EQUAL OPPORTUNITIES For An Education

Some boys and girls in Eastern Oregon go away to college and get advantages of higher education and special training—but hundreds who want to go and who would profit by going must stay home because the distance is so great to state educational institutions that the expense is prohibitive.

Four hundred miles lie between La Grande and the educational opportunities of the state. Four hundred miles must be traversed by the Eastern Oregon boy or girl if he or she is to take training as a teacher in the schools of the state. Scores of our young people would like to benefit both themselves and the people of the state by entering the teaching profession. With a normal school in Eastern Oregon—with educational opportunities more nearly equal those afforded young people of Western Oregon—this would be possible.

Only 16 Per Cent Of Monmouth Normal Students Live East Of Cascades!

The normal school at Monmouth is crowded with young people who wish to fit themselves for teaching positions. Yet it, and the Ashland normal, can provide only half of the trained teachers we need in the schools of the state. And in the Monmouth enrollment only 16 per cent of the students reside east of the Cascades—only 16 per cent are able to stand the expense necessary to get the education they need and desire.

The Eastern Oregon Normal School will help fill the need for Oregon-trained teachers in Oregon schools. It will give Eastern Oregon young people more of an equal chance in education. And it is a project fully approved by school executives and teachers throughout the state. It is our one opportunity to provide more adequate opportunity for our high school students, more adequate training for our grade students.

An Eastern Oregon Normal Will Let Us Enjoy What We Are Paying For

Vote for the Eastern Oregon Normal so that this section may enjoy the educational opportunities we are already paying for. Our taxes help support other state normals, other state schools. Their distance reduces the advantage to our young people and to Eastern Oregon. A normal school in this section will not be a heavy tax burden; it will be supported by the entire state. It's for the boys and girls of Eastern Oregon, for better schools and better teachers, for better and more equal opportunities.
