viewer's eye and he need not be ashamed. Simple heroism is displayed of a sort that offends no one, and even in the sensational-seeking world of today.

Aside from the story itself, "Three Bad Men" is also valuable in that it realistically portrays the days succeeding the California gold rush by some two decades. The picture may be compared with "The Covered Wagon," but it cannot be classed among the group that came on the heels of the epic of the screen—it deserves a spot for itself.

The cast is well chosen and dramatic bits of acting add much to the whole. "Three Bad Men" ends a three-day run tomorrow night.

Looking Down From "Big Ben"

This is the view—or part of it—that you'd get if you sat on one of the hands of the famous "Big Ben" clock on the tower of the British House of Parliament, London, and looked straight down. "Big Ben" is being repaired, and the photographer went up in advance to get a picture of the hoist bringing up the workmen.

Publisher Will Again Tell of Alleged Frauds

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 15 (AP)—The grand jury investigating alleged corruption in Indiana politics today summoned for the second time Thomas H. Adams, publisher of the Vincennes, Ind. Commercial. Adams charges that high office holders bargained corruptly for political support with D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, culminated in the grand jury probe.

The publisher was the first witness called last Tuesday when the investigation was started and a subpoena was issued calling him to appear again.

William H. Remf, prosecutor, and Attorney General Gilliom, Remf's special assistant in the investigation, expressed the hope that Mildred Mead, 23-year-old girl, who is said to have been a confidante of Stephenson, could also be brought into testify. She has been missing from her home here since last Friday.

Subpoena Issued

Apparently having gained little information from Stephenson himself when the ex-klan leader was brought from the state prison Wednesday officials turned their attention today to persons who were close to him before he was convicted of murdering Madge Oberholzer and sent to prison for life. Subpoenas were issued for several of Stephenson's friends.

I guess from what different ones say that the Rock Springs coal is all right. The Royal coal is a free burning coal and the Rock Springs has to be fired different. When you get the fire started take some ashes out of the ash pan and bank your fire all over but not quite. Leave a hole just big enough for a pack rat to crawl through and they say then the coal burns a long time and burns up very clean. One man was in the office yesterday that is very prejudiced of Rock Springs coal. He said he would burn nothing else. That is what we want to find is people of every description that have their likes and dislikes because we like to please everybody. If you will buy two to six tons of this coal we will deliver it for $11.70 per ton. It is fancy lump and looks nice. There will be no slack and if you don't like it, just call the Pratt Lumber Co. up and we will haul it out of your bin and give every cent of your money back.

Nearly everybody knows what the real plaster board is with plaster between two layers of cardboard.
