Movies Will Aid In Teaching of Health, Surgery

MONTREAL, Oct. 29. (AP)—American motion pictures entered a new scientific field today, that of medicine and surgery, sponsored by one of the world's leading medical societies, the American college of surgeons. Will H. Hays, head of the picture industry, joined with the scientific men in the plan to give the entire world the benefits of medical and surgical pictures. The board of regents of the college adopted the report of a special committee advocating the use of movies. Mr. Hays, who spoke at the meeting, expressed the belief that motion pictures could be made a factor in developing a stronger race. He also was on the speaker's program of the convention of the college which convened after the regents' meeting. The special committee suggested that a bureau of information be established in the headquarters of the college of surgeons in Chicago to make available to the medical profession information as to what films are obtainable for both lay and professional use, where such films can be obtained, and whether they are reliable and satisfactory for teaching purposes. The committee suggested that it would be inadvisable for the American college of surgeons to undertake the production of such films, or to enter the commercial field in any way.

DEMOCRAT WIN IN COUNTY IS SEEN BY R. E. BRADFORD (Continued from Page One) lous. "I look for Pierce to receive a two and a half to one vote over Patterson, republican, in Union county and believe that he will carry every county east of the Cascades with the possible exception of Wasco. I am told by reliable sources that he is gaining strength daily in Multnomah county and expect him to poll a large vote there. Recent straw ballots show the trend of the voters in Union county, when Pierce was given a big majority."

Speaking of Haney, he expects a plurality for him in Union county and predicted a 10,000 plurality in Multnomah county "assuring him of a substantial plurality over the state."

"John Hodgkin, who is opposing Congressman N. J. Sinnott, will carry Union county overwhelmingly," he said. "I look for him to show great strength over the entire district. His record in public service here and his general ability make him very capable of holding such an important position."

The vessel burned throughout the night, a lurid sight for the crew of the big wireless station and others on a spit of Eureka bay, until the thick mists closed down.

PEARE PREDICTS REPUBLICAN WIN IN STATE, COUNTY

(Continued from Page One) "Judge Couch will be reelected because he is the right man for the time," the chairman declared. "While the rest of the government bodies have been on an orgy of spending, Judge Couch has been saving dollars for Union county. We would be fortunate to have more public officials like him."

Returning to the discussion of state politics, Mr. Peare declared that "Stanfield has not a chance in the world." "A poor loser never gets anywhere. Had he taken his defeat in the primaries gracefully, his former friends would all have been ready to support him when he got ready to make a comeback. "As it is, every level-headed elector knows that a vote for Stanfield is a vote for Bert E. Haney. "There is the danger that Haney might carry the state. On top of that, the danger that he might give the democrats a majority in the senate. While the present republican president and house would hold a democratic senate from putting its dangerous principles in operation, there is the chance that in 1928 a democratic president and congress might be elected."

Fears "Hard Times." "If they are, mark my words, we'll see hard times," predicted the republican chairman. "History repeats itself, and a democratic administration has never failed to bring suffering for the whole country. Wilson's reign was headed there, but the war in Europe just saved the situation. "We older voters know," the spokesman finished, "but there are many of the younger fellows that won't be satisfied until they try a change. They'll learn, too, that the tariff means good times for the little fellow as well as the big one. When the capitalists aren't making money, there won't be any for the laboring people."

He died Tuesday evening. The decedent had been ill for several months. Mr. Bartholemy returned from a visit to his father's bedside Tuesday morning and returned by the next train on a telegraphic news that the patient was growing weaker. Dombecky reached the front of the bank as the bandits ran from the bank. The robbers opened fire, one of the first shots striking Dombecky in the groin. Looming against the bank Dombecky continued firing until struck by two other bullets. Both bandits who had been in the bank went down before the policeman's bullets, one dying instantly. The other was wounded three times. At receiving headquarters he gave his name as Arnold Porter and his age as 18. The dead man was Carl Porter, 34, brother of Arnold. Cartridges Save Arnold.
