14-Year-Old Boy In Need of Home Rotarians Find

Is there, somewhere in the vicinity of La Grande, a home that needs a 14-year-old boy?

Because if there is, the Rotarians know a homesome lad who wants—and would try very hard—to fill the place. He has no home at all now, except the temporary one provided by these new found friends. For the most of his 14 scanty years, he has not known what it is to have a real one. And unless he finds some kind-hearted folk who want to make a chance for a boy who has never had any, there is only one place left for him to go—the state industrial school.

Willing to Work. He is strong, willing to work and to learn. And he is a good boy. The juvenile court here has a letter from a woman in a Southern Oregon town, where he was placed for awhile, and she writes that she never had to correct him. She is sure she says that she cannot take him again, and hopes that someone here will give him a good home. The boy's parents are living, but not together. Neither of them has made anything like a home for the youngster. They are willing that he should be sent to an institution. But if there is a chance to find a home, spelled with a small "h," the Rotarians are determined that he shall have it.

Does some couple have a home for such a boy, where he could live and go to school and know a little affection? If some one does, the Rotary club would be glad to hear about it. Dr. Hay C. Murphy is the member to notify.

votes indicates an intention to vote the ticket straight. It appears that the whole ticket will go over." Eberhard Confident. Colon R. Eberhard, running for senator from the twenty-first district on the republican ticket professed confidence in his candidacy. "A canvass of the situation in both counties (Union and Wallowa) discloses no dissatisfaction among republican voters for me. I feel confident that the voters in each county will give me a substantial plurality," he stated. "I was one of the few candidates who filed a platform with the secretary of state in the spring. I am still running on that platform, in addition of loyalty to republican principles and candidates. "If I am elected I will oppose modifying the direct primary or substituting or permitting convention nominations. I will oppose legislation similar to the Dennis resolution. I will oppose creation of more boards and commissions with consequent inspectors and snappers. I will oppose more bond issues. I will oppose additional taxes or regulations upon private automobiles. I will oppose efforts to cure by state legislation economic and social conditions. I will use my best judgment and my experience gained in two regular and two special sessions as senator to enact such legislation as is indicated by common sense and the public welfare," he declared, repeating his published platform.

Hunter in Portland. A. R. Hunter, writing from Portland, where he has been called by business, had this to say this morning about his situation as democratic opponent of Mr. Eberhard: "I am confident of election Tuesday. I have stood on my record of many years in the state legislature and on my record for the interests of Union and Wallowa counties. "I am also confident that the Eastern Oregon normal school measure, the La Grande Armory bill, the bus and truck measure and the fish-wheel bill in which I have been particularly interested will carry with a safe margin. I feel that the success of these measures is necessary for the good of East Oregon and the whole state." Mr. Hunter said also that in his opinion "this has been an extremely clean local campaign."

Conch Rests on Record. Judge U. C. Conch, of the county court, said that he preferred to rest on his record. "If what I have done in the past recommends me to the voters, and they return me to this office, then I will express myself in going rather than in making promises," he told me the truth, I am going to be reelected, that's sure." His republican opponent is W. H. Ledbetter. S. R. Haworth, whose name was written in the republican ticket at the primaries for the office of constable, made the following humorous response to a request for his pre-election statement: "If I'm elected, I think perhaps I'll accept the job."

HARVEST MOON BALL DRAWS CROWD OF 300

Every detail of the annual harvest moon ball given by the American Legion post at Zuber hall last evening was a success. It is reported. About 300 persons, including dancers and spectators, attended. Corn stalks and pumpkins arranged at one end of the hall assured everyone that it was harvest time and just above from the balcony the harvest moon smiled down on the dancers. Hundreds of gleaming ornaments hung from the ceiling and glistered in the light caused by spot lights at each corner of the balcony. Members of the drum corps decorated the hall, instructed by Harley H. Richardson, commander of the post. The Rambler's orchestra played. The legion announces another dance for next Tuesday night at Union, when election returns will be received. The proceeds from both dances go to the convention fund to be used in staging the state American Legion convention here next summer.
